Two Plans: Shoot, Hire. Pigs That Dig Truffles. Bankruptcy for Cities. Socialism? It's Here.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

THERE ARE two schools of what might be humorously called "economic thought" in the United States. The first is outlined in a letter signed F. G., addressed to Messrs. Vincent Astor, William Averell Harriman and Mrs. C. C. Rumsey, who publish a weekly.

The writer says he had "no part in the late financial madness," and has nothing left but "obligations fixed by law." He was a builder, employing men, paying wages, and now:

"I stand among my worthless houses and wonder at the wreck of fifty years of economic thrift."

This same "F. G." expresses his idea thus:

"I would like to shoot the worst of the population and put the rest to work for their bread and butter. Why should they live on me?"

The idea, at the opposite end of the scale, is to encourage the worthless, encourage their belief that they are "as good as anybody," give them a thirty-hour week of five days, six hours a day, paying more than was paid formerly for a real week's work, and taking the money in taxes from those whose "base nature and lack of true Americanism" has enabled them to make money.

NEITHER OF the "new era" political schemes will work. This country will not try the experiment of "shooting the worthless population and putting the rest to work for their bread and butter."

Just at present, it is experimenting with confiscation through taxation in the hope of establishing over night a little perpetual-motion Utopia.

BUT THAT will not work, either. In the Perigord region, where muzzled hogs are used to root up truffles that they smell below the ground, it has been found necessary to give the hogs a fair percentage of the truffles. Otherwise, they stop digging. Government will find that its American money digger will also stop digging, if the government insists on taking it away from him as fast as he digs it. He will ask:

"WHY DIG? Why not go on the dole or take a little 'bunch of money,' go to Switzerland or Canada and live at peace?"

THE SENATE has passed, the President is expected to sign a "municipal bankruptcy bill," which would allow cities that cannot or do not want to pay interest or principal on bonded debts go through bankruptcy like a Christian, and get rid of debt.

This will relieve some citizens now taxed to pay interest and principal, and relieve the minds of grafting politicians that have piled up the local debts.

It will not be so pleasant for gentlemen that preach high taxes for others, and invested their own money in tax-exempt securities. Municipal bonds are tax-exempt securities, and under the new law they fade away like the Cheshire cat, leaving nothing but a pleasant smile.

MR. POLLARD, receiver for a bankrupt southern railroad, hearing somebody say something about "government ownership of railroads," remarks solemnly:

"If this should happen, other industries would follow, and a condition of Socialism would prevail."

A railroad receiver is hardly one to speak convincingly against government ownership, for, after all, such ownership could not do worse than make railroads bankrupt.

AS FOR SOCIALISM, while Mr. Orville Wright, one of the brothers that invented the airplane, says we shall have "Socialism in ten years," others, who know what the word means, can tell him and Mr. Pollard Socialism is being tried here now, and also a polite form of Communism.

Socialism is a plan to regulate hours, wages, conditions of work, thus promoting the happiness of the greatest number. NRA is trying to do that.

Communism would take from those that have and give to those that have not, scattering the golden rain upon the just and unjust, the thrifty and the thriftless. This nation is generously doing that with the taxpayers' money.

THAT SOCIALISM has come already seems to be accepted by those that should know. All the assorted tints of "red radicalism" in New York paraded on Tuesday, Europe's Labor Day, one hundred thousand strong, in various groups. Communists, Socialists marched and made speeches as mild as any "mother's meeting." Policemen with "night clubs" prepared for heavy duty, report nothing to do, "not a single skull cracked."

WITH A GOVERNMENT taking it from the prosperous and handing it to the idle, printing billions of bonds, to hand money out more rapidly for public works and relief of all kinds, little room is left for those that tell the masses:

"Arise, throw off your chains. You have nothing to lose but your poverty."

MORE IMPORTANT to real recovery and prosperity than theoretical talk is the red night sky that you may see above Cleveland for the first time in two years. It means that the blast furnaces are operating in Cleveland steel plants. That really MEANS SOMETHING. Highbrows of the brain trust point to it, saying that the red in the Cleveland sky offsets quite a number of Prof. Sorr Wirts looking for a red flame in the President's cabinet.

JUDGE HITS JURY, OUT 42 HOURS

South Hills Boy Held In Jail to Face Theft Charges

Tom Davis, 19-year-old high school youth, was acquitted today in the murder of State Highway Patrolman Herbert Brantlinger after a jury of nine men and three women had deliberated over his fate for 41 hours and 40 minutes.

Although cleared of the murder charge, Davis' troubles were not over. He was immediately taken back to jail on two indictments for thefts. Illinois authorities also requested his extradition on charges of assault with intent to kill and jail-breaking.

Judge W. Heber Dithrich, who received the verdict, criticized the jury for the acquittal. Discharging the members, he said:

"You are now discharged, but, I regret to say, not with the thanks of the court."

COUNSEL QUIZZED

After adjournment of court Judge Dithrich called Chief Defense Attorney Robert B. Ivory, Sr., into his chambers and questioned him about the reported relationship of Mrs. Ivory to Mrs. Helen Davidson, a member of the jury.

Ivory denied that there was any family connection, or that he had previously known her.

Answering the judge's criticism, Herman Locke, foreman of the jury, declared:

"Our conscience is clear. There was no doubt of the boy's innocence."

Worn and haggard after their more than 40 hours of deliberation, members of the jury revealed the arguments that took place while they were locked up.

On the first ballot they stood eight to four for acquittal, the four holding out for first degree murder. Gradually they changed and last night there were only four holdouts for manslaughter. On the ballot before the verdict

Depositors Organize Here; Guffey Silent On Payoff Bill

The drive for passage in Congress of the McLeod bill to release $1,815,000,000 in deposits tied up in closed Federal Reserve banks today reached new heights with these developments:

1—Congressman Clarence J. McLeod, author of the bill, in a nation-wide radio broadcast from station WCAE, said concessions had been made by those opposing his measure, but the fight must be continued to obtain more adequate relief.

2—A depositors' league was organized here and new petitions and telegrams were added to the hundreds of thousands that have deluged Congress urging passage of the McLeod bill.

3—The Allegheny County Real Estate Owners and Taxpayers' League telegraphed Congressman J. Twing Brooks, of Sewickley, urging him to join the other members of the Allegheny County congressional delegation who have actively supported the measure.

M'LEOD ON AIR

In his radio address over the NBC last night, Congressman McLeod said:

"The present session of Congress is rapidly drawing to a close and legislation for the relief of depositors needs immediate and wholesale support if it is to be enacted before Congress adjourns. This support, which is so necessary, must come from the people themselves."

He said the effect of the crash of the nation's banking system would be felt as long as the savings of more than ten million citi-

Make Reflation Work

INSTEAD of dodging behind shoddy parliamentary tricks, the responsible leadership in Congress should meet squarely the issue raised in the McLeod bank liquidation bill.

The principle involved is simple and direct.

There is no need to complicate the money question.

Money is a tool, not a cureall.

Its function is to lubricate the economic machinery whereby the vast social classes—farmers, industrial workers, and the vast service groups—can give employment to one another.

Mere manipulation of the quantity of money potentially available is not enough.

THIS TYPE of approach to reflation has resulted in the mere piling up to an unprecedented extent of unused, excess reserves belonging to member banks.

Excess reserves represent unemployed funds, and idle money is no more productive than labor without employment.

The special merit of the McLeod bill lies in the fact that it offers a practical mechanism for putting funds into the hands of those who will use them wisely to step up the gross volume of business and employment.

The McLeod plan would authorize the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to pay off the victimized depositors in closed banks attached to the Federal Reserve System.

In broad terms, the effect would be to restore economic balance by rehabilitating thrifty buyers, who have been shorn of their customary buying power by bank casualties, over which they had no control.

THE RESULT would be to quicken the flow of goods and services, and to generate self-perpetuating forces making for a genuine revival of full employment and prosperity.

In dealing directly with the focal centers of credit, which have failed to function, the government would forthwith correct the maladjustments which block the return of good times.

In its relations with millions of bank depositors, the federal government would be repairing the injury done to them because they heeded official propaganda against hoarding.

The government would make good the promise

U. S. PROBE ASKED BY BROOKS

Rival Cites Use of Official Stationery By Ex-Member

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—The Postoffice Department today was asked to investigate whether Edmund F. Erk is representing himself as a member of Congress in his campaign for both the Republican and Democratic nominations in the Thirtieth Congressional District of Pennsylvania.

The investigation was requested by Representative J. Twing Brooks (Dem.) who now represents the district, and is a candidate for renomination.

Brooks said that he requested the department to determine whether any postal laws or regulations were violated by Erk's alleged method of soliciting voters.

Erk, who formerly represented the district in Congress, was defeated in the last election. He then became secretary to Representative Muldowney (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, Brooks said:

"Thousands of campaign letters have been sent out to voters asking them to 're-elect' Erk —although he is not a member of Congress."

In the letter, he said, Erk referred to "extraordinary Congressional duties" weighing heavily upon him and forcing him to "abandon my plan of seeing more of you."

Another passage, Brooks said, assured the voters that it would be Erk's purpose, if re-elected, to "continue" a policy of supporting the President.

The letterhead used by Erk, Brooks said, contained the words "Congress of the United States, House of Representatives." No name was given, and postage was paid on the letters, he said.

The envelope, however, Brooks asserted, was similar to official envelopes of members of Congress and had the initials "M. C." on it.

Roosevelt Speaks At Bryan Memorial

WASHINGTON, May 3.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt set aside time today to attend and speak at the dedication of a monument to William Jennings Bryan, just erected on the banks of the Potomac River here.

The statue of the man who, three times, was the unsuccessful Democratic nominee for President and who served as Secretary of State, was carved by the sculptor, Gutzom Borglum.

Rain Mars Parade At Blossom Fete

WINCHESTER, Va., May 3.—(AP.)—Three thousand gaily dressed school children reluctantly doffed their symbolic raiment today as a drizzling rain forced indefinite postponement of the first event of the Shenandoah apple blossom festival.

The festival committee announced that the program would continue with the coronation of Mrs. John Hay Whitney as "Queen Shenandoah XI" in the auditorium of the high school if the rain continues.

Farmer Found Shot, Murder Suspected

CLEARFIELD, Pa., May 3.—(AP.)—Shot in the head, Harry White, 64, a farmer who lived alone, was found dead late last night in his Chest Township home. Police said an attempt had been made to burn the body and expressed the belief he had been murdered.

DICKVICTOR, JR., FOUND DEAD

Richard Victor, Jr., 34, of 1025 Chelton avenue, was found dead today in his garage at his home. He apparently had been asphyxiated by carbon monoxide gas.

The young boys' camp instructor had been reported missing by his family last night. His brother, Robert, found the body shortly after 9:30 a. m.

Besides his parents, the young man is survived by his wife and one child.

U.S. GRAND JURY TO PROBE BANKS

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(AP.)—A grand jury analysis of the banking situation has been ordered by Attorney General Cummings.

A short while before, unsound practices and mismanagement were reported to the Senate Banking and Stock Market Investigating Committee as the causes of the failure of Cleveland's two big banks—the Guardian Trust Company and the Union Trust Company.

Cummings disclosed that the prolonged governmental investigation had considered a large number of transactions which would be drawn together by the grand jury.

The investigation upon which the criminal proceedings will be brought has included state-wide banking chains controlled by the Guardian Detroit Union Group, Inc., and Detroit-Bankers Company.

The situation has been surveyed by the Senate Banking Committee. Department of Justice agents sat in the committee hearing.

During inquiry, Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, questioned various witnesses regarding alleged practices of "window dressing," the seeking of uncollateralized loans from New York and Chicago banking firms and the allegation that bank examiners were asked "to exercise leniency" in making their routine examinations.

Kidnaped Girl's Safety Feared, Hitch on Ransom

International News Service.

TUCSON, Ariz., May 3.—A showdown in the kidnaping of June Robles is imminent. With the truce entered into by all law enforcement agencies to permit full and free contact with her family expiring at midnight, developments were believed near today.

It was learned that Department of Justice agents are prepared to step into the investigation again on a moment's notice providing "developments warrant."

Although all connected with the case have denied that any negotiations have taken place, it was reported today that a hitch had occurred over the amount of the ransom. The original demand for $15,000 was reported at one time to have been reduced to $10,000. Today it was reported that $10,000 had been offered and refused.

To date, so far as can be learned, there has been no response to the demand of the father for this definite assurance through the medium of answers from June herself to a set of four questions.

This failure aroused grave fears on the part of many that the Robles case may develop into another Lindbergh case.

Thompson's Yacht Swept by Flames

CHICAGO, May 3.—(AP.)—Flames early today swept the upper structure of former Mayor Thompson's 200-ton steam yacht, Doris, causing damage from $5,000 to $10,000.

The upper portion of the boat was destroyed before two fireboats extinguished the flames.

RAIDERS AGAIN MISS DILLINGER

International News Service.

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 3.—Federal agents in this district who have been working night and day to run down John (Toy Gun) Dillinger believe the Indiana killer planted the stolen Ford car in which he and his henchmen escaped from Mercer, Wis., in Chicago yesterday to throw his pursuers off the track.

The agents scout the idea he would have abandoned his car on the streets in Chicago where it certainly would be found soon.

Bank Deposit Tax Appeal Before Court

Argument was to be heard today before Superior Court on the appeal of Allegheny county, to test the legality of the Einstein act exempting saving bank deposits from the four mill personal property tax. Orphans Court recently sustained the act, deciding that the estate of James Donnelly, which had been charged with tax on bank deposits, need not pay the tax. The appeal followed.

Debutante Kin Of Kaye Don to Wed

GREENWICH, Conn., May 3.—(AP.)—Miss Sylvia B. Martin, 18, Greenwich and New York City debutante and sister-in-law of Kaye Don, internationally known British speed pilot, and Robert E. Ezequeele, 25, who gave his business as insurance, took out a license to wed yesterday.

Dog Once Dead Learning To Walk for 2nd Time

BERKELEY, Cal., May 3.—(AP.)—"Thirteen," the dog restored to life in the laboratory of Dr. Robert Cornish, is entering the "creeper" stage.

The animal, now in the twentieth day of its second life, attempted to rise on its front feet yesterday, and Dr. Cornish said he planned to rig up a creeper such as used by babies to aid the dog in getting about.

"Thirteen" was revived April 13 after being clinically dead for four minutes.

Meanwhile, Dr. Cornish said further experiments may point the way to a means of reviving the brain after death. He said this in commenting on a statement by Dr. Charles Mayo, surgeon and physician of Rochester, Minn., that the higher part of the human brain cannot be restored.

Dr. Mayo said:

"We know lot about reviving life in the lower brain cells, those that govern organs in animals. We know that they can be dead and revived under certain conditions. But the cerebrum, or that part of which gives the human a mental side, has something in its composition that defies revival after a few minutes."

Dr. Cornish, replying to the statement, said:

"I am entirely familiar with most of the evidence on which Dr. Mayo's statement is based. In my opinion this evidence is not conclusive."

McNair Hut Birthplace Of New Bonus Army

McCready Memorial—the little model house on City property built as an example of what Mayor McNair would like to do for the poor—became a recruiting station today.

The Veteran's National Rank and File, with McNair's sanction, leaders say, placarded the little "home" and set up a desk to take applications of veterans willing to march on Washington, D. C., May 8, to demand immediate cash payment of the bonus.

First notice of the march on the nation's capitol came when placards urging participation in the Washington march were carried in the Communists parade Tuesday.

The new headquarters was apparently the second step. As it opened today, dozens of men in army dress, with service medals on their chests, thronged on the site at Forbes street and Sixth avenue.

STRAWN TELLS ROOSEVELT TO 'QUIT EXPERIMENTING'

CANADA FEARS JUGGLING OF DOLLAR

Tax Saving in Indiana Told to U. S. Chamber By Gov. McNutt

WASHINGTON, May 3.—(AP.)—A call for President Roosevelt to "cease experimenting" and for Congress to stop enacting "hysterical legislation" was voiced today before the Chamber of Commerce of the United States by Silas Strawn, a former president.

Before the same organization W. Sanford Evans, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, said his country had undertaken no specially designed monetary policy to deal with the emergency. But he added:

"Whatever may be true of the past, I would like to issue a warning, that if the American dollar starts on any other excursions, whether hereabouts or thereabouts, we may have to attempt a constructive monetary policy of our own in self defense."

TAXES SLASHED

Gov. Paul V. McNutt, of Indiana, described his state's tax reduction campaign. He said tax collections for 1934 would not exceed $93,000,000, a reduction of $100,000,000 over a two-year period.

The Chicago lawyer ran directly counter in tenor to the generally approving remarks of Henry I. Harriman, present chamber president, concerning the New Deal.

Strawn attacked what he called the abandonment of a scheme of government which has made "us happier and more prosperous than any other nation."

ACTION DEMANDED

He called for a three-way action by Mr. Roosevelt:

Balancing of all governmental budgets; a definite announcement that there will be no more requests for emergency legislation and "no more tinkering with the dollar;" and a revision of the securities act and proposed stock exchange legislation.

Businessmen gathered at the twenty-second annual convention listened to Strawn after hearing Hugh S. Johnson talk on criticism and the throwing of "pop bottles and dead cats" at last night's session.

The NRA chief said his organization had been shaped in part by criticism. Asked directly if the principles embodied in the recovery act were to be permanent, he replied:

"If there has been any good demonstrated by the recovery act, it will live, and it ought to live; if there has been any bad, it will die, and it ought to die."

REFORMS OPPOSED

Malcolm Muir, former NRA official and president of the McGraw-Hill Publishing Company, praised the President but hit the securities act and urged that prospective reform measures have no part in a recovery program.

Strawn said he had been unable to "get in step" with the present procession.

He said he preferred older ways than "adopting a daily portfolio of discordant experiments which seem impossible of being assembled into a new governmental machine." He said:

"I trust I shall not be regarded as unpatriotic when I express the opinion that confidence will not be restored until there is a cessation of experimental legislation.

"In other words, economically and financially we seem to be drifting about on an uncharted sea, hoping that some favorable wind may spring up to carry us safely to port."

BAN DEPUTIES, MINERS URGE

Abolishment of deputy sheriffs in strikes and lockouts was urged today by District No. 5, United Mine Workers.

A resolution favoring that members start an immediate campaign to get such a measure through the next session of the Legislature was enthusiastically passed by the convention in Moose Temple.

District President P. T. Fagan announced that John L. Lewis, international vice president, would be unable to attend the gathering.

The sessions will be resumed today with a report from the committee on constitution.

BRITAIN TO PAY U. S. IN SILVER

LONDON, May 3.—(AP.)—Great Britain is prepared to make a silver token debt payment to the United States in June, it was reported in financial circles today, as a result of the recent drop in silver prices.

While official confirmation was lacking, it is believed probable the British government took advantage of the low price.

President Roosevelt's announced stand against any inflation, following the silver slump has killed interest here in the silver market and it is held likely that Britain took advantage of favorable conditions while they lasted.

The next instalment on the British debt, due June 15, is $85,670,765.

The token payment made at the time the December British instalment fell due was $7,500,000.

NEW SILVER BID BEFORE SENATE

WASHINGTON, May 3.—(AP.)—Senator Thomas (Dem.), of Oklahoma, jolted Senate leaders today with a new silver monetary proposal.

The white-haired, smartly-dressed Oklahoman, who is responsible for much of the New Deal's monetary legislation, brought his new 16-point plan before the Senate as a "rider" to a pending bank bill.

His sudden action surprised Democratic leaders, but they predicted the move would come to naught.

Thomas' latest proposal is the House-approved Dies silver bill in a new dress.

He outlined it as a mandatory propostiion looking to increased use of silver as a monetary base and ultimately to a bi-metalic currency foundation consisting of 30 per cent silver and 70 per cent gold.

There was some question whether the new Thomas proposal would come to a vote in its present form.

Weather Conditions

The disturbance, yesterday off the South Atlantic coast, developed northward along the coast, and is now off the Virginia coast, having caused heavy rains along the immediate coast from North Carolina to New Jersey, and more moderate rains inland as far as Lynchburg, Va., and Harrisburg. Rain continues this morning from Virginia to Massachusetts. Another low, with centers over Colorado and the Canadian Northwest, is causing scattered showers over the Southern Rocky Mountains, the Upper Mississippi Valley and the plains. Weather continues fair over the Lakes and southward to the Gulf, although there is some cloudiness in the Ohio Valley. It is somewhat warmer in the Canadian Northwest and over the plateau, and cooler in the Southern Rocky Mountains and portions of the western plains.

River Conditions

The rivers are falling slowly. Stage at Franklin is 1.9 feet; Lock No. 7 (Mon.), U. S. Pittsburgh, 11.1; Dam No. 4, 9.5; No. 6, 8.2; No. 10, 9.0, and No. 12, 8.6. The dams are up.

SENATE VOTES NEW TAX BILL

WASHINGTON, May 3.—(AP.)—The Senate today completed congressional action on the $417,000,000 tax bill by eliminating the 10 per cent emergency super-income tax for next year proposed by Senator Couzens (Rep.), of Michigan.

The conference report was adopted without a record vote and then also without a roll call the Senate receded on the proposed 10 per cent levy on income taxes which the House had turned down by a big majority.

The measure sent to the White House makes scores of changes in administrative provisions of existing law to tighten them against tax avoidance, levies higher taxes on the transfer of estates, gifts and large individual incomes, and imposes a capital stock and excess profits tax against corporations estimated to raise $95,000,000 a year.

Personal holding companies are taxed a high rate of surtax on their undistributed adjusted net income and corporations, except railroads, may no longer enjoy the privilege of filing consolidated returns for themselves and subsidiaries.

HEFLIN LOSING IN COMEBACK

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 3.—(AP.)—"Cotton Tom" Heflin, a stormy figure in Congress for 26 years, apparently has tripped up on the political comeback trail over which he sought to return to a Congressional seat.

The fiery Alabaman, striving to unseat Representative Miles B. Allgood, of the Fifth District, had only an outside chance today even to enter a run-off for the Democratic nomination. On the face of nearly complete returns from Tuesday's primary, he was last in a three-man race.

With only five boxes missing, the count stood 13,205 for Allgood, 11,035 for Maj. Joe Starnes, of Guntersville, and 10,398 for Heflin.

Some two-score years ago Heflin began his political career as Mayor of his home town, Lafayette. Then from the State Legislature and state offices he stepped into Congress to serve for 26 consecutive years.

Taxicab Drivers Strike in Cleveland

CLEVELAND, May 3.—(AP.)—A strike of drivers of the Yellow Taxicab Company was called by the Taxicab Drivers' Union today following a stormy meeting.

The strike vote followed the refusal of the company to negotiate with the union. Yellow officials say the union is dominated by employes of a rival cab concern, which is not affected by the strike.

WEIRTON RUM PARTY TO WIN VOTE DENIED

No Whisky, Coercion, Company Replies In U. S. Suit

WILMINGTON, Del., May 3.—(AP.)—The Weirton Steel Company says "no faith or credit of any kind" can be placed in the government's charges that officials of the concern used coercion in an election of employe representatives.

Answering the government's request for an injunction to prevent interference with another election, Earl F. Reed, counsel for the company, told the United States District Court yesterday that accounts of dissension at the plants are "the pure fabrication of labor leaders."

SWEEPING DENIAL

The injunction hearing entered its fourth day today with Caleb S. Layton, of Wilmington, Reed's associate, advancing legal objections.

Layton contended that the government's factual allegations have been broken down and quoted decisions purporting to show that the proposed injunction would be more harmful than beneficial.

He began his argument after Reed completed representation of the company's sweeping denial of government charges.

Reed cited affidavits denying that company officials coerced the men and gave the women a party to swing the election in favor of a company union. It was denied that two women "passed out" from whisky, and that anything stronger than "soda and beer" was served.

'GIRLS PAID FOR PARTY'

The girls paid the party expenses, it was stated.

The government has already presented its case and will make its rebuttal argument when Layton concludes.

'HAD OTHER SPELLS'

Reed said his affidavits wholly contradict the government's accounts of the party immediately preceding the Weirton balloting.

One company affidavit stated that one of the women who is alleged to have "passed out" after drinking liquor had "a bad heart and the least bit of excitement caused her to faint. This is not the first time she has had spells. Some time ago on a weiner roast, she had another spell."

COURT RULING HITS COAL CODE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 3.—(AP.)—On the ground that the NRA bituminous coal code is unconstitutional as applied to local business, Federal District Judge Charles I. Dawson yesterday temporarily restrained the government from forcing the code upon unwilling operators in Western Kentucky. He set May 11 for a hearing on a permanent injunction. Judge Dawson said:

"To my mind the unconstitutionality of the act as it applies to local business is simple and conclusive. Looking at the code in its most favorable light, it can be no more than a private contract with the President acting as umpire.

"If I accept it as a contract, it is perfectly ridiculous to subject one of the parties to a fine by the government. If it is a contract, the District Attorney has no right to proceed against one of the parties."

He added he was not "conceding that the code is a contract" and reserved jurisdiction on that point.

EXCHANGE BILL PASSAGE NEAR IN HOUSE

Amnedment to Reduce Margin Requirements Thrown Out

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Passage of the Rayburn stock market bill by an overwhelming vote in the House appeared assured today.

With the bill now in the amendment stage, Chairman Rayburn (Dem.), of Texas, of the House Interstate Commerce Committee, was driving for passage by late today or tomorrow.

The bill passed its first big test in the House today when an amendment cutting the initial margin requirement from 45 to 40 per cent was rejected on a viva voce vote. The amendment was offered by Representative Kennedy (Dem.), of New Jersey, and attacked by Representative Rayburn as a "chiseling amendment."

MODIFICATION ASKED

Liberalizing amendments were proposed from both the Democratic and Republican sides, with Representative Bulwinkle (Dem.), of North Carolina, seeking creation of a special commission to administer the bill. The measure makes the Federal Trade Commission the administrative body.

A fight over the margin provisions was slated, with efforts made to cut the 45 per cent initial margin provisions on stocks down to 33 1-3 per cent. Representative Kenney (Dem.), of New Jersey, urged this change.

The House, without objection, approved provisions of the bill stating its policy to prevent manipulation, requiring registration of stock exchanges except those exempted by the trade commission, and an agreement by exchanges to abide by regulations of the federal body.

BRITTEN MAKES CHARGE

Representative Cooper (Rep.), of Ohio, planned to offer amendments minimizing control of the trade commission over the affairs of corporations.

Cooper declared there are 27 places in the bill where violation of rules and regulations of the trade commission becomes a penal offense.

Representative Britten (Rep.), of Illinois, charged that Thomas Corcoran, counsel for the RFC, and Benjamin Cohen, lawyer for the PWA, sat in secret session with the committee in drafting the bill. After he declared that Cohen virtually wrote the bill in committee, he withdrew his remark on demand of Representative Pettengill (Dem.), of Indiana, who asserted it was a reflection on the committee.

VANADIUM MEN ON STRIKE

Seeking recognition of their union, 50 employes of the Vanadium Corporation at Bridgeville were on strike today.

Early settlement of the controversy was expected, however, as officials of the company met with a committee representing the striking employes.

Approximately 150 men are employed at the plant, but only about one-third, officials declared, are on strike.

Only a few men are on picket duty, and there have been no disorders.

Robbed

GRETA NISSEN

GRETA NISSEN'S GEMS STOLEN

LONDON, May 3.—(AP.)—A well-dressed burglar robbed the home of Greta Nissen, actress, of $5,000 worth of jewels early today.

A brother, awakened by the thief, fought the intruder until he broke away and escaped as the actress shouted, "Police, police!"

Miss Nissen's home is near the fashionable Park Lane.

Cities or immediate vicinity was afforded last night when a crew of heavily armed federal agents closed in on a house in Mineapolis which chey had been guarding for a couple of days. They fonud no trace of Dillinger.

International News Service learned that the address of the house was obtained from a telegram sent to Chicago, that a woman sent it, and that she is being closely shadowed.

The belief is held here by many agents that Dillinger was shot and wounded, possibly seriously, either in the fighting near Mercer, Wis., or in the batle that took place here a day later. The bandit, they think, is hiding out and probably seeking medical attention through underworld connections.

CHINESE FEAR NEW JAP INVASION

Admiral Seeks to Unite Country Against Nipponese

By JOHN GOETTE
International News Service.

PEIPING, May 3.—Japan is planning a military invasion of South China and occupation of its coastal cities, Admiral Li-Hsi-Chia, vice minister of the Navy, reported to the national government today.

The invasion, the admiral declared, will take place within the next 60 days and the populace of the provinces of Southern China already is extremely nervous and apprehensive.

Admiral Li-Hsi-Chia is now in Nanking, where he hastened aboard a gunboat, to obtain the support of all of China against the Japanese threats.

More than 50 Japanese army and navy officers, the admiral reported, are now in the interior of South China, photographing military strongholds and gathering other strategic data in preparation for the reputed invasion. Likewise the Japanese third fleet is constantly steaming off the Chinese coast, adding to the alarm of the populace.

Japanese are expected to use as a pretext for the invasion, Admiral Li-Hsi-Chia said, the failure of China to settle outstanding debts due Japan.

Anglo-Japanese War Over World Trade Looms

LONDON, May 3.—(INS.)—An Anglo-Japanese trade war of world-wide proportions was foreseen today.

Walter Runciman, president of the British Board of Trade, and Asuneo Matsudaira, the Japanese Ambassador, conferred today. Runciman is understood to have informed Matsudaira of the possibility that Great Britain will impose quota restrictions on Japanese shiments to British territory unless the Japanese modify their attitude.

The Japanese, it is understood, have refused to negotiate a new trade agreement on the basis of world markets. They insist that the agreement cover only trade between Great Britain and Japan.

The British, alarmed at the spread of Japanese activity in world markets previously dominated by Britain, seek to broaden the scope of the trade agreement to protect her industris against Japanse competition.

SPARKS FIRE IRON WORKS

A two-alarm blaze swept the four story building of the ornamental iron works of Taylor & Dean Company, 2418 Penn avenue, late yesterday, and caused damage estimated by firemen at $8,000.

Firemen attributed the blaze to the ignition of turpentine by sparks from a weaving machine on the second floor of the building. Three men were said to have been painting there.

Dense clouds of smoke hampered firemen upon their arrival at the scene, and a second alarm was sounded. Firemen were forced to put on smoke masks when they entered the building to find the source of the blaze.

ORDER DISPLAY FOODS PACKED

City food inspectors are co-operating with state employes in requiring foods displayed in stores to be wrapped in dust-proof containers.

All food stuffs with the exception of fresh vegetables come under an order issued by Health Director Ray P. Moyer. All restaurants, groceries, meat shops, street stands, delivery vehicles, bakeries, and food manufacturing plants are included under the regulations.

Many merchants have already made the necessary changes. It is understood that the city and state will co-operate if prosecutions are necessary, according to Dr. Moyer.

Girls Drunks, Rum Law Sham, Borah Charges

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Young girls entertaining bar-room crowds. Drunken girls. Girls mixing and serving drinks. Liquor law enforcement a sham.

Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, made these charges before the Senate yesterday in the first general indictment of conditions under repeal.

The Senate at first received the charges in silence. Then Senator Walsh (Dem.), of Massachusetts, indorsed Borah's remarks. Walsh, who opposed the wide-open conditions of the old "saloon" days, declared Borah's speech was the first for "restoration" of the Eighteenth Amendment.

While not mentioned on the floor, action of New York state in permitting drinking at bars was regarded in administration circles as a blow at repeal and violation of the pledge against return of the saloon.

Senator Sheppard (Dem.), of Texas, father of the Eighteenth Amendment, told the Senate the Constitution should be amended to prevent "debauching and dangerous" conditions now prevailing.

Meanwhile, President Roosevelt indicated there would be no reduction at this session of Congress in the liquor taxes as proposed by Joseph H. Choate, Jr., head of the Federal Alcohol Control Board.

U. S. Fortifying in War On Underworld

WASHINGTON, May 3.—(AP.)—Attorney General Cummings told reporters today the Department of Justice was planning to add to its crime-fighting force about 270 investigators and to purchase a supply of automobiles, armored cars and machine guns.

Cummings said an additional appropriation is desired in order to better equip the department for the battle against the underworld.

The motor equipment of the division was characterized as "pitiful." He said:

"You can't match a man who has a car that will 60-? miles an hour with one that will go only 45 miles an hour."

The move to fortify the department in these respects, he explained, was not due to the Dillinger case, but it illustrated the need for more power. Cummings added:

"We need public support. People who applaud Dillinger's picture on the films, as they did here in Washington the other day, make it difficult for law-enforcement agencies to carry out their work."

He said that state and local jail methods were "disgraceful."

ARMY OFFICER ARRESTED AS ACCOMPLICE

French Secrets Bought Through Classified Columns

PARIS, May 3.—(AP.)—A German spy and his alleged French accomplice are in prison today because the French Secret Service read the want ads.

Stanislaus Krauss, former Polish army officer, was such a persistent spy, police said, that he sought a new source of military information for Germany by advertising in the classified columns.

The arrest of Krauss in Paris was announced yesterday after police said he confessed participa- which led to the arrest of Capt. which led to the arrect of Capt Froge, of the French army, who allegedly sold Krauss official secrets for $6,500.

Two Germans have been arrested in the same case. They were charged with sending into Germany important military documents bought by Krauss from the French officer. One, as yet unidentified, is held at Metz. The other, Joseph Peter Moeller, already has been convicted and sentenced to two years' imprisonment.

TRAPPED BY WANT AD

Police charge that Krauss has spied in France under many aliases for four years. They say he resorted to the classified advertising columns of Paris newspapers after he lost contact with Froge whom he met in 1931.

About three months ago, secret operatives got on the trail of Krauss when they began investigating want ads in which a person named Tworyt offered loans on easy terms to government employes and army men.

RECALL PERSHING HOAX

The officer informed his superiors. Agents laid a trap in Paris and Krauss was arrested.

Today a force of detectives and secret police were investigating the activities of Capt. Froge at the fortified town of Belfort, near the Franco-German frontier.

The Army officer's lawyers demanded an immediate hearing for Froge today. They declared it was "suspicious" that a new witness had been aligned against him just when French operatives were on the point of concluding he was not involved in the asserted plot.

Belfort, one of the spy centers of the World War, was the scene of a famous hoax Gen. John J. Pershing pulled on the Germans. Gen. Pershing sent officers to Belfort to uild up elaborate headquarters and "lose" their plans to convince the Germans an attack was planned at Belfort instead of at Argonne as actually was the case.

4TH WIFE SUES JOHN GILBERT

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 3.—(AP.)—John Gilbert's fourth marriage has found its way into the divorce courts, where the other three marital ties of the one-time great lover of the screen have ended.

In filing a divorce action yesterday, Miss Virginia Bruce described the actor as "arrogant, violent and abusive." The actress said he was cynical of her intelligence; refused to have her parents around and insisted she was extravagant. Miss Bruce asked $150 a month for the support of their infant daughter, and $92.31 a week for herself for three years.

Married in 1932, the screen couple separated several months ago, at which time Miss Bruce said divorce appeared to be the only solution of their difficulties.

Like Miss Bruce, Gilbert's three divorced wives were actresses—Ina Claire, Leatrice Joy and Olivia Burwell.

Thanking a Juror for Her Son

MRS. THOMAS A. DAVIS, JR., EXPRESSING HER THANKS TO JURY FOREMAN HERMAN LOCKE

DAVIS CLEARED IN KILLING

was finally reached the count was ten to two for acquittal.

MOTHER SOBS

Brought into court to hear the verdict, Davis stood quietly at the side of his attorneys, Thomas B. Ivory, Sr., and Thomas B. Ivory, Jr. He faced the jury and heard Foreman Locke read the finding. He showed no emotion.

The quiet of the courtroom was broken only by a sobbing scream of Mrs. Thomas A. Davis, Sr., his mother, who again collapsed and was carried from the courtroom. She quickly recovered, however, and went with her husband to the jail to visit their son.

Tom was held in a total of $30,000 bail. One of the indictments charges house-breaking, the other the theft of an automobile. A technical charge of involuntary manslaughter in connection with Brantlinger's death also is lodged against him, but will probably be dismissed. Assistant District Attorney Earl R. Jackson fixed Davis' bond.

BOND BALKS RELEASE

The boy's father and attorneys said it was unlikely they would be able to post the high amount of bail.

If Davis succeeds in clearing himself of the other charges, he will resume his studies in the senior class of the South Hills High School, Davis, Sr., said today.

Although the courtroom was jammed when the foreman read the jury's verdict, there was no demonstration. Judge Dithrich had warned the crowd against any show of feeling.

Taken back to the jail, Tom was cheered and congratulated by other prisoners. He seemed too dazed to make any comment, although he had confidently predicted that he would be acquitted during the trial and deliberations.

Before leaving the Courthouse, Foreman Locke amplified his reply to Judge Dithrich's criticism. He said:

CONFESSION IGNORED

Asked about Davis' purported confession, Locke replied:

"We passed that up because State Police used third degree methods."

Mrs. Jean Anderson, Mrs. Florence Shoureck, Homer N. Miller and John Coleman were original holdouts for conviction, their fellow members of the jury said.

At times the arguments in the jury room became heated, it was revealed today. One of the jurors, a man, last night launched into a speech upbraiding the holdouts and condemning them for blocking acquittal.

The trial of Davis lasted eight days. The jury got the case at 5:15 Tuesday and brought out its verdict at 10:55 a. m. today.

Judge Dithrich did not preside at the trial. Judge J. Frank Graff was the trial judge and delivered the charge to the jury.

Davis was charged with the fatal shooting of Brantlinger while he was allegedly robbing a gasoline station near Bridgeville, last September 3.

He left home shortly thereafter and was arrested in Carlyle, Ill., where the purported "third degree" confession was obtained. He also escaped from the jail there, being recaptured the same day.

Kamons Appeal Cited In Fight of Davis

Louis J. Kamons, whose release from Western Penitentiary and extradition to Ohio to stand trial for murder required a special act of the Legislature, today renewed his fight for freedom.

Returned to Western Penitentiary after his acquittal in Cleveland, Kamons has asked the Superior Court to order his release on habeas corpus proceedings.

He contends that when he was turned over to Ohio authorities Pennsylvania forfeited its right to reclaim his custody.

Kamons is serving a five-to-ten-year sentence from Beaver County for arson. He was accused of murder in connection with a Cleveland apartment house fire. After his return, early this year, he asked Common Pleas Court to order his freedom. The present hearing is on appeal.

Attorneys saw a parallel in Kamons' case with that of Tom Davis, acquitted by a jury today on a charge of murder, who is also wanted by Illinois authorities. It was pointed out that the decision in Kamons' case may influence action in efforts to extradite Davis.

PULITZER PRIZE VETO STIRS STRIFE

Reports of Anderson Play's Rejection Rouses Critics

NEW YORK, May 3.—(AP.)—A storm of debate broke in Broadway theatrical circles today over published reports that the drama jury had recommended "Mary of Scotland" as the 1933 Pulitzer prize play, but that the advisory board of the Columbia University school of journalism disagreed and chose "Men in White."

At Columbia University, it was pointed out that the awards would not be made public until the trustees appropriate the funds next Monday for the monetary prizes which accompany the Pulitzer awards.

The advisory board alone, under the provisions established by the late Joseph Pulitzer, publisher, who created the Pulitzer prizes and scholarships, has the authority to determine the winners. An official announcement is set for Tuesday morning papers.

AWARD FOR NOVEL

Caroline Miller's "Lamb in his Bosom" was reported by the New York Post to have been selected by the advisory board as the best novel by an American after the jury on letters had recommended another book.

Clayton Hamilton, a member of the drama jury, was quoted by the Post as calling the board's action "outrageous." He was quoted:

"I have learned that the committee frequently has overruled the juries in the past and has overruled them in nearly every field this year, especially as to the prize novel. I don't know what to do about it."

"Lamb in his Bosom" is the first published novel by Mrs. Miller, wife of the school superintendent at Baxley, Ga. It is a story of South Georgia in ante-bellum days.

WED ENGLISH TEACHER

Mrs. Miller, a native of Waycross, Ga., wrote the novel four times before submitting it to New York publishers. Now she is at work on another book, tentatively called "King's Daughter." She did not attend college, but married her high school English teacher, William D. Miller.

"Men in White" is by Sidney Kingsley, a 27-year-old actor. It is the story of an interne's struggle between devotion to his profession and a desire for a happy private life, with all the scenes laid in a hospital.

Alexander Kirkland, Margaret Barker and Louis Bromberg have the leading roles in the production, staged by the group theater. It is still running on Broadway.

INSULL SHAKY, NEARING U. S.

International News Service.

ABOARD S. S. EXILONA, May 3.—Drawing nearer to the United States and his Chicago trial, Samuel Insull was forced to "pull himself together" today to defeat a bad case of "nerves" which had come over him recently as the Exilona brought him close to his "zero hour." The indicted utilities magnate declared today:

"I am not going to lose my nerve."

"When a man has a clear conscience, he has nothing to fear. If I had not had a clear conscience I never could have stood what I have already have been through."

After having been apparently at ease throughout the trip from Instabul, Insull yesterday became extremely nervous. When a steward accidently dropped a smoking stand Insull turned quickly and exclaimed to him:

"Haven't you any nerves?"

Madagascar Likely Haven for Trotzky

PARIS, May 3.—(INS.)—Leon Trotzky, exiled Russian Communist leader, may be forced to live on the remote island of Madagascar, French possession off the southeastern coast of Africa, it was indicated today as the time limit for his stay in France expired without his having found refuge in another country.

Every country approached refused Trotzky permission to live within its borders, and France therefore was forced to accept him.

George V Linked To Putting Dogs Above Children

LONDON, May 3.—(AP.)—The name of King George was brought into debate in the House of Commons last night, contrary to strict house rules, as Aneurin Bevan, Laborite, charged the canine pets of the country's wealthy are better provided for than children of the unemployed.

Bevan declared the monarch is a patron of dog homes in Surrey where expenses for dogs range from about 30 cents to 45 cents a day, according to size, while 18 cents daily is charged for boarding cats.

Despite a warning from the speaker against "bringing the name of the sovereign into this debate," the laborite member said:

"The Sovereign of this country is the patron of this dogs' home and if there is any decency in this country people would not say you can keep a child on two shillings a week while a dog can not be kept for less than nine shillings."

He was answered by Kingsley Griffith, a liberal:

"No doubt the dogs' home mentioned or similar homes were in existence in July, 1924, when legislation to increase the allowance to children of the unemployed from two to three shillings a week was voted down, largely by labor votes."

PARENTS ASKING BABIES' SEX CONTROL

'Test Tube' Feature In Needed Eugenic Plan, Says Doctor

Universal Service.

CHICAGO, May 3.—With "test tube" babies bringing the possibilities of motherhood to every woman, the next thing doctors, mothers and fathers want is to determine the sex of the baby.

Dr. Karl Meyer, medical director of Cook County Hospital observed today, in regard to the statement that 100 test tube babies had been born in New York in recent months:

"Test tube babies are old stuff to the medical profession and to breeders of fine cattle. What everyone now wants, but does not have, is some means of ordering the sex of the new child.

"Fathers beg for ways to make the child a boy, and mothers clamor for a girl. But science can give them no help as yet. The new baby remains a surprising package and just has to be taken as it comes.

"Parents order color of hair and eyes, height, and even want assurance that the synthetic baby will not have bowed legs. Sometimes science can help with these things. But announcements that the sex of the child can be controlled never hold up under test."

Some definite eugenic planning, with test tube babies as one of its features, he said, is certainly needed:

"European countries outstrip us in their research and practice in eugenics. Improvement in the human species is necessary and it must be planned. Twenty years from now America will be a land of inferior people if we continue to lag behind other nations in this matter."

Another Chicago doctor, Victor D. Lespinasse, said that he has brought about 60 blessed events by the artificial method.

SCHOOL STRIKE TRUCE CALLED

CANONSBURG, Pa., May 3.—Agreeing to a "truce," pending negotations, 600 striking Canonsburg High School students returned to their classes today.

The student walkout came in protest to the Canonsburg School Board's failure to re-elect Hugh T. Duffy, head of the school's commercial department, for next semester.

At a meeting of students and parents last night a joint committee was named to meet with the board in an effort to persuade members to rescind their action dismissing Duffy.

What future course the students might take should the board refuse this request was not indicated today.

SCOTCH $1.75 ON RUM LIST

HARRISBURG, May 3.—(AP.)—The Liquor Control Board today announced that a new state store price list, to become effective soon, will include Scotch whiskies at $2 and $1.75 a fifth.

Several new items are to be added to "key" stores. Generally they are rare brands, for which there has been little demand. Customers asking for them at stores, which do not have them in stock, will be referred to the nearest store that carries them.

When the new list goes into effect, reduced prices on about a dozen brands of blended whiskies, ordered to help deplete warehouse stocks, will be withdrawn.

The new Scotch whiskies will be a blend of 20 per cent imported whiskies and American distillates.

Cannibal to Preacher, History of Hiawatha

WASHINGTON, May 3.—(AP.)—Hiawatha, mighty fighter, mighty hunter of Longfellow's legend, was declared today by the Smithsonian Institution to have been all of that, and a cannibal to boot.

Hiawatha, the Smithsonian said, finally got the better of his man-eating appetites and reformed into a preacher of the doctrine of human brotherhood.

Dr. J. N. B. Hewitt, the institution's authority on the famous Iroquois League, asserted today he was convinced Hiawatha was more than a legendary figure and that there was proof he actually lived between 1550 and 1600.

Hiawatha, he said, was one of the founders of the league, sometimes known as the Six Nations, which played an important part in early American history.

His cannibal traits were a matter of tribal custom. He dropped the practice after becoming a disciple of the great Iroquois lawgiven Dekanawida, who preached the doctrine of human brotherhood and built the Iroquois League around that idea, Dr. Hewitt said.

Beauty, Husband Both Resent Divorce Terms

PAWHUSKA, Okla., May 3.—(AP.)—The marriage of Mrs. Norma Smallwood Gilcrease, the "Miss America" of 1926, and Thomas Gilcrease, wealthy oil man, was dissolved by a divorce today, but neither was satisfied with terms of the decision.

Gilcrease, who was granted the divorce on grounds of extreme cruelty and neglect, was awarded custody of their 6-year-old daughter, Des Cygnes L'Amour Gilcrease, and ordered to pay his former wife $72,000 alimony and $12,500 attorneys fees.

Both the plaintiff and the defendant filed notice of appeal when the ruling of Judge Jesse Worten was handed down last night at the end of two and one-half weeks of bitter accusations.

The former beauty champion was accused of illicit relations with other men, and with conspiring with her mother, Mrs. Mahala Smallwood Dickerson, to defraud Gilcrease of his property.

Gilcrease was ordered to pay the alimony at the rate of $200 a month, the payments to cease automatically in the event Mrs. Gilcrease remarries.

PASTORS HERE FOR NATIONAL LABOR UNIONS

National labor unions are favored over company or local unions by an overwhelming majority of clergymen in the United States, as a means of bringing about a more equitable economic system.

A summary of votes cast in a poll conducted by Kirby Page, of New York, nationally-known liberal, showed 11,304 ministers for the national union; 2,567 for the company union and 5,712 in doubt.

FAVORS COMPANY UNION

The Rev. W. L. C. Samson, of the Ninth United Presbyterian church, this city, was among those who came out for the company union. He wrote:

"I favor local company unions. The national labor organizations are the biggest, most tyrannical racketeers in our land."

The opposite view is taken by the Rev. A. T. Carr, Presbyterian, of Bentleyville, in the Washington county coal fields. He says:

"If corporations organize, labor must have the right to unionize. Labor unions are never more arbitrary than corporate financial bodies, never, never, never."

Of 89 Pittsburgh clergymen who voted, 48 favored the national unions, 12 the company unions while 29 were in doubt.

CURB ON WEALTH

Reformed capitalism with a drastic curb on wealth through inheritance taxes, limitation of income and other means is the economic system urged by a majority.

The vote on various alternatives stood: Drastically reformed capitalism, 10,691; Fascism, 111; Communism, 123; Socialism, 5,879; some other political system, 1,695.

Fifty-six Pittsburgh ministers voted for reformed capitalism, 21 for Socialism and four for unrestricted capitalism.

Among those listed as favoring Socialism were the Rev. Dr. M. B. Fuller, pastor of Emory Methodist Episcopal Church, and the Rev. Dr. Bernard C. Clausen, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

The ministers of the nation voted five to one for compulsory unemployment insurance.

HUSBAND SUES STAR SWIMMER

LOS ANGELES, May 3.—(AP.)—Alleging his wife, Olive Hatch Voight, former national champion swimmer, worried him and caused him to lose much sleep, Hubert L. Voight, film studio publicity man, today had filed suit for divorce.

Voight also charged his wife was seen frequently in the company of other men, and displayed a violent temper by striking him, breaking furniture and threatening his life.

Voight expressed willingness to pay his wife $100 monthly alimony for six months until she could become self-supporting.

LINER GROUNDS IN N. Y. FOG

NEW YORK, May 3.—(AP.)—The Hamburg-American liner Albert Ballin was stuck in the mud in New York Harbor for seven hours early today when she ran aground in the heavy fog which forced an American Airways liner with 18 people aboard to make a spectacular forced landing on a Staten Island beach last night.

The Albert Ballin, bound for Hamburg, grounded some distance outside Quarantine at 1:30 a. m. It was not until 9 a. m. that a number of tugboats, aided by the high tide, succeeded in floating her. She proceeded on her course.

None of the passengers of the plane, bound from Chicago to Newark, was injured. The pilot, unable to find the New Jersey airport in the fog, circled over the metropolitan area hoping it would lift, until his gas ran dangerously low, when he made for the beach and succeeded in landing on a strip only 200 feet wide.

LONDON, May 3.—(AP.)—A composing stick which Benjamin Franklin used when he was a jorneyman printer in London in the early eighteenth century was presented today to the Franklin Institute of Arts and Science, of Philadelphia.

The relic was donated by the ancient society, the Worshipful Company of Stationers and Newspaper Makers.

REFUSE SUBSTITUTES

LOEB DEFENSE USED BY FABER

DEDHAM, Mass., May 3.—(AP.)—The basis of a Leopold-Loeb defense for Abe Faber, of the Millen-Faber gang, was laid today by Dr. Evelyn Mitchell, called as a psychiatric expert by William R. Scharton, counsel for Faber.

Through Dr. Mitchells' testimony, Scharton tried to show that Faber was completely under the domination of Murton Millen who, with Faber and Murton's brother, Irving, are on trial charged with slaying a policeman during a bank robbery on February 2.

Dr. Mitchell testified that Murton was the only person Faber was intensely interested in. She quoted him as saying that his fiancee was a nice girl, but she could never "fill the place of Murt." Tests she made, the witness said, convinced her that Faber considered Murton a great leader and one he would follow regardless of consequences.

In the Loeb-Leopold case, in which two rich Chicago youths were convicted of the slaying of little Bobby Franks, the defense of Loeb was based on a claim that Leopold completely dominated the activities of Loeb. Scharton said he was trying to show that Faber's every move was designed to please Murton and that he followed Murton blindly.

DENTISTS HOLD CLINICS

Clinics held by the Pittsburgh Dental Assistants' Association at the Pennsylvania State Dental Society meeting in the William Penn Hotel, concluding today, demonstrate that a dental assistant's duties include making scrap books and entertaining visitors.

The clinics cover many phases of a modern dental assistant's work. Roberta M. Grossman, associate president, explains that the scrap books are made to interest waiting patients who haven't time to read a longer magazine story. A doctor, she says, also expects his assistant to entertain children.

Other activities demonstrated are a study of dental anatomy, plaster work, of direct assistance to a dentist, and the care and sharpening of dental instruments.

Hopeful Town Challenges Nudists

HADDON TOWNSHIP, N. J., May 3.—(INS.)—This community today flung a challenge to all nudists who would disturb the civic equanimity by their presence.

"If we can get a nudist colony now we can collect at least $200.

"For 76 years the township has gotten along without this law, but there have been rumors of nudists starting a camp in this neighborhood and it's always best to be prepared."

BUILDING WORK GAINS IN STATE

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, May 3.—Giving the first indication of improvement since last September, building permits issued in 75 Pennsylvania municipalities showed an increase of $477,438 in March over the same month of 1933, the Department of Labor and Industry reported today.

Permits issued in March were for construction to cost a total of $1,683,614 as compared with permits for work to cost $1,206,176 issued in March, 1933. Home construction, non-residential building and alteration and repair work all showed gains.

Thirty-one of the 75 cities showed increases for the month, the largest boost being in Philadelphia, where construction work increased 100.6 per cent. The largest decrease was in Wilkes-Barre, which dropped 72.6 per cent.

The report noted that indications point to "some measure of revival in residential construction this spring."

PA. HOME LOAN OFFICER QUITS

PHILADEDLPHIA, May 3.—(AP.)—A second official of the Pennsylvania branch of the Home Owners Loan Corporation has resigned, but reports of a "wholesale shake-up" are "all news" to Stanley H. Horner, now in charge of the branch.

Orson N. Ritzman, of Reading, former Berks county register of wills, sent his resignation to Horner yesterday with no explanatory statement. Jacob H. Mays, of Womelsdorf, quit as Pennsylvania home loan manager on April 13.

Horner was brought here from Washington to replace Mays. He said:

"We are making a survey and a thorough investigation of the loan situation, but I know nothing of any drastic shake-up."

Farm Sale Fight Blamed on Reds

PLENTYWOOD, Mont., May 3.—(AP.)—Communists were accused by Sheriff Hans P. Madsen today of having led a group of farmers in a battle against peace officers at a mortgage foreclosure sale near here.

The farmers, who said they were members of the Montana Holiday Association, clashed with Sheriff Madsen and 30 deputies yesterday when the officers attempted to sell a harvesting combine upon which a threshing machine company had foreclosed.

BRITISH RULER GAY AT RACES

International News Service.

NEWMARKET, England, May 3.—In an unusual, carefree "vacation," King George is enjoying himself at the races this week just as though he were an ordinary citizen.

Although royal etiquette prevents his appearing in public absolutely incognito, the King is doing this as nearly as possible. He is virtually unguarded.

Queen Mary has remained in Windsor Castle, but the King has his daughter, Princess Mary, as a companion.

DIVORCED STAR HINTS PEACE

HOLLYWOOD, May 3.—(AP.)—A Mexican divorce parted Corinne Griffith and Walter Mitchell Morosco today, but the brunette screen actress said all was not over between them.

A few hours after the decree was obtained in Juarez, Mex., yesterday the actress said the action represented the only immediate solution of their problems, but "there is a very good chance for reconciliation."

No grounds were cited in the divorce, the laws of Chihuahua, Mexican state in which Juarez is located, permitting divorce by mutual consent.

Morosco, son of the stage producer, Oliver Morosco, filed the action several hours after he arrived in Juarez by airplane. Miss Griffith, who remained here, said he would return to Hollywood today and "we shall be very good friends." She refused to discuss any reason for the divorce, saying it was "purely personal."

AGED 'ABRAHAM' OF STAGE DIES

NEW YORK, May 3.—(AP.)—Jesse Shipp, the "Abraham" of "The Green Pastures" and one of the pioneer Negro talents of the stage, is dead at the age of 75.

He was a performer, playwright and producer of the Williams and Walker era, and a prolific writer of sketches and plays for all-Negro casts.

Coming to New York at the age of 19 from Cincinnati, Shipp became a minstrel man. He clogged, sang, served as end man and wrote skits. He was with the Primrose and West minstrels from 1885 to 1889. Later he signed with Bert Williams and George Walker, who were to become the best known of all blackface teams.

Shipp's first hit show for Williams and Walker was "In Dahomey."

Shipp became ill about a year ago and had to give up his role of "Abraham" in "The Green Pastures."

CINCINNATI GIRL DELIGHTED LOST 18 POUNDS FIRST MONTH

READ WHAT SHE SAYS: "My idea of SYL-VETTE is that it is the most wonderful discovery for reducing on the market. I have tried other methods, but this is the only one which gave me results and kept me from being weak, tired, and irritable. I used one jar of SYL-VETTE, and by substituting it for one meal a day I lost 18 pounds in a month. I can recommend SYL-VETTE without reservation. It does not harm the system in any way and positively does prevent hunger."

Miss Myrtle Land,
Walnut Hills, Cincinnati, O.

NO DRUGS — NO THYROIDS — NO SALTS — SYL-VETTE IS A FOOD

SYL-VETTE is a drugless, safe system of weight control, a condensed hunger-satisfying food substitute of which one teaspoonful equals a breakfast or a lunch.

SYL-VETTE not only satisfies hunger, but supplies nourishment and strength - also prevents sagging muscles, wrinkles, and that distressed, haggard look so common with other reducing treatments. That's because SYL-VETTE is rich in non-fattening proteins and carbohydrates.

HERE'S PROOF—19 out of every 20 users lose 3 pounds or more the first week - 10 to 15 pounds a month - which is pronounced safe by doctors. Economical, too, - 30 slenderizing meals $1.00.

MORE WAR VETS BACK FIGHT ON COURT

Another group of war veterans today came to the support of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and associated Hearst newspapers in efforts of the newspapers to combat attempts of internationally minded groups to force this nation into the League of Nations and the World Court. Members of William Harry Davidson Post No. 114, American Legion, of Vandergrift, Pa., have gone on record opposing any action toward entrance of this country into the League.

To combat the attempts of propagandists to bring about the entrance of the United States into the league, the Hearst newspapers are circulating a monster petition protesting to Congress any attempts toward entrance into the League.

10,000 PETITIONS

More than 10,000 petitions are being circulated in the Pittsburgh district.

Adjutant G. A. Whitacre, of Post No. 114, sent the following letter to the Sun-Telegraph:

"I have been directed by unanimous action of this post, to convey to you the sentiment that any action of the United States leading toward membership in the League of Nations or World Court is vigorously opposed by all those present at this meeting."

SCORES PARTICIPATE

The action of the Vandergrift post is similar to that taken by scores of veterans' organizations in this district. Members of both the Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars are doing much to help obtain names for the monster petition which is to be presented to the Foreign Relations Committee of Congress.

More than 40,000 signatures have already been received at the Sun-Telegraph office, a large number of them from individuals who take advantage of the petition printed each day in the paper. Many patriotic individuals have circulated petitions among their friends and neighbors.

Larger petitions can be obtained by writing to the League Court Editor, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh.

PETITION AGAINST PARTICIPATION In the LEAGUE of NATIONS and World Court

If you want to save America from European entanglements and keep your country out of foreign wars, and foreign wars out of your country, sign this petition:

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE UNITED STATES SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES:

We protest AGAINST the United States participating in the League of Nations or in the World Court of the League of Nations, with or without "reservations."

We petition our Federal Government to keep our United States "free from foreign entanglements," as the Father of Our Country wisely enjoined.

We urge our Congress at Washington to keep our government from meddling in foreign affairs, and to keep foreign nations from meddling in our American affairs.

As loyal American citizens, we ask our loyal representatives to keep our country out of foreign conflicts and complications and to keep foreign conflicts and complications out of our country.

NAME ADDRESS

Additional names may be added to this petition by pasting a sheet of paper hereto. PRESENTED through the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

SENATE TO HEAR LEAGUE FOES MAY 16

WASHINGTON, May 3. — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has set May 16 as the date for a public hearing on opposition to American entry into the League Court.

Foes of the treaty will be given two hours in which to present their objections to the committee.

Representatives of veterans, fraternal, business and religious organizations will be heard.

Friends of the court were given a similar hearing a month ago.

CUPID LENDS COURAGE TO BUSINESS

CROWN POINT, Ind., May 3.—(AP.)—Here's another "business recovery" indication for May—the increasing number of marriage knots tied at Indiana's Gretna Green. Howard Kemp, the marrying justice, said:

"Times have been plenty tough, but we're staging a great comeback. During the depression our marriages were off 25 per cent, but the 'recovery crowd' is coming in nawodays in great shape.

"Most of the bridegrooms are young fellows who have just got back their jobs in the mills and factories. The brides, of course, are the usual type—girls who have taken their cue from the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

'War Scare' Used To Force New Tariff Bill

WASHINGTON, May 3.—The administration is using all the tricks in its bag to get its tariff bill through Congress. It had to.

In that secret caucus of Democratic senators the other night, the leaders even trotted out a war scare. They whispered confidentially that the administration believed there would be a war within two years and that tariff bargaining was the only way to try to stop it.

That frightened the boys half out of their wits, or at least helped to hold them in line.

If defeat of the tariff meant war, they had to support the measure on the ground of patriotism.

War possibilities probably will grow exceedingly remote as soon as the bill is enacted.

INSISTENCE

The truth is that the senatorial leaders themselves would have liked to have chucked the tariff bill out of the window, but the White House would not let them.

Their objections were entirely political. They have no idea that the White House is going to bargain away American tariffs, but they knew it would be a hard job to get the bill through, and they doubted the practical wisdom of trying to do it now. They sidetracked the plan last year by such objections.

This time, Mr. Roosevelt insisted.

FINIS

From London and Washington, the word has gone out that the Far Eastern incident is "settled and closed." This really is only a diplomat's way of saying that the incident was too hot to handle now and has been ducked by all parties for the time being.

The British and American diplomats wish it was settled and will act as though it is, but they know it has only started.

EVENTS

Every insider realizes that what happend was this:

The Japanese carefully passed out unofficial word that they were getting tired of too much interference in China by Great Britain and the United States.

London and Washington did not know how to handle such an unofficial front. London finally sent its ambassador in Tokio around to the Japanese foreign office for an explanation. So did the United States. The explanations they got were thoroughly indefinite, but very, very sweet.

London gleefully announced the incident closed, but added that Japan could not appoint herself master of China. Our State Department said it was closed if the Japanese meant what we hoped it did.

The Japanese also said the incident was closed, but Japan could not remain a mere spectator in China.

Those are powerful "buts" and "ifs."

PROSPECTS

All it means is that everyone has agreed to wait until a specific occasion arises before pressing the matter further.

The occasion will arise if the Japanese try to stop some American aviator from teaching the Chinese, or some American airplane manufacturer from sending his planes to China.

Our big diplomats are afraid such an occasion will arise soon. They already are passing around the word to newsmen here that they should not get excited if our diplomatic relations with the Japanese get into a tangle.

BOOTLEGGING

The Choate report about rampant bootlegging was an exaggeration, so far as Washington is concerned.

Nearly all the bootleggers here have gone into the retail liquor business. By hook or crook, they managed to get licenses and are quite content to handle legitimate trade.

The only bootlegging which is noticeable now is in poorer communities where a cheap product is sold. Some of illicit rye makers in Southern Maryland are still doing business for such customers as care to make automobile trips down there, but the business does not amount to much.

Repeal is not yet effective in Virginia, across the river, and bootleggers there are still carrying on as if nothing had happened.

Congressmen are very angry at the Alcohol Control Board because it has snubbed them, declining to follow their recommendations. Senator Wagner always goes home to get angry. It is against his principles to get angry in public. He is home now, fuming about the statement made by his helper, Milton Handler, counsel of the National Labor Board, who announced a disagreement with the labor policy laid down by President Roosevelt in the automobile strike. The announcement came just at a time when Wagner was trying to get White House support for his new labor board bill. Senator Dill is trying to get Prosecutor Pecora to conduct the forthcoming senatorial investigation into A. T. & T. and public utilities. The man behind the investigation is Commissioner Splawn, of the ICC, who dug up all the material on the A. T. & T.

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

No doubt you have remarked it before—but diagonal lines really do cut the apparent size of the figure in a magic manner. That is why this is such a slenderizing gown—nearly every line in it is a diagonal one. Have you examined the back view with the care it deserves? Aside from all this, the design itself is a very good one—good from the standpoint of being smartly fashionable! The natural inference is that if you are looking for something in which you will appear slim and well dressed, this is it. Gayly dotted percale or broadcloth, or dimity would make up beautifully.

Pattern 1679 is available in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 takes 3¼ yards 39-inch fabric and 1½ yards binding. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send 15 CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

"I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Tablets enough for the way they have helped me," says Mrs. M. Grill, 1001 E. Clay Street, Shamokin, Pa. "I always suffered a great deal of pain each month. I felt tired and sick all the time. In the morning I was dizzy and faint. Usually I had to stay in bed a day, sometimes only half a day. TAXPAYER UNITS AWAIT FINAL RALLY HERE

The last of a series of statewide rallies of taxpayers groups is to be held in the Chamber of Commrce Auditorium Friday afternoon, May 11, under the auspices of the Allegheny County Real Estate Owners and Taxpayers League, in conjunction with the Tax Justice League of Pennsylvania. At the meeting the results of the questionnaire sent to candidates for state offices to determine their stand on tax relief legislation, will be announced.

Among the speakers will be H. L. Shank, president of the Tax Justice League; Dr. Henry K. Ober, former president of Elizabethtown College; E. B. Dorsett, past master of the State Grange; A. S. Kemper, executive secretary of the newly formed Taxpayers Forum, and I. Leonard Aronson, president of the Allegheny County Real Estate Owners and Taxpayers League.

While it is expected that a number of candidates will be present to personally make known their stand on the league's platform, the organization will not sponsor any candidates. The results will be made known, then the members of the various leagues can decide for themselves on the proper candidates, Aronson said.

The executive committee of the local organization will meet with state officers of the league in a morning session in the auditorium. This meeting will be followed by a luncheon to be attended by the speakers and the executive committees of the state and county organization.

One of the important points in the platform of the state and county organizations is consolidation of governmental units in the interest of economy; creation of a state tax commission to review the budgets and bond issues of municipalities and a constitutional convention to modernize the state's 60-year-old constitution.

Facts About Stones in the Kidney

I can think of no affliction more painful and more distressing than stone in the kidney. If you have ever witnessed the agony of a victim of this disorder in an acute attack, you will agree with me that it is terribly painful and alarming.

Dr. Copeland

Stone in the kidney is a trouble that has afflicted mankind since pre-historic days.

Modern science has perfected a surgical method of treatment for this painful disorder. Within the past quarter of a century, this operation has been revised and improved to such an extent that it is no longer considered as a serious and dreaded ordeal.

Contrary to a popular notion, stone in the kidney cannot be dissolved or destroyed by medicine or diet. Many afflicted with stone avoid medical advice for they fear an operation. This is a foolish attitude.

In the long run they resort to surgery because they can no longer stand the pain. Unfortunately, it may then be too late to save the diseased kidney. But early recognition and proper attention then will save a great deal of unnecessary suffering.

When kidney stone is allowed to remain for an indefinite time, inflammation and infection may occur. The stone may block up the passage and lead to a damming back of the urine. "Hydronephrosis" is the big name given to this complication.

"Pyonephrosis" is another complication of neglected stone of the kidney. In this condition, the tissues become inflamed and laden with pus. Unless surgery is immediately resorted to, it may be necessary to remove the diseased and damaged organ.

The sufferer from kidney stone should avoid all fried and greasy foods, salt, peppers, spices and condiments. Drink a glass of water every hour. Avoid the tendency toward faulty bowel elimination.

Answers to Health Queries

A. M. Q.—Is olive oil of any benefit in the case of a dry scalp and hair? What treatment would you advise? 2: What should a young man of 21, 5 feet 7½ inches tall, weigh?

A.—Yes, any oily preparation will help this condition. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question. The general health is apt to be a factor under such circumstances. 2: He should weigh about 142 pounds; this would be about average for his age and height as determined by examination of a large number of persons.

The dentists are in town fellows!

And they have on display all the wonderful things that men have invented to repair the teeth. And more wonderful yet, they have artificial teeth to take the place of our natural teeth if we lose them.

But the dentists will tell you, too, that nothing takes the place of healthy natural teeth. A filled tooth isn't quite as good a tooth as a sound tooth. And false teeth aren't as easy to eat with as our own teeth.

We should all try as hard as we can to guard our teeth and to take care of them. But if they become defective, we should go to the dentist right away. If you wait, because you are scared of the dentist, your teeth are almost sure to get worse instead of better.

Now here is a letter from Bobby Towne, of 1269 Washington road, Mt. Lebanon, Pa. He writes:

"I am writing to tell you about the fishing trip I took. One summer when I went up to the lake I was going along the lake with my dad to the dock and I met my uncle. So all three of us went in a motor boat to fish. This was the first time I ever fished. When we had gotten to the middle we threw out our lines. I was the first to catch one and I let it swallow the hook, but I caught him just the same. And it was a bass. My dad caught six and my uncle three and me only one. But I was proud of that."

Say, we'll bet that was a lot of fun, Bobby! Have you had any other good times and adventures? Write and tell us about them. You bet we'll try to send you a pin to take the place of the one you lost.

The dramatized highlights in the romantic history of iron and steel date from 1495, when Emperor Maximilian gave the Armorers' Guild a rush order for knight's apparel.

The activities of Andrew Carnegie, energetic Scotsman who quadrupled the tonnage of Pittsburgh's steel mills with the unfolding of the commodities that have made Pittsburgh world famous.

Studio Tax May Affect Audiences

By AIRCASTER

At the moment when crusading against studio audiences seemed to be delegated to the list of lost causes, the possibility develops that the municipality of New York may bring about their banishment by imposing a tax on them.

In the trade papers one reads that the City's License Commissioner already has levied an impost on the Columbia Playhouse.

It is argued that as long as audiences are accommodated, free or otherwise, the studios constitute theatres and must take out a license.

A $500 tax multiplied by the number of studios in the NBC buildings, would become a tidy sum, and the radio companies are considering passing the tax fee to commercial patrons.

WLW OPENED

A button pressed by President Roosevelt in the White House in Washington last night started in operation the new 500,000-watt transmitter of WLW here as the world's most powerful radio station.

Powel Crosley, Jr., owner of the station; Lieut. Gov. Charles Sawyer, of Ohio; Thad Brown and Harold La Fount, of the Federal Radio Commission, and David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America, participated in a dedicatory program.

Erected primarily to provide a consistent, long-distance range, the transmitter cost approximately $500,000. Its power is rated as 10 times that of the next most powerful station in the United States.

Globe Trotter

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

Something to be done. Here is Andrew T. Park, busy with the many duties that fall upon a District Attorney, and what do you think I found out. Well; Andy, has been engaging in an activity heretofore thought to be within the sole right of the Globe Trotter. He has taken a request to recover a lost dog.

At present there is nothing under the NRA to invoke to prohibit Mr. Park from what I consider unfair competition.

However, if he persists in taking requests for lost dogs I am going to make a general announcement about it throwing all the "lost" business on his shoulders and ask that he come out actively in the open if he wants the job of Dog Catcher of Allegheny County. (That ought to make the D. A. quiver).

Today is compliment day, I can see that.

I am glad that Mrs. Carney doesn't own a cuckoo bird.

Mrs. B.—The Old Age Pensions will be administered through the Mothers' Assistance Fund. The setup isn't complete yet. When the time comes for making applications I will announce it here and on the radio.

FOES WAVERING, M'LEOD TELLS DEPOSITORS

Addressing a mass meeting yesterday noon in the Nixon Theater, McLeod said the government ultimately would not lose if it took over the deposits of closed Federal Reserve banks and liquidated them during a period of 10 years as proposed in his bill.

LEAGUE ORGANIZED

Supplementing the efforts already put forth in behalf of the bill, the Depositors' League was organized to petition Congress and disseminate information concerning the progress of the measure.

Congressman McLeod said the names of 50 more Congressmen must be added to the list of adjournment of the House tomorrow if the supporters of the measure are to be successful in bringing his proposal to a vote.

FAIL TO SIGN

There are 19 Pennsylvania Congressmen who have not signed the petition to discharge the House Rules Committee from consideration of the bill. Discharge of the committee is necessary to obtain action.

The Pennsylvanians unsigned are:

Beck, Waldron, Stokes, Darrow, Frey, Kinzer, Boland, Richardson, McFadden, Rich, Doutrich, Cochran, Walter, Haines, Snyder, Faddis, Berlin, Crosby and Brooks.

Congressman Ransley also has not signed the petition, but he is a member of the Rules Committee and ineligible to sign.

House leaders have said the bill will pass if it is brought to a vote. Many of those who have not signed the petition have said they are for the pay-off plan.

I. Leonard Aronson, president of the Allegheny County Real Estate Owners' and Taxpayers' League said a telegram was dispatched to Congressman Brooks, lone Allegheny County representative who has not signed the McLeod bill petition, urging him to sign at once to bring the measure to a speedy vote. Aronson said the league has more than 55,000 members.

ARABIAN RULER CRUSHES FOE

LONDON, May 3.—(AP.)—Ibn Saud, ruler of Saudi Arabia, was reported today to have crushed the ancient kingdom of Yemen, captured Hodeidah, and sunk armed ships in Hodeidah Harbor with his modernized army artillery.

The Imam of Yemen, ruler of the country, was reported assassinated in a revolutionary outbreak.

The British government moved rapidly to protect its nationals and British property and to prevent any organized uprising of Arabians.

Warships including the sloop Penzance were dispatched to the area. H. M. S. Enterprise, a cruiser, was ordered from Mombasa, East Africa, to Aden in Southwest Arabia.

British Reforms Rejected in India

CALCUTTA, India, May 3.—(AP.)—The Indian Nationalist Party—the Swaraj—announced today that it has rejected the British plans for Indian government reforms on the grounds that the proposals are "calculated to perpetuate the economic subjection of the Indian people."

Pay Bank Depositors

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE UNITED STATES CONGRESS:

As an important help toward national recovery, the undersigned urge passage of the bill introduced by Representative McLeod, now before Congress, which provides for paying in full depositors of closed banks which belonged to the Federal Reserve System.

Toward this end we urge that the RFC make loan arrangements with the closed banks.

This procedure would give positive stimulus to business by converting frozen, idle and at present useless bank deposits into immediately available purchasing power.

implied in its statement that it was safe for the public to continue to have faith in its banks.

In effect, it would merely make retroactive the principle of deposit insurance, which is now applied to solvent banks.

EVEN if it should cost the government something to accomplish this restoration of credit and buying power, the constructive results in the direction of increasing the national income would make the expenditure well worth while.

As an alternative for extravagant outlays for made-work and for pure relief, it would represent a sound investment on the part of the federal government.

But, according to Representative McLeod's conception, the government would be lending little except TIME.

Against its advances, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation would be secured by the assets of the closed banks and by the double liability of its stockholders.

Though such assets might prove inadequate at this time in a forced sale, Representative McLeod believes that, if the Reconstruction Finance Corporation were authorized to hold them for as long as ten years, it would realize handsomely on them by waiting for opportune occasions for gradual liquidation after prosperity has been fully restored.

THE M'LEOD plan would not only do justice to the bank creditors, namely, the depositors, but also to the debtors of the banks, whose obligations are held in bank portfolios.

Instead of permitting receivers to "crack down" on bank debtors and force them to pay up at any cost under subnormal business conditions, the McLeod formula would give them plenty of time and would reduce the interest rate to 4 per cent.

The petition to bring it to a vote on May 14 should be signed.

The people insist that they face the issue.

Instead of soaking and harassing business, Congress should speedily pass the McLeod bill, and thus contribute notably to re-employment and trade expansion.

M'LEOD MAKES RADIO PLEA

The text of Representative Clarence J. McLeod's address on his bank payoff plan, in a nation-wide broadcast from Station WCAE last night through the facilities of the National Broadcasting Company, follows:

More than a year has elapsed since the crash of the nation's banking system. The reverberations have not yet died away and will still be heard and felt in our economic system as long as we allow the savings of more than 10 million patriotic citizens to remain tied up, useless and unproductive, in closed banks.

The potential consuming, purchasing and employing power now lying dormant in the frozen assets of closed banks is enormous. In the meantime, millions of honest, hard-working, loyal and patriotic Americans, representing the very finest type of citizens, are in dire distress.

CRITICAL SITUATION

This critical situation, this cause of distress and suffering, this hindrance to recovery, can be corrected within a few weeks. All that is needed is for the United States government to carry one step farther the relief that has already been extended closed banks. Instead of the present half-way measures, which are hardly half-effective, the government should immediately restore the frozen money in closed banks to circulation. This program should occupy the chief place in the drive for recovery.

Under provisions of the so-called McLeod bank depositors' payoff bill, which it has been my honor to sponsor in Congress, the government, through the RFC would purchase all remaining frozen assets of closed banks. Depositors would receive the full amounts due them at once. Those who owed banks money would be given 10 years in which to pay their debts at a reduced rate of interest.

MORAL OBLIGATION

The RFC would liquidate these frozen assets over a 10-year period, disposing of them when the rising markets, which are certain to come with recovery, made their sale possible at their true values. In this simple, yet effective way, a maximum amount of relief would be afforded without ultimate cost to the government.

As a reconstructive recovery measure alone, this program should be carried out by the government. However, the United States government is under a heavy moral obligation to provide this relief for depositors. For years the taxpayers of the country have maintained a department of the government whose duty it was to periodically examine and inspect banks of the national banking system. It has been definitely and irrefutably shown that the government, through its examiners, falsified statements concerning the condition of banks.

CONFIDENCE SHAKEN

Naturally, and properly, the depositors had every reason to believe that the statements furnished them concerning the condition of their banks were accurate. They had no way of knowing that government-paid examiners had been instructed by the government to not show depreciation of certain assets of these banks. They had every right to believe that banks under government supervision were safe as long as the government allowed them to remain open for receipt of deposits.

When heavy withdrawals followed the shaking of confidence in banks, the government, through its regularly elected and appointed officials, urged the people, as a public duty, to cease hoarding. Millions needed this plea. These deluded millions did not dream that their government was urging them to place their money in banks which it knew were unsound and unsafe. Yet this is exactly what happened.

UPWARD TREND

A more opportune time to discharge this heavy moral obligation could not be found. Events of the last year have furnished ample evidence that the country is steadily emerging from the depression. Values of commodities of every description are showing a most healthy and encouraging upward trend. The distribution of this money to its millions of owners at this time would provide an almost incalculable stimulus in our drive toward the recovery goal.

Although requiring an initial outlay by the government to discharge its obligation to these depositors, in the final analysis this far-reaching reconstruction program would not cost the government a single penny. If dumped on the market now, these frozen bank assets would not realize more than a small percentage of their true values.

However, their worth has materially increased during the past year and there is every reason to believe that this increase will continue as we progress toward recovery.

TEN-YEAR PERIOD

Under ordinary methods of liquidation of closed banks, it has been shown by statistics compiled by the Comptroller of the Currency, and published in his latest annual report, that the losses to depositors of closed banks average fully a third of their deposits. This is largely due to the fact that receivers must dispose of assets as quickly as possible in order to expediate payoffs.

This procedure would be eliminated under the provisions of my bill. All assets purchased by the RFC would be carefully liquidated during a 10-year period, on the rising markets which are bound to come with recovery. Liquidation of these assets under present methods will mean a very considerable loss to depositors and serious harm to the markets upon which the assets are sacrificed. Liquidation under the plan embodied in my bill would mean full payment to depositors, full repayment to the government of the sums so advanced, and, in some instances, would result in a balance left over.

Already we have forced significant concessions from the opposition. On the day after my conference with the President, the Administration ordered an immediate re-appraisal of the assets of closed banks with a view to making additional loans and providing for larger payoffs to depositors. As a result, an additional $100,000,000 is going to be paid to the depositors of closed banks in the city of Detroit alone. The latest move has been the introduction of a compromise bill by Congressman Steagall, Chairman of the Committee on Banking and Currency. This measure, however, does not go far enough and indeed, it is vitally necessary that we use every ounce of energy in continuing our fight so as to insure the enactment of adequate relief.

The present session of Congress is rapidly drawing to a close and legislation for the relief of depositors needs immediate and wholesale support if it is to be enacted before Congress adjourns. This support, which is so necessary, must come from the people themselves.

U. S. OBLIGATED, M'LEOD SAYS

In support of his assertion that the government is morally obligated to protect the depositors of closed Federal Reserve banks, Congressman Clarence J. McLeod in addressing a mass meeting here yesterday cited messages from the Comptroller of the Currency to all chief national bank examiners in 1931 and 1932.

He also read an Associated Press dispatch from Jackson, Miss., which said in part:

"JACKSON, Miss., April 30.—(AP.)—The Mississippi Supreme Court held today that the St. Louis Federal Reserve Bank, if pleadings in a case were true, had shown fraud in inducing the depositors of the First National Bank of Corinth to continue to do business with the bank when the reserve institution knew it was insolvent. . . .

"'The facts as pleaded show strongly fraud on the part of the Federal Reserve Bank,' the decision said."

Congressman McLeod also read the following excerpts from letters and telegrams of instruction sent by the Comptroller of the Currency to all chief national bank examiners.

January 3, 1931:

"It is the desire of the Comptroller in this period of serious and unusual depression to be as lenient in this matter as the circumstances in each individual case will permit. While it is necessary for your examiners to exercise their judgment in each case, consideration should be given to the present and what is believed to be a temporary condition of the bond market."

October 6, 1931:

"Please instruct all examiners to exercise extraordinary discretion in their work and use every effort to encourage and sustain the morale in banks examined. Leniency consistent with proper regard for public interest should be extended. Present conditions demand sympathetic treatment on the part of this office and examiners and can in an important measure tend to the alleviation of the difficult problems with which we are temporarily faced."

December 18, 1931:

"In the emergency that results, examiners are instructed until further notice to disregard market depreciation upon bonds not in default. Bonds should be rated and appraised as heretofore, but no part of the depreciation, except that upon defaulted issues, should be shown on page 11 of the report."

SPEAK UP, SISTERS :-: Glances Into the Realms of Domesticity and Romance :-: By MARION BRUNOT

Her Chum and Former Boy Friend Two-Time Girl

Her old chum is TWO-TIMING her . . . The boy friend was all-in-all to her until she separated from him. Just five miles distance. But now he is telling her he is too busy to cover the distance.

And all because, so says Beatrice, the girl she ran around with, and whom this boy friend once said he did not like, has double-crossed her.

Also Beatrice has heard OTHER THINGS about this fellow. Things carried, and not by the wind, across those five miles which lie between, and so she frets, and wonders.

Dear Miss Brunot:

I have just finished reading "Toots," and it sounds so similar to my case, the very thing worrying me for so long, that I have decided I must write you. I am 17, and not bad looking. I could go with other fellows, who wish to date me, but only one fellow interests me, and the question is, does he think the same of me?

Miss Brunot

We lived in the same town, until five months ago, and when I moved five miles distant. He has not come to see me so very often, and I have found it is on account of another girl. She was one who ran around a lot with me, and whom he said he did not like. He has to work late, and never has much time, so he says. But now I hear he dates this other girl.

He writes me and I did have his ring until the other night when he came to see me, and he asked me to give it back to him. But he gave me his photograph. It was a class ring, and he said it was his turn to wear it. A girl had told him I did not intend giving it back to him, and maybe he wanted to find out if this was true. He has saved all my letters, he says. This letter may be silly, but I am really in dead earnest. Thanking you,

BEATRICE.

CASE NOT HOPELESS

Of course you are in DEAD EARNEST, Beatrice, and I will answer you in the same way. Your case is not hopeless as you seem to think. Why let OTHERS influence your love affairs. I believe the young fellow cares for you, and the fact there is five miles between you and him, no doubt, makes quite a difference in the number of times he can come to see you. I see nothing significant in his asking for the ring. He gave you his photograph, and that means something. Be your own sweet self, and do not harp against this other girl and also, Beatrice, do not talk too much to other people about your boy friend, and I feel all will be well for you.

Dear Miss Brunot:

I have been reading your column, and you sure do help a lot of people. I live way down here in Beaver Falls, and will tell you exactly what happened. I am almost 20, and have been without what could be called a steady fellow. I have had fellows to date me, but it never turned out seriously.

This is a fairly good sized town, and as I have bought at a certain store, I have gotten to know the clerk. He became freindly about two months ago. He ask me for a date to go to the show. He treated me royally that night. He acted as if I was somebody. His sister was there also, and afterwards, we went to her apartment, and had lunch and danced. It was the most wonderful evening. And I liked him more and more. I did let him kiss me good-night. This was over a month ago, and he has not asked me out since.

I am naturally quiet, and did not talk very much. In fact, was unusually quiet that evening. I see this fellow every day and he keeps asking me if I still care. He has told me he will take me canoeing. Will he do so? It has been horrible during his absence, for he was away for a few days. It was as if the sun had ceased to shine. Please help me.

ELLEN.

BE GOOD LISTENER

This young man is fond of you, Ellen. Maybe he is waiting for you to return his entertainment. The fact his sister entertained you makes it imperative to a certain extent that, in turn, you entertain her. Why not ask your mother if you cannot do so? I am sure she will be glad to co-operate with you in seeing that you have a good time. You are a bashful, sensitive girl, and people, no doubt, think much more of you than you fancy. I feel sure the young man will ask you canoeing. But it is too early to bother about that yet. Be pleasant, and be a good listener. That may be what he likes anyway.

Dear Miss Brunot:

I am going with a young man, 22 years of age, and he has said he cares for me. I think a good deal of him. I am 23. He asked me to give up all the other fellows for him. But after his people found out I was going with him, he has not been back. I have never met his folks, so they do not know me. He asked me to write, and promised faithfully to answer. But has not done so. Maybe his folks have gotten the letters, and have not given them to him. He is a good Christian, and so am I. I met him through our pastor. How may I go about hearing from him? His people say he is too young to have a girl. Thanking you, I am. ANXIOUS.

I scarcely suspicion his people of taking your letters. Why not get your pastor to bring you and the young man together? He introduced you and must approve of you. Try and meet his folks. If they should know you and find out you are a nice girl, I am certain they would not object. One year's difference in age is not so much. However, these people of his may look upon you as a more experienced girl than you are.

Miss Brunot will be glad to answer letters submitted to her by readers.

Fay King Cautions Girls Against Quarreling With Men

By FAY KING

Men generally dislike quarreling, and above all harping and nagging. When a girl quarrels with her friend she expects him to call her up next day or very soon, asking to see her again, to make up.

Often she waits in vain. Manlike, he figures the best he can do now is just nothing, for awhile. So she usually 'phones him or writes for a meeting to talk things over.

When she does see him she should surprise him with bright smiles, and make no reference to their quarrel.

If she is going to begin fighting again it will only make matters worse. He'll never want to see her again.

You can never mend a quarrel by quarreling. Being sweet is the best way always.

Given in Marriage :-: A Sequel to Heart Of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Warning Cry Halts Madge, Father

Jim hesitated perceptibly when my father asked him if he knew the voice he thought he had heard talking to Harry Underwood. But his next words proved that there was real bewilderment back of his silence, instead of any desire to protect us from news he thought might be distasteful to us.

"I've been trying to think, ever since I heard it," he said in puzzled fashion. "It seemed as though I ought to know it, as if I'd heard it before somewhere, but I guess I never did. Why! I couldn't even tell if it were a man's voice or a woman's. And sometimes it even sounded as if it were trying to sing!"

Fantastic conjectures were swaying me, but my father's voice was as non-committal as if he were making some comment upon a new baby.

"Very interesting, if your impressions are correct," he said. "And we'll lose no time in following Mr. Underwood's instructions. By the way, did he say anything about Mrs. Graham?"

"No, he didn't mention her, sir," Jim replied.

My father considered a second, palpably at a loss, then he put another terse query.

"Where is Mrs. Underwood?"

FATHER PUZZLED

My father uttered a little ejaculation of satisfaction, then he turned to me doubtingly.

"Frankly, I don't know what to do with you," he said slowly. "I don't quite like to send you upstairs to your room until I know who is in the house, and I can't take you into the library until I know what conditions are there."

"Why can't you?" I demanded spiritedly. "There can't be any real danger in that room, or Harry would have warned you definitely against bringing me into it. The fact that he did not mention my name proves he has no need for concern over my safety. Besides, with you and Harry and Jim on the job, no possible harm can come to me.

"Please don't treat me as if I were a sheltered baby, father! All this concerns me very intimately. I must take my share of whatever comes."

My father looked at me searchingly.

"You are right," he said. "I must let you take your share of the burden. But oh, my darling, how I would love to keep every adverse wind from blowing upon you."

A weird figure in brightly colored pajamas with beach sandals upon her bare feet, came toward us across the veranda, and Katie's voice said shrilly:

"Missis Graham; dot you?"

Jim whirled on her angrily.

HEAR WARNING CRY

"What do you mean by coming out here in those things, before Mr. Spencer and Mrs. Graham?" he demanded. "You look as if they'd let you out from the circus."

Katie put her hands to her waist, her arms akimbo and voluminous pajamas fluttering in the breeze. Her lips were curled in a scornful smile, but her eyes were wrathful.

"And who gave you job of telling me vot I should vear und vot I leave off?" she asked. "I 'member ven ve get married, dere vastn't no vord 'obey' in dot ceremony, und I didn't hear meeinster say 'Jeem, you promise vatch eferyting dot Katie vear und make snoots about eet. Und Katie, you promise roon und ask your hoosband's advice every time you go buy a pair of pajamas.'

"Maybe preacher he say sometings like dot, but I no hear eet; und vot I don't hear, me, I don't do noddings mit. So you shoost put dot in you pipe und smoke eet. I no vant to talk to you any vays. I vant ask my Meesis Graham sometings, und you keep her vating mit your beeg mouf. Oh! Police! Murder! Vot's dot?"

From the library had come the sound of something heavy overturned, and Harry Underwood's voice, tense, low, but distinct:

"Drop it; Lee Chow! Drop it, I tell you!"

A little linseed oil applied occasionally to oak curbs will prevent them from splitting.

If white of egg is used instead of gum for sealing an envelope, it cannot be steamed open.

Preserve silk stockings by putting them into methylated spirits for five minutes, then hanging them up in the shade until the smell of spirits has evaporated. They will wear longer after this treatment.

Nongreasy marks on delicate fabrics can be removed by sprinkling a little ground rice over the mark and rubbing gently with one finger. After a few applications the mark will disappear.

To repair kid gloves, place adhesive tape, slightly warmed, underneath the tear, bring the edges together and press. Sewing tends to tear the kid and does not hold.

Contract Bridge :-: HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Expert Bidding

The brilliant bids of expert Bridge players almost always have a very firm foundation in honor-tricks, although occasions do arise at the Bridge table when a player must make an effort, through bidding, to give a more complete picture of his hand to his partner, even though it may involve a considerable shading from the requirements of biddability in the suit. The finely spun web of inferences exchanged in the bidding of a hand requires precision from both players, but many bids which may appear dangerous are safe if only both players really listen to their partners' bids and exercise their minds in connection with them before making another call.

North, Dealer.

North and South vulnerable.

	♠ J 7 4 ♡ K 7 6 3 ◇ — ♣ A K 10 8 3 2
♠ 9 6 5 ♡ A 9 2 ◇ Q J 10 5 4 ♣ J 4	North / West / East / South	♠ A Q 10 8 3 2 ♡ Q 5 ◇ 9 7 6 ♣ Q 5
	♠ K ♡ J 10 8 4 ◇ A K 8 3 2 ♣ 9 7 6

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	1 ♠	2 ♢	Pass (1)
2 ♡ (2)	Pass	4 ♡ (3)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—So far the bidding has been exactly conventional. North holds 2½ honor-tricks and a six-card suit. East has a very valid Overcall at the range of one, and South of course with his hand is fully justified in making a free bid. West, however, delighted with the diamond situation and lacking both trump strength and tricks for a Raise of his partner's bid, gladly passes.

2—This is the unusual bid. North reasons that his partner's free bid shows a hand of considerable strength, and that the strength may be massed enough in the heart suit as to make possible a game or at least a part-score. It would be impossible to show the hearts at any other stage of bidding, and North feels that his heart bid is the equivalent of the impossible bid of, say, 2½ clubs. His intention is not to continue the bidding except in the unexpected event of a force from his partner.

3—Of course South, in making this Raise, anticipates a stronger heart suit than his partner actually has. Therefore, from South's standpoint the bid for game is in no sense an overbid.

East elected to open a diamond against the game contract, which was won with the King in Dummy, the Declarer discarding a spade. It was apparent that the contract would require very careful handling as well as very excellent luck if it were to be fulfilled. The second play was the lead of a small heart from Dummy, upon which North played the King. North then returned a small heart from his own hand. East's Queen winning. Inasmuch as both players followed suit, North could now see the safety of the contract if the clubs broke 2-2, as they did.

I cannot too strongly emphasize that North's bid was far from orthodox, but admittedly he had to find another bid over two diamonds. The heart suit had a great many holes in it, and every break was a lucky one—but then, the cards sometimes are that way.

TOMORROW'S HAND

South, Dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ K Q 6 5 ♡ A Q J 8 7 3 2 ◇ 9 ♣ A
♠ 10 2 ♡ 9 6 ◇ K Q J 3 2 ♣ J 9 7 6	North / West / East / South	♠ 4 3 ♡ 10 5 ◇ 10 8 6 5 4 ♣ K 8 3 2
	♠ A J 9 8 7 ♡ K 4 ◇ A 7 ♣ Q 10 5 4

The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Informal Hotel Dance

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—What is the proper thing for a gentleman to wear at a hotel dance, informal, at 8 o'clock in the evening? Would a Tuxedo be out of order? Would a gray suit be out of order?

2—What would a young lady wear . . . afternoon or semi-formal? V.

1—To an informal hotel dance a man wears dinner jacket, Tuxedo suit. A gray suit would be too informal.

FEDERAL RELIEF GRANT BOOST MEETS STATE CRISIS

POLITICS

Lack of Indorsements Perturbs McNair

By MARK SHIELDS

Mayor William N. McNair, a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, is, according to reports about City Hall, considerably perturbed because no member of his cabinet has yet seen fit to indorse his candidacy.

Mr. Shields

The Mayor some time ago announced a hands-off policy toward politics, with all employes permitted to make their own selections of candidates, but it has come as something of a disappointment that none of his immediate aides has felt the urge to approve his ambition to advance from the Mayor's chair to that of the Governor.

There have been reports that he might mention the matter to some of his cabinet heads, more in sorrow than in anger. He feels some justification for his attitude because in speeches they laud him as an able executive, and it seems reasonable that they would like to see his talents given the wider scope which would be afforded them in Harrisburg. Perhaps they don't take him seriously as a state-wide candidate.

Today Mr. McNair was in Reading to address the Pennsylvania Federation of Democratic Women, who invited all Democratic statewide candidates to appear and plead their causes.

In a statement yesterday Mr. McNair urged the nomination of his secretary, Theodore Moritz, for Congress in the Thirty-second District. Two prominent Democrats running against Mr. Moritz are Marion McKay, of the University of Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Anne E. Felix, who ran against Congressman M. J. Muldowney two years ago and has a contest of his election pending before a House Elections Committee.

* * *

Moritz Indorsement May Be Scheme

There have been reports for some time that the Mayor would be well pleased should Mr. Moritz cease to be his secretary. He proposed that Mr. Moritz should become permanently a magistrate, but the secretary preferred dealing judgment as a part-time job which would not interfere with his secretarial duties.

There are divergent views as to the predicate of the Mayor's indorsement of Mr. Moritz. One is that he had enjoyed a second thought and through some persuasion had been induced to utter the statement as proof that he and his secretary were pals.

Another is that the Mayor is desirous of shelving himself of his secretary and thinks it can best be done by boosting him to Congress.

Senator David Reed, inveighing against the discharge of T. Juncan Just of Montgomery County as a compensation referee because he has solicited state employes to contribute to the Pinchot campaign fund, grew caustic in a statement he issued yesterday.

* * *

The Senator said:

"Governor Pinchot is trying to make a scapegoat of Mr. Just, but the people of Pennsylvania will not be deceived by this ruse.

"If it was wrong for Mr. Just to assess state employes in 1934 it was equally wrong for Arthur C. Dale, chairman of the Workmen's Compensation Board, to do the same thing in 1932.

"In the effort to elect Major General Smedley D. Butler to the United States Senate two yeads ago, Pinchot, disregarding all previous promises to the people, ordered Dale to assess all state employes for contributions.

"This was admitted by Dale, who filed an account showing collection of $217,314.

"This account under the law was required to be kept open for public inspection for two years, but has been mysteriously 'mislaid.'

"Why has not Governor Pinchot dismissed Mr. Dale as he has dismissed Mr. Just?

"Why does he not inquire what is being done this minute in the Department of Highways? If he will make inquiries in the division of closed banks in the Department of Banking, he will find that assessments are being levied under the pretty name of 'expressions of gratitude.'

"He will also find that any employe who fails to express gratitude is invited to walk the plank.

"I suggest further that the Governor conduct an investigation to see what is being done in the Department of Revenue and the Department of Property and Supplies, and that having done this he tell why he thinks his campaign promises are worth listening to.

"The people of Pennsylvania are interested."

Battalion Chiefs Seek C. S. C. Rating

A hearing before the Civil Service Commission to determine the rights of battalion fire chiefs to Civil Service protection has been scheduled for May 9. Heretofore the battalion chiefs have had protection, being placed in the noncompetitive class.

The city Law Department, it is reported, has suggested their transfer to the exempt class.

AUTHORITY AID ASKED OF CITY

A request that the city join with the county in defending the legality of the Allegheny County Authority, which would build large public improvements in this district with federal funds, is to be considered by Council and the Commissioners at a conference tomorrow at 3 p. m.

The authority has been made the subject of a friendly suit which has been taken to State Supreme Court by Henry Tranter, a taxpayer.

The question of the rights of the authority in placing tolls on new and existing bridges and tunnels is involved.

Councilman P. J. McArdle declared that the city has a large stake in the result because of the possibility of large portions of existing improvements being forced out of use by application of tolls.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 3.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

See where the U. S. Chamber of Commerce are gathered in Washington again. It's the caviar of big business. Last time they met I happened to be in Washington, and was the guest of Jesse Jones (head of the Reconstruction Finance) at their dinner. Now the whole constitution, by-laws, and the secret ritual of that orchid club is to "keep the government out of business." Well, that's all right, for every organization must have a purpose, but here was the joke, they introduced all the big financiers, the head of this, that and the other. As each stood up, Jesse would write on the back of the menu card, just what he had loaned him from the R. F. C. (I got that menu card yet). Yet they said, "Keep the government out of business."

Will Rogers

Yours, WILL.

ARSON SUSPECT DIES AFTER 'CONFESSION'

Links Owner of Home to Plot in Story To Police

Shortly after his alleged confession that he had been hired to fire the residence of Joseph Cemino, Orchard way, Swissvale, Monday night, Joseph Margola who was burned in the explosion at the home, died in Braddock Hospital last night.

County detectives said Margola told them he had been hired by Cemino to fire the place. Cemino, Thomas Blant, of 611 Baldrich street, Braddock, and Michael Coyle, of 13 Miller street, Rankin, are being held in the county jail on charges of conspiracy to commit arson. Angelo Vergona, 26 of Swissvale, also was arrested.

Margola is alleged to have said he was promised $75 to destroy the house, which was reported insured for $2,500.

CHILDREN SAFE AFTER THREAT

While Mrs. Margaret Filius, 35, of 407 Linview avenue, Carrick, was recovering today in the Canonsburg Hospital, her three children, whom she said her employer threatened, were removed to the Juvenile Detention Home.

Mrs. Filius was taken to the hospital because of injuries suffered when she was thrown from the automobile of Thomas Aquato, 42, for whom she keeps house, according to police. The woman said she was tossed out because she planned to leave Aquato's employ, police said.

The couple was returning from the home of Mrs. Filius' brother, Jack McAvoy, of Weavertown, when the quarrel began. Mrs. Filius told police Aquato threatened to kill her three children. Aquato is being held by Canonsburg police.

Police Clubs Can't Stop Reds From Yelling, Says Baer

Union Square is still home plate for the Communists. But 20,000 New York police were the base umpires.

That's why the Reds kept their ears in line like cornstalks on a Kansas farm. New York adopted daylight saving time so the coppers could swing their night sticks in the sunshine.

But you cannot stop a Red from yelling. He would leave Utopia if the accoustics were bad. A soap box ain't a bad rostrum. It should also make a pretty good boat.

We would like to see a big fleet of those boxes sailing toward Europe. With a full crew in each one.

Dickens Proved Master of Strategy as He Began Dismissal of Boyhood Sweetheart

Author's Time Not His Own—'Grieved You Suspect Me of Not Wanting to See You,' Charles Wrote Maria

The cooling romance of Charles Dickens' middle-age association with Maria Beadnell Winter, the sweetheart of his youth, has been revealed in previous installments. In the accompanying installment Dickens explains further his preoccupations and contributes an illuminating exposition of the travail of authorship.

By H. H. HARPER

IN his letter of Feb. 22 Dickens cautioned Maria that he was "a dangerous man to be seen with," and it is easy to imagine what a flame of scandal would have sprung up if it became known that he was having covert meetings with the resuscitated "Dora" of his David Copperfield; that he had written her long, endearing love letters to a secret address, then at the same time a camouflage note to her home; that he made an appointment with her to meet him at his own home when all the household were out, excepting only himself.

Every one would have wanted to know why, if his intentions were honorable, he could not have said what he had to say in his letters addressed to her home; why he felt it necessary to assure her that she need observe no restraint in writing him at his own house; and when he invited her there, why he told her to ask for Mrs. Dickens, who at that time would almost certainly be out.

The great majority would have misconstrued his real motives in all these actions, which on the surface would have looked very questionable. And no one short of his closest friends would have denied the public its delectable feast of scandal by trying to explain the whys and wherefores that lay beneath the surface.

In those days—unlike our own—the public was inclined to exercise more diligence in supervising an author's family relations than they did in determining the real merit of his writings—on the theory, perhaps, that posterity would look after the latter.

Above all things else, Dickens loved notoriety, but not the sort of notoriety Maria Winter could have given him with the material he had unwisely placed in her hands. It is therefore apparent that of all the women in the world she was the most "dangerous" for him to get "mixed up" with at that precarious period of his life.

With all his letters in her possession there was no knowing what desperate measures she might resort to if he provoked her. Some newspaper or periodical would doubtless have paid handsomely for his three letters of February 10, 15 and 22, and their publication at that time, with his own positive identification of Mrs. Winter as "Dora" would have created a turmoil in which his feelings, and probably his reputation, would have suffered irreparably.

Mrs. Winter had very little to lose, and a great deal to gain, at least in notoriety; for if it were known that this great and only acknowledged love of Dickens' life had suddenly risen from the grave to which he consigned her in David Copperfield, she would easily have become the most sensational woman in England. Had she been so disposed, she could have used his letters to extort almost any amount of money at his command.

Considering these impending dangers, which must have been manifest to Dickens, there is little doubt that he had good reason to reflect on the adage: "Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned;" and that he spent many anxious moments trying to figure out how to keep her friendship and at the same time get her off his hands.

To have demanded the letters back would have been worse than useless. While she had not made any threat of reprisal, it was perfectly plain that she had no intention of being discarded as unceremoniously as she herself had formerly discarded him.

It therefore became his plain duty to "let her down easy."

Being physically indisposed with a bad cold, Dickens would hardly have taken the pains to make all the excuses and explanations in the following letter had he not felt the circumstances demanded it.

* * *

IN BIOGRAPHICAL importance this letter probably exceeds any passage of equal length ever written by him or about him; and had Mrs. Winter done nothing else but

Tuesday, Third April, 1855.

My dear Maria:—

Going down to Ashford this day week, already with a bad cold, I increased it so much by getting into the intense heat consequent upon a reading of three hours and then coming up in the night (which I was obliged to do, having business in town next morning), that I was very unwell all the week, and on Friday night was so completely tired out that I came home at 9 o'clock to bed.

A necessity is upon me now—as at most times—of wandering about in my own wild way, to think. I could no more resist this on Sunday or yesterday, than a man can dispense with food, or a horse can help himself from being driven. I hold my inventive capacity on the stern condition that it must master my whole life, often have complete possession of me; it makes its own demands upon me, and sometimes for months together puts everything else away from me.

If I had not known long ago that my place could never be held, unless I were at any moment ready to devote myself to it entirely, I should have dropped out of it very soon. All this I can hardly expect you to understand—or the restlessness and waywardness of an author's mind. You have never seen it before you, or lived with it, or had occasion to think or care about it, and you cannot have the necessary consideration for it.

"It is only half an hour"—"it is only an afternoon"—"it is only an evening"—people say to me over and over again—but they don't know that it is impossible to command one's self, sometimes, to any stipulated and set disposal of five minutes—or that the mere consciousness of an engagement will sometimes worry a whole day. These are the penalties paid for writing books.

Whoever is devoted to an Art must be content to deliver himself wholly to it, and to find his recompense in it. I am grieved if you suspect me of not wanting to see you, but I can't help it; I must go my way whether or no.

I thought you would understand that in sending the card for the box, I sent an assurance that there was nothing amiss.

I am pleased to find that you were all so much interested with the play. My ladies say that the first part is too painful and wants relief. I have been going to see it a dozen times, but I have never seen it yet, and never may. Madame Celeste is injured thereby (you see how unreasonable people are!) and says in the Green Room, with a very tight cheek, "M. Dickens est artiste! Mais il n'a jamais vu Janet Pride!"

It is like a breath of fresh Spring air to know that that unfortunate baby of yours is out of her one close room and has about half a pint of very doubtful air per day. I could only have become her godfather on the condition that she had 500 gallons of open air at any rate, every day of her life. And you would soon see a rose or two in the face of my other little friend, Ella, if you opened all your doors and windows throughout the whole of all fine weather from morning to night.

I am going off, I don't know where or how far, to ponder about I don't know what. Sometimes I am half in the mood to set off for France, sometimes I think I will go and walk about on the seashore for three or four months, sometimes I look towards the Pyrenees, sometimes Switzerland. I made a compact with a great Spanish authority last week, and vowed I would go to Spain. Two days afterwards Layard and I agreed to go to Constantinople when Parliament rises. Tomorrow I shall probably discuss with somebody else, the idea of going to Greenland or the North Pole. The end of all this most likely will be that I shall shut myself up in some out-of-the-way place I have never yet thought of, and go desperately to work there.

Once upon a time I didn't do such things, you say. No, but I have done them through a good many years now, and they have become myself and my life.

Ever affectionately,

C. D.

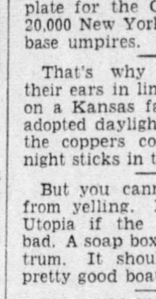
In tomorrow's installment two more letters from Dickens to Maria will appear, also a letter to Maria from Georgina Hogarth, his sister-in-law, disclosing the inner facts of the author's unhappy married life which culminated in his separation from his wife.

GERMAN PRINTING DISPLAYED AT TECH

Progress Made in Twenty Years Revealed by Exhibits

By PENELOPE REDD

The Carnegie Institute of Technology sponsors through the printing department an exhibition of German printings in rooms 136 and 139 of the Industries Building every afternoon and evening through May 9. The American Institute of Graphic Arts is circuiting the show through the museums of art and educational institutions of the United States.



Miss Redd

Looking back to the first exhibition of German Graphic Arts shown about 20 years ago, one finds in the current show at the Carnegie Tech the crystallization of the contemporary movement which was prophesied in the graphic arts in that long ago exhibition.

Today, studying the collection at Carnegie Tech, one discovers that the earlier explorations have been resolved into definite colonization.

As we remember the majority of American exhibitions, direct mail projects and magazine advertisements are the chief specimens shown. In the German show, however, other items are paramount. Posters designed for the attraction of pedestrian traffic in congested districts; book jackets; trade marks; wine labels; and many, many cigaret boxes.

In these latter, the German designers soar above the work of any contemporaries in other lands. The seeming trivia of decoration such as the labels on liquors and the covers for cigarets are done with a finesse which one associates only with the most aristocratic uses.

One cigaret box of the utmost distinction, designed by Professor C. O. Czzechka of Hamburg, presents oriental boats in line drawing printed on a golden paper. Another by Ruth Kruger of Berlin compiles the elements of eighteenth century romance in rococo swirls. Walter Spiegel of Dresden uses the medieval St. George and the Dragon, an unusual choice for a cigaret box to American eyes.

The wine labels, particularly those by Professor Hermann Virl of Munich and Professor O. W. Hadank of Berlin, include historic and modern styles and are, without exception, distinguished examples of the graphic arts. They suggest a new adventure for collectors.

The trade marks by Karl Schulpig of Berlin are as patrician as a contemporary coat of arms might be. Incidentally, there is no a swatiska in the lot.

BIGGER GRANT AIDS WORKS PROGRAM

RWD Rehires 84 Men To Fight Chalfant Mine Blaze

As 84 men out of the 18,000 laid off last week were to be put back to work today by the Relief Works Division, starting its scheduled resumption of government-created work, information was received from Washington that Pennsylvania's relief funds had been increased to $10,000,000 by the Federal Relief Administration.

The additional allotment was requested by Gov. Gifford Pinchot to enable continuance of the state direct relief work upon which 300,000 families in Pennsylvania depend. Dispatches from Washington did not indicate what portion of the funds were to be used for RWD work.

TO FIGHT MINE FIRE

The Allegheny County RWD does not have funds to pay the 84 men starting with today, Philip H. Lantz, deputy director, disclosed. Approval for resuming work on several projects was received yesterday from Harrisburg. The approvals include putting the 84 men back to work in fighting a dangerous mine fire in Chalfant Borough, which is threatening a number of homes, Lantz said.

Resumption of the RWD program would take place today, officials announced last Friday noon when the entire working force of 18,000 needy was abruptly laid off.

EXPECT FUNDS TODAY

The Emergency Relief Board is continuing to issue food orders on credit, in the expectation that relief funds will be put into the empty treasury today, George P. Mills, executive director, declared.

The State Emergency Board was scheduled to meet yesterday in Harrisburg to make allocations to vadious counties for relief, but the meeting was postponed until today because Gov. Pinchot, chairman, was absent yesterday.

PATRONS PLAN FUND SURVEY

Plans for the annual survey and evaluation of each of the 75 agencies financed through the Community Fund will be discussed by representatives of the Welfare Fund contributors meeting in the Welfare Building, Smithfield street, today.

Ralph W. Harbison, chairman of the indorsement committee, under which the work is being carried on, declared that contributors representing the general public visit each of the community fund's agencies and make detailed reports in order that the whole community service program may be improved. He said:

"No agency may continue to draw support from the fund for another year without the stamp of approval given by the indorsement committee."

COUNCIL TO ACT ON PAY VETO

The Mayor yesterday vetoed an amendment to the salary bill which would have raised the salaries of painters working for the city from $7 to $9.60 per day, and foremen of the painters from $8 to $10.60 per day.

A session of Council has been called for 4 p. m. to consider the veto, with evry indication that it will refuse to sustain it by an overwhelming majority.

RALLY TO TOP BONNIWELL DRIVE HERE

Judge Eugene C. Bonniwell, of Philadelphia, candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, will climax a drive for votes in this section with a mass meeting tonight at North Side Carnegie Hall. Throughout Western Pennsylvania Bonniwell has been attacking Joseph F. Guffey and George H. Earle, candidates for nomination as United States Senator and Governor, respectively.

Last night, in Greensburg, he appealed to friends of Judge Charles D. Copeland, a third gubernatorial candidate, to abandon the Westmoreland County jurist, saying he had no chance for election. Bonniwell will remain in Western Pennsylvania through Saturday, then head east.

With his departure Copeland and Earle will invade this portion of the state. Copeland is due here Monday, and with him will be other candidates on his slate, including Senator Henry L. Snyder, candidate for lieutenant governor; Norbert J. Fitzgerald, for secretary of internal affairs, and Roland S. Morris, candidate against Guffey for the Senate.

GUFFEY EARLE RALLY

Guffey and Earle have scheduled a meeting for North Side Carnegie Hall the night of May 10. S. Davis Wilson, Philadelphia city controller, supporting Guffey and Earle, will arrive in Pittsburgh Monday to speak in the evening at McKeesport and Wilkinsburg.

The candidacy of Attorney General William A. Schnader for the Republican gubernatorial nomination was given impetus in Allegheny County yesterday when Mayor George H. Lysle, of McKeesport, declared for him as being "well qualified." At the same time Lysle indorsed Senator David A. Reed for re-election, and said he would support Representative James H. McClure as a candidate for the State Senate and Representative James K. Ruby for re-election to the House.

SEEK MANSFIELD

Schnader adherents are hopeful that Senator William D. Mansfield, also from McKeesport, may eventually support the attorney general, but at the moment the Senator is reported to be leaning toward Lieut. Gov. Edward C. Shannon.

Shannon last night terminated a tour of western counties and today invaded the central part of the state. With him was Edwin R. Cox, president of Philadelphia City Council, and a candidate for lieutenant governor. In Philadelphia Shannon and Cox have an alliance, but it does not extend to other portions of the state. A Shannon rally is scheduled for Altoona tonight.

Senator Reed, who made a non-political address last night at a dinner of the Westmoreland County Bar Association, will speak at a meeting in Washington county tonight. The Republican organization there is backing the Senator, though it is supporting Shannon for the governorship.

GUEST AT TEA

This afternoon the Senator was guest at a tea in the William Penn Hotel. Francis D. Guthrie, president of the Dollar Savings Bank, has been appointed chairman of the Reed Volunteers in Allegheny County. Miss Elizabeth S. Arbuthnot is vice chairman.

Attorney Raymond D. Evans, Reed campaign chairman, today charged Gov. Pinchot was utilizing relief measures for political purposes, a charge which was echoed by Auditor General Frank Baldwin, a member of the State Emergency Relief Board. The Senator also assailed the Governor for discharging T. Duncan Just, of Montgomery County, from a state job for soliciting campaign funds from state employes, while at the same time retaining other state officials who had done the same thing.

Attorney Edward O. Tabor will speak on the radio tonight for Reed.

Shortly after Tabor finishes Senator Frank J. Harris will make an appeal for votes for Charles J. Margiotti, another gubernatorial candidate. Harris when he retired as a candidate threw his support to the Pittsburgh attorney. In Sharon Saturday U. S. Senator James J. Davis is scheduled for a speech, and it is predicted that at that time he also will indorse Margiotti. Margiotti speaks tonight in Uniontown.

Two Men Accused In Swindling Ring

Seized as suspects in an alleged swindlers' ring, John S. Ujhazi and Joseph Mascasanyik, of Pittsburgh, were under arrest today in Mercer, Pa. Mercer authorities accuse the two men as ringleaders of a gang which swindled $2,000 from persons in Sharon and Sharpsville.

Pinchot Accused Of 'Half Truths' On Relief Plan

HARRISBURG, May 3.—(AP.)—Frank E. Baldwin, auditor general, yesterday accused Gov. Pinchot of uttering "half-truths" in describing the unemployment relief situation in Pennsylvania.

Baldwin, like Pinchot, is a member of the state Emergency Relief Board. He said in a statement:

"Long practice has made Gov. Pinchot an expert in being devious and not candid when his interests are to be served by such methods.

"Two factors in unemployment relief are unescapable. Relief has been and is necessary; and, directly and indirectly, it must be paid for by the taxpayers.

"Senator David A. Reed urged that Pennsylvania find a way of financing its own relief requirements. Gov. Pinchot was a pioneer and constant advocate of federal financing of the state's needs. The result is a matter of plain arithmetic.

"The outlay has to be paid from taxes. Pennsylvanians bear about 10 per cent of the national tax load. Government expenditure for direct and indirect country-wide relief has exceeded 10 billions of dollars, which has plastered a mortgage of a billion dollars upon this state and its people.

"Had Senator Reed's ideas been adopted, and the states devised means of financing their own requirements, 100 cents of every dollar raised in Pennsylvania would have been spent within Pennsylvania for that purpose, and our people would have been called upon for that amount and no more."

EUWER FAVORS SCHOOL AID

Larger political units should come to the aid of impoverished townships unable to give proper education to children, according to J. Boyd Euwer, candidate for State Senate in the Forty-second district.

Pledging himself to work for better educational conditions, Euwer said that in 32 state school districts there were no teachers at all but paid school officers were maintained.

In 110 districts, with only one room schools the same set of five officers exist, he claimed. In all, Euwer said, there are 608 districts in the state in which there are more paid officers that teachers.

STEEL WORKERS LAUD PINCHOTS

Delegates to the convention of the Amalgamated Iron, Steel and Tin Workers of America have adopted a resolution praising the attitude of Gov. Gifford Pinchot and Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot toward labor, it was announced today.

The resolution thanked Mrs. Pinchot for her "gracious and valuable efforts in behalf of the laboring man." Both Mrs. Pinchot and the Governor, the resolution stated, have given indisputable evidence of their sincere belief in the principles of collective bargaining and eradication of sweatshops and child labor.

PINCHOT URGES TARIFF AIDING LABORER

ALTOONA, May 3.—(AP.)—A protective tariff designed to raise the wages of the Pennsylvania workingman was advocated last night by Gov. Pinchot in a speech of his campaign for the Republican nomination to the United States Senate. He said:

"But I do not believe in the kind of tariff that Senator David A. Reed (Pinchot's opponent for the nomination) has helped to secure for Mellon on his aluminum trust.

"I believe in a tariff that is not doctored to promote the profits of special interests, but that is arranged to help those who need help—the workers."

The Governor repeated statements made in previous speeches, including his assertion that Reed is a "servant" of the Mellons and of the "steel trust."

He reviewed his record as Governor and said:

"I think the most important thing I have done for the farmers of Pennsylvania was to take over 20,000 miles of township roads—nearly half of them farmers' roads—in order to take the farmer out of the mud."

BANK AID URGED BY MARGIOTTI

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., May 3.—(AP.)—Charles J. Margiotti, candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, last night proposed that the state take over frozen assets of all closed state banks, paying for them 100 cents on the dollar and holding on to them until they are salable.

Speaking before a large crowd in the Courthouse, Margiotti said his plan would not constitute a gift to the depositors, but an investment for the state.

He repeated his previous accusations of laxity on the part of state bank examiners and of Attorney General Schnader, also a Republican candidate for Governor, in arranging liquidation of closed banks' assets. Schnader is legal adviser of the Department of Banking.

Woman, 77, to Join Volunteers at Rite

Mrs. Marshbank

Mrs. Elizabeth Marshbank, 77, who 38 years ago entertained Gen. and Mrs. Ballington Booth, founders of the Volunteers of America, when they came to Pittsburgh to organize the Volunteers here, will become a member of the organization Sunday night. Special services in honor of the woman who for many years has been a close friend to the Volunteers, will be held in the Volunteer Building, North Side.

Arrangements for the services are under the direction of Col. Frank H. Wise, in command of the Pittsburgh district, and Mrs. Wise. An honor guest will be the Rev. Cyrus Hoffman, retired, one year Mrs. Marshbank's junior, who will deliver the address of welcome.

75,779 REGISTER--HUNDREDS TURNED AWAY

Spring Enrollment Of Voters Near 200,000 Mark

In what was probably the heaviest registration in the city's history, 75,779 went to 402 of the 408 polling places yesterday and enrolled under the new permanent registration law. The registration was divided as follows: Republicans, 42,399; Democrats, 33,380. Figures from six districts remain to be counted.

The total registration up to yesterday was a little more than 100,000 in the city, with Republicans leading the Democrats by less than 4,000.

HUNDREDS TURNED AWAY

The rush to register increased hourly and when the 408 district headquarters closed at 9 p. m. last night hundreds were reported to have been turned away. Registration will continue at the County Office Building daily until Saturday noon, permitting those from any part of the city to register there.

In the third-class cities there are 22,000 Republicans and 6,400 Democrats, and in the townships, 78,865 Republicans and 24,362 Democrats. The boroughs recorded 153,284 Republicans and 40,114 Democrats.

Because so many persons were turned away at the registration booths yesterday, Ralfe O. P. Silverman, an attorney, presented a petition before the election commission today seeking to have another registration day for the city districts.

Commissioner Jacob Frank, however, said this would be impossible under the law. Frank said the commission would keep the registration offices in the County Office Building open later every day until Saturday to accommodate voters who have not yet registered.

MANY RECORDS LOST

John O'Donnell, Republican chairman of the Twenty-second Ward, who was reported unable to register because of lack of naturalization papers, yesterday stated that he presented certification papers and was enrolled. His was one of many hundreds of cases reported by the commission, some few of whom have visited the Registration Commissioners and left behind sizzling words.

A man who had voted 40 years found yesterday that he was not a citizen; several women who had voted since suffrage found likewise. Unable to find their papers, records were lost, or other reasons prevented them from registering. The law provides that every elector must show his papers and prove how he became naturalized. In previous years, it was pointed out, the County Court accepted naturalizations, and many records were lost.

SUPPORT HAILED BY SCHNADER

PHILADELPHIA, May 3.—(AP.)—Withdrawal of Judge Robert E. Lamberton from the Republican gubernatorial race brought from Attorney General William A. Schnader, another candidate for Governor, the expression that he was "greatly pleased by the added support that is offered my candidacy."

Lamberton did not commit himself in withdrawing, except to say he was quitting because "crystallizing of sentiment has been definitely in favor of another candidate." However, George W. Coles, former United States District Attorney, who was scheduled to head Lamberton's campaign forces, announced his enlistment behind the Schnader banner.

At Stroudsburg last night, Schnader advocated union of all Pennsylvania police units in a concerted war on crime, and favored use of state police facilities for any local police force that asked for them.

Candidate Urges P. S. C. Abolishment

The Public Service Commission should be abolished, according to Frank J. Kobelak, candidate for legislature in the Sixth district. Kobelak said the Commission worked the non-competitive rule to the limit, and that it is vested with power that can practically rule out all competition.

Irvin Indorses Roosevelt Program

Promising to fight for his personal opinions only when convinced they are supported by the majority of his constituents, Richard Irvin today announced his platform in his candidacy for Democratic nomination to Congress in the Thirty-fourth District. Irvin stated he would support President Roosevelt to the last ditch, and that he believed the government should stay out of business but regulate it for the common good.

Electricity, communication, transportation, food, and all direct products of nature should be available, he said, at a price eliminating the abnormal profits now levied by the monopolies controlling them.

Women Voters See Dillinger as 'Good for U. S.'

HARRISBURG, May 3.—(AP.)—Democratic women, in convention at Reading, are attacking the Republican party, while rival Democratic factions carry on their primary fight in the southern counties of the state.

Charging that "we have government by the underworld," Miss Mary Archer, of Reading, former national committeewoman, told the Pennsylvania Federation of Democratic Women at Wernersville last night that "Dillinger is good for the country." She asserted:

"He has showed up even the United States Army and he is demonstrating to the rest of us what our police departments are like. We have government by the underworld, but some say we are going to be brave enough to tear off the lid."

Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller, sister of Joseph F. Guffey, candidate for the United States senatorial nomination, said the Republican party had "degraded the state long enough." She predicted the Democrats would wrest control.

The convention continues today.

Guffey was absent, but George H. Earle, candidate for Governor, and his colleagues on the slate indorsed by the Democratic state committee, appeared in York last night. Their rivals on the Morris-Copeland ticket speak there tonight.

Judge Charles D. Copeland, running for Governor, led his forces in a Lancaster rally last night. Roland S. Morris, who is opposing Guffey, still is suffering from laryngitis.

Mt. Oliver Approves Light Cost Slash

Mt. Oliver Council last night approved a change in the contract with the Duquesne Light Company covering the lighting of Brownsville road. The change will reduce the candle power of the lights from 1,000 to 600 and will save the borough $595 a year.

A complaint of businessmen that the Brownsville road parking ordinance was not being enforced was referred to the public safety committee and Burgess Charles W. Beckman.

GUFFEY, EARLE ASSAILED BY BONNIWELL

GREENSBURG, Pa., May 3.—(AP.)—Judge Eugene C. Bonniwell, seeking the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, last night called upon the voters to "rally to the aid of President Roosevelt by defeating" Joseph F. Guffey and George H. Earle in the May primary election.

Guffey seeks the Democratic Senatorial nomination, and Earle, former minister to Austria, is a Democratic candidate for Governor.

The speaker, addressing a Greensburg rally, urged that Guffey and Earle be beaten "so decisively that it will remove them as a menace to the national administration."

Judge Bonniwell said of his opponents:

"It must be apparent to the warmest friends of Judge Charles D. Copeland (also a gubernatorial candidate) that he has no chance of victory in this state. There is no campaign worthy of the name being carried on either in his behalf or that of Roland Morris, and the voters generally recognize that to eliminate the Guffey-Earle combination it is necessary that I should be nominated."

The Philadelphian claimed a 50,000 majority in his own county.

Scheib Quits Race; Indorses Zappala

Attorney Frank J. Zappala, legislative candidate in the Fifth District, won another supporter today with the retirement in his favor of Attorney G. Rody Scheib from the legislative race.

Mrs. Pinchot on Sleigh Ride to Beat Reed

Candidate Assails Tax-Exempt Bonds

Citing the Senate's probe into the activities of financial interest, L. C. Clark, candidate for Congress in the Thirty-Fourth District, told an audience of 200 women in Mt. Lebanon Municipal Building last night that he favored complete abolition of tax-exempt bonds hereafter to force the wealthy to pay their full share of taxes.

The meeting was sponsored by the Women's Republican Club, of Mt. Lebanon. Clark is chairman of the Mt. Lebanon Township Commissioners.

"—I NEED HEALTHY NERVES, TOO, MR. CECIL SMITH, WITH A THRIVING FAMILY TO LOOK OUT FOR"

Robert E. Butterfield, Jr., who has two thriving youngsters, says:

"A father's job gives a fellow plenty of experience with nerve strain, too! Providing for the children keeps you keyed up to concert pitch. Then—coming home from work, with Dick insisting on movies—Bob's eternal tap dancing—that's the zero hour for a father's nerves! Although I smoke all I want, jangled nerves have passed me by. That's because I smoke Camels. Camels have the fine flavor of the choicest, most expensive tobaccos. And I find they never upset my nerves."

Cecil Smith, who rose to the top of the polo world this year with a ten-goal rating, says:

"Polo makes continuous demands on your nervous system. A fraction of a second determines whether or not you can successfully ride your opponent out of a play and a fraction of an inch in your aim may mean a goal—made or missed! Most polo players, myself included, smoke a great deal. And most polo players, myself included again, prefer to smoke Camels. They are milder. I like their flavor and they never upset my nerves."

How Are YOUR Nerves?

Nerves, nerves, nerves! You hear them discussed everywhere today. For most of us are more or less the victims of irritated, jumpy nerves.

If troubled that way, check up on your eating, your work, your recreation, your sleep. And to be on the safe side about "nerves," begin to smoke Camels.

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS than any other popular brand.

No wonder they are milder, finer in flavor, free from irritation! Make Camels your smoke! You'll be delighted with Camels' flavor... the gentle mood of enjoyment... well-being... and poise which steady smokers find in Camels.

THROUGH THE SPYGLASS

-:- Viewing the New -:-

You little shoppers who want to learn the names of the shops whose items are listed in this column day by day . . . call GRANT 6500 . . . and ASK FOR THE SPYGLASS. Or send in a stamped self-addressed envelope for your reply. THE SPYGLASS is always on the alert, peering out new "finds" . . . and you will be answered promptly!

* * *

Just when we had gotten our Spring fever curbed for the moment ... had manfully buckled on our shopping armor to sally forth in search of porch and after-moving news, someone up and 'phoned us that we Must ... simply MUST, hump ourselves down to one of the stores to see and hear a movie-fashion show that had come on from New York.

And so we went! And so we haven't a complete selection of your porch-ositics as yet! And so you must just hold your breaths and curb your mad yearnings ... and watch for tomorrow's bliterings to finish out today's beginnings!

* * *

Anyway ... the fashion show was ... IS (it's still to be seen the rest of the week) wonderful! It's sponsored by V——, a fashion magazine ... and the company that makes those famous soap flakes, L——, that make things soft and fluffy! And so you see ... the showing couldn't help but be a successful one.

You'll see clothes for every hour in day—from yawning nighties to sparklingly wideawake sports frocks. All of them tubbable! All of them easy to make with one of the V—— patterns!

And the L— people have loaned their very very special representative all the way from Massachusetts just for the express purpose of spreading the good word about on how, when, where, and why to tub your tubbable fabrics with the best results.

She'll be glad to answer any question on your washability problems.

* * *

Then we shook our heels and dashed away in the direction of the porch furniture . . . promptly losing our much-lost heart, again!

For seldom have we seen such lovely pieces for so little money. Like large bamboo tables . . . about 48 inches in diameter (although we didn't have a yardstick and couldn't swear to it) . . . and the tops covered with woven split-bamboo. These for $5.75, if you can imagine such a thing!

And a little half-grown one to match . . . for that low chair when you want to just stretch out your hand and find your glass, or magazine. Just the right height for this . . . just like their papas . . . and costing $3.25.

Veterans' Join in Mount Rushmore Contest

Canciellere Praises Project

Veterans' organizations of Western Pennsylvania have joined with former service men's groups throughout the country in active participation in the Mount Rushmore Memorial inscription competition as an expression of their historic pride.

Mr. Cancelliere

Leaders of all groups are urging their members to join the millions of Americans who are preparing 600-word texts revealing their impressions of the glorious progress made through nine episodes of history. They are joined with the Sun-Telegraph and associated Hearst newspapers in seeking the epic that will be carved on the mountainside that will become a national monument in the Black Hills of South Dakota.

CHAIRMEN NAMED

Veterans of Foreign Wars: District Commander Frank L. McGowan, chairman, 125 Elizabeth avenue, Avalon.

URGED TO PARTICIPATE

Salvatore Cancelliere, grand chef de train, Pennsylvania state department, "40 and 8" societies, today urged every member of his organization to participate. He said:

"No other patriotic project has ever afforded the people themselves such a wonderful opportunity to have a part in its creation. It challenges the imagination when you consider that the man, woman or youth who writes the winning inscription text will have his or her words carved in granite of a natural mountain monument to exist beyond a million years."

Since the closing date for submitting entries has been extended to May 30, there is sufficient time for new entrants to study and prepare their texts.

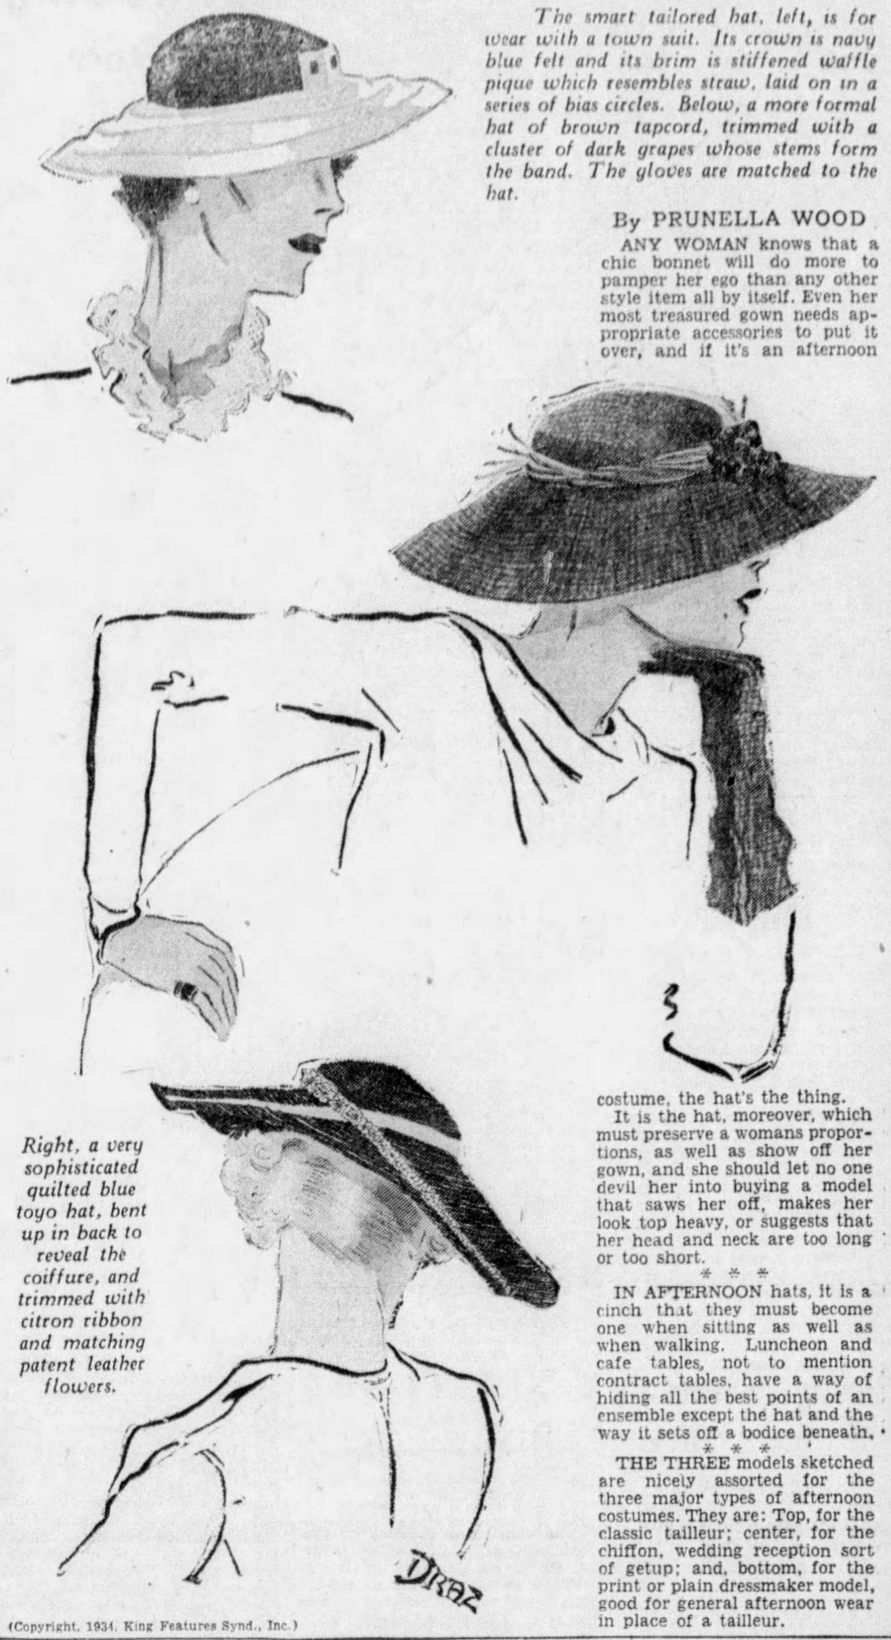
ASSISTANCE OFFERED

Special assistance was being offered participants in the closing broadcast of a radio series of discussions at 5:45 p. m. (daylight time) today over Station WCAE. William G. Fixel, Instructor in History, Allegheny High School, was being interviewed on the final three episodes of history needed in the text.

Further help is available tonight when the "Voice of America" program presents a dramatized version of one of the episodes at 8:30 p. m. (daylight time) over Station WJAS. Every participant should hear this program and learn how the sponsors, Underwood - Elliott - Fisher, offer special awards of 20 typewriters.

AFTERNOON HATS ARE IMPORTANT

The smart tailored hat, left, is for wear with a town suit. Its crown is navy blue felt and its brim is stiffened waffle pique which resembles straw, laid on in a series of bias circles. Below, a more formal hat of brown tapcord, trimmed with a cluster of dark grapes whose stems form the band. The gloves are matched to the hat.



Right, a very sophisticated quilted blue toyo hat, bent up in back to reveal the coiffure, and trimmed with citron ribbon and matching patent leather flowers.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

ANY WOMAN knows that a chic bonnet will do more to pamper her ego than any other style item all by itself. Even her most treasured gown needs appropriate accessories to put it over, and if it's an afternoon costume, the hat's the thing.

It is the hat, moreover, which must preserve a womans proportions, as well as show off her gown, and she should let no one devil her into buying a model that saws her off, makes her look top heavy, or suggests that her head and neck are too long or too short.

* * *

IN AFTERNOON hats, it is a cinch that they must become one when sitting as well as when walking. Luncheon and cafe tables, not to mention contract tables, have a way of hiding all the best points of an ensemble except the hat and the way it sets off a bodice beneath.

* * *

THE THREE models sketched are nicely assorted for the three major types of afternoon costumes. They are: Top, for the classic tailleur; center, for the chiffon, wedding reception sort of getup; and, bottom, for the print or plain dressmaker model, good for general afternoon wear in place of a tailleur.

DRESSES 17.50

AT New York's Hotel Astor, some days ago, they had a revue of summer fashions. We looked ... and what we considered the most individual, the most effective, we BOUGHT. We chose sheers, washable silks, exotic prints, lush crepes, in types that will be nation-wide favorites for business, afternoon and dinner wear. We believe these 17.50's offer a new high in fashion. The model pictured is an ombre striped crepe, here in purplish-blue and brown. Second Floor Dress Shops ... Juniors, Misses ... Women's, Half-sizes.

Sonnet: Spring Model 1934

I know we have not changed in any way
That you or I could well describe, unless
With spiteful little words we chose to say
The dreary things a hundred signs confess.
This gentle racket, spiced with mad conceits,
Its ribald wisdom, ecstasies, and all
Its gracile arts and cankering defeats,
We know: we've tasted love—and rue and gall.

So being old and wise in love, we'll heed
The signs and portents, note the roving glance,
And smiling take our separate roads, agreed
That Love must be the secret god of chance.

The dream began when laughter was our friend—
And now, my dear, with laughter let it end.
—Bill Carpenter.

The Pulitzer Prizes

The Pulitzer Prize selections are kept very "secret." They aren't sent to us, at any rate—we have to go dig 'em up, ourself. But we like nothing better than printing news before the other papers print it, which will be on May 8.

As stated here yesterday, "Men in White" is the show . . . In American history, Herbert Agar's "The People's Choice" (Houghton-Mifflin) is the winner . . . In biography, "John Hay," by Tyler Dennett (Dodd, Mead) . . . Verse, Robert Hillyer's "Collected Verse" (Knopf) . . . The winning novel, "The Lamb in His Bosom," by Carolyn Miller (Harper), and the best foreign news correspondent is Frederick Birchall (Times).

Oop!

Your correspondent was in a mood last night while dining with Fannie Brice and her groom, Billy Rose, a mean cracker.

"Do you know something?" said the columnist, "I don't like me any more."

The Retort Proper

They were relating this about a movie producer, who complimented his star writers, directors and cameramen, instead of giving them a bonus or a salary raise. The other day one producer rewarded an assistant with a gift.

"Open it up now," he beamed, as he handed it to the lad; "look at what I gave you."

The fellow opened it, and it was a framed photo of the producer.

"Well," well'd the big-hearted one, "what do you say?"

Last Laugh

Rupert Hughes, one of the better authors, was hired by Paramount to prepare an original story. The one he delivered (he got $2,000 for it) was turned down. He asked their permission to use the plot elsewhere and received it.

It was "Miss Fane's Baby Is Stolen."

I Don't Believe It

It was related via the air that Karl Dane, the actor who killed himself because he was broke and jobless, applied to a studio for any kind of work—even as a carpenter, his trade. The same studio that turned him down—spent $2,000 for his funeral.

"Now this is the Hollywood version," writes "Anonymous" (which is ritz for Yes-Man), "Karl wasn't turned down, at all. He was offered a role, but he spurned it, saying the money was too low."

The paragraph is jotted down now merely to make Karl Dane's Hollywood pals, who know the facts, all the more furious.

Sotto Voce

Perry Whalen, Chicago: The line was: "All the lights on Broadway are never as bright as the candle in the window when you come back home."

But When?

Newspaper reporters were discussing Dillinger, again. Some, who interviewed him after the Tucson capture as he was on the plane coming East, say that he doesn't trust reporters, but he bears them no ill will. Jack Lait was among others who got him to talk a little. When Lait had to leave—Dillinger said:

"So long, Lait. See you in a few weeks."

"I won't live that long," gagged Jack, "when you finally get out."

"Yes you will," was the reply, "very soon."

But not if "Mr. Whiskers" (Uncle Sam) sees him first.

The Morning Mail

A letter signed "John D" came from Milwaukee, but Dillinger is too busy to write letters. The lingo in it is new underworldese to me, anyhow. Have a look:

"Dear Winchell: Sure, I heard you. Never knocked a mugg yet, but don't say I wouldn't like to. If you want real news, how about the S. P. dick who was the finger for the Hamm and Bremer snatches?

"Tried to cross me, too. It's not the hicks that worry me, it's these city slickers. I'll be on the Erie, Sunday night — if. — John D."

Glossary

The above isn't from Dillinger for another reason. He isn't wanted for any "raps"—he's not even wanted. They merely want him dead—the orders are to shoot him! For murder of a federal sleuth.

"Mugg" means "anybody" . . . "S. P. dick" means St. Paul detective . . . "Finger" is the person who arranges matters . . . and "on the Erie" means to listen.

THEATER -:- Comment On Stage -:- HOT FROM HOLLYWOOD

Stage Needs Revolution Is the Belief of Mr. Church

By GEORGE SEIBEL

Samuel Harden Church, president of the Carnegie Institute, is a lover of the theater, a student of its history and technique, and author of some plays which have been produced on the stage, so his answers to the question "What Shall We Do About the Theater?" have general interest and much weight. When I talked with him the other day, over WCAE, he said the theater needs a revolution.

Col. Church thinks the principal cause of the theater's decline is the competition of the moving pictures, but he looks on moving pictures as one of the useful developments in the history of the theater—for popular entertainment and instruction.

Mr. Seibel

His idea is that the moving picture houses have won their popularity by a one-price low charge for admission, which permits patrons to choose any seats—all at one price. The legitimate theater must meet this low price.

Col. Church would charge the usual minimum for the reserved seats in the orchestra, and would open up all the remainder of the seats — first-come-first-served — like the moving picture houses—at a uniform price of 50 cents.

Occasionally the manager of some high-priced spectacle might have to raise his prices to give him a fair profit. But he should still preserve the uniform two prices—one for reserved seats, all the rest at one price much lower.

MAKE ACTORS AUDIBLE

Col. Church also wants the actors to speak so their voices will be heard plainly in the top seats of the uppermost balcony.

At the present time it's pretty difficult to hear the actors in the large theaters if you sit back more than four or five rows. Col. Church and I happened to see each other at the same play not long ago, and in walking out of the theater we agreed that we had not heard more than half the dialogue in the early scenes because of its rapid fire and inarticulate delivery by the players, with three or four exceptions. The star was among the sinners.

Both of us, at a different hour the next day, told the star he was ruining the popularity of his play by this inarticulate diction. He was so sensible that he changed the whole tempo of the dialogue, and admitted the suggestion had made an immediate improvement in his play; though it took 10 minutes longer the next night, it was 50 per cent better.

THE NEW ACOUSTICS

So that the regular theater may reach the clear enunciation to which people have been educated by the talking pictures, Col. Church believes it has become necessary to adopt an amplifying apparatus which will actually carry even whispered words to the high seats in those balconies. When that's done, and the price system changed, people would begin to come back to the regular theater, which must be preserved as a precious heritage that has come down to us in all its splendor from ancient times.

Out at Carnegie Institute, in the Music Hall, apparatus has recently been installed that will carry whispered words with perfect audibility to every seat in the house. This ought to be done—in fact, it is an imperative requirement in the theater.

Col. Church also thinks the public, unfortunately, through the influence of the pictures, have lost their habit of expressing approval by applause. This silence in great dramatic moments is discouraging to the players, who fall into mechanical habits of acting unless they meet a spontaneous and reciprocal support from the audience. That is one way the public can help in the restoration of the theater to its glory and power.

There's something in these ideas advanced by Col. Church—something in all of them.

Players and Plays

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Dick Powell is starred in the new Stanley feature, "20 Million Sweethearts," comedy with music having a radio atmosphere that is heightened by several groups of artists of the air. Appearing with Dick are Pat O'Brien and Ginger Rogers.

The Fulton's new attraction is "The Mystery of Mr. X," in which the cast is headed by Robert Montgomery, Elizabeth Allan and Lewis Stone. Montgomery, a thief, and Stone, detective, both seek solutions of murders committed by "Mr. X."

The Warner now is presenting as its feature a yarn that has Lee Tracy again appearing as a high-geared newspaper scoop-man. It's called "I'll Tell the World," and in it Tracy foils conspirators against a princess, heir to a throne.

Seats are on sale in the Nixon for the appearance of Misha and Lucy Gehrman and their Yiddish company next Monday night only. They will be seen in "A Little Happiness."

Students of Brookwood Labor College, Katonah, N. Y., will present a program of plays, skits and songs in Malta Hall auditorium, North avenue, North Side, at 8:15 o'clock next Wednesday night.

The Pittsburgh Cultural League is sponsoring two Soviet films, to be shown in Carnegie Lecture Hall Friday evening, May 11. The pictures are "A Jew at War" and "The Forty-first." The latter is the story of a girl sharpshooter of the Russian revolution, who falls in love with a prisoner, and shoots him rather than deliver him to headquarters, providing the "forty-first" notch for her rifle.

A New Orleans theater truthfully advertised "Mae West in 'I'm no Angle'" . . . Irene Castle, once a star in silent films, has been signed for pictures by Warner Brothers.

Movies Folk Do Assist Needy

By JIMMY STARR

HOLLWOOD, Cal., May 3.—Hello! For some time, now, Hollywood has suffered under a reputation for extreme cruelty to its unfortunate it is said that it forgets sorrows and tragedies.

Despite this sensational picture, which is less than one per cent true, Hollywood does have a heart, the fulminations of its numerous enemies to the contrary.

It is a story that seldom gets out, this quiet and unpublicized charity that goes on day after day, for the screen city is practical in its help.

Interesting to note is the fact that Hollywood's poor are never paupers, and that official police reports show that less than one-half of one per cent of ts beggers never worked in pictures.

Hollywod gives employment and restores confidence. There is the case of Jack Mulhall. Jack's fall from the top of the ranks was through a sudden whim of fate. Necessity forced him into the extra ranks.

The news traveled to Cecil B. DeMille, and the director gave him a few lines to say in "Cleopatra." And W. C. Fields helped the cause along by giving this fine actor a real role in "The Old Fashioned Way."

Thus Mulhall is being helped through and in a way that could not possibly offend the actor.

Among others aided in similar are Betty Blythe, Mahlon Hamilton, William Farnum, Bryant Washburn, Mary McLaren, Helene Chadwick, Alice Lake, Julanne Johnston, Stuart Holmes, Neely Edwards and Leo White.

So, when rumor says that Hollywood is cruel; that it is unkind to its fallen greats, consider the good work it does quietly.

George Stevens, the director, was having his Beverly Hills home repainted. The painter made a botch of the job. In firing him the other day, George said:

'Go, and never darken my door again."

Kinema knickknacks . . Gloria Blondell, Joan's kid sis, is after more dramatic training—and is headin' for Detroit, where she'll do another road show of "She Loves Me Not" . . . Guy Lombardo won't be with the Burns and Allen team when they return to the air in September . . . I've a sneaky feeling that Ted Fiorito will join Eddie Cantor on the latter's new ether wave program.

Junior Licensed Fliers Already Enrolled In Junior Birdmen "Tail Spin" Unit!

By J. JAMES MOORE, Pittsburgh Wing Commander

Greetings, Junior Birdmen! Who won the local motto contest awards? Who are the four lucky members who will be sent on that gala three-day trip to Washington? Those are the two questions every member is asking himself and herself each evening as they pick up the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and start digesting the Junior Birdmen news of the day. The committee reports progress on their way towards the selection of the local winners. I will probably have them by late today or tomorrow, ready to announce in our column on Sunday.

I wish I could break the suspense and give you the names of the winners today, but it is no easy mater going through several thousand mottos. Many members sent in as many as 20 and 30. That is some list, I don't know whether there is a prize winner among them. Those members certainly deserve an award, but they will be judged on merit, not numbers.

So keep the motto fires burning, members, and on Sunday we will have for you the complete information you are seeking. The answer to "who won the motto contest?"

Tail Spin Unit

Well, members, here is some more good news. Throughout the country our Junior Birdmen wings are reporting that they are in receipt of applications for memberships from young licensed fliers. You know there are a great many licensed fliers within our age limits and I think we should put them in a unit of their own. Not that they will be any different from us. Oh no, but sort of as an honor. They will have the same privileges in joining our activities—but will have no added privileges. However, they will be enrolled in the "Tail-Spin Unit" of our Junior Birdmen organization and a special file will be kept at all local wing headquarters of the tail-spin members of that territory so that they may be called upon from time to time in assisting in our programs for field days and other similar activities.

The first Tail Spin member in the Sun-Telegraph wing, believe it or not Ripley, is only 17 years of age. His nanme is Bob Pyper and he lieves at 671 Interboro avenue, Lincoln Place. You have heard of Bob before this, for he has been featured in several air meets, air circuses and made several flights which have won him wide newspaper publicity. Besides he is the youngest flyer in Pennsylvania and holds a private flying license.

Bob has hundreds of young admirers in the Pittsburgh district who he knows personally. You can find him most any day up at Bettis Airport working on a plane, going or coming back from an airplane flight or picking up a few flying tricks from the older pilots. He brought his membership coupon into the Sun-Telegraph office two weeks ago to ask if he could do something to help this new nation-wide youth organization. He said:

"Flying is my hobby and my life work. I would like to become a member of the Junior Birdmen and perhaps I could help the boys and girls in their flying work. I have built several model planes, and I want to build more of them and compete in one of the model plane derbies. I'm sure that this fine organization will be of great benefit to me."

Okay, Bob. We are glad to have you as a member, and extend our greetings to you as the first member of our "tail spin" unit. And here's hoping that you go into no uncontrolled tail spins!

But told on, we have more entries for our tail spin unit. Word just flashed over the wires from Lawrence Shaw, your national director, that the New York American wing in New York City, has two Tail Spin Members.

Their first member is Arthur Buchtenkirck, of Glen Cove, Long Island, who has made a couple of flights that have won him page one news in the newspapers. As a matter of fact, after receiving his pilot's license last August, he undertook a flight to Montreal just one week later, borrowing his instructor's Curtiss fledgling and taking with him a friend. Arthur ran into a fog bank at Peekskill, N. Y., and was forced to veer from his course, but arrived safely without much loss of time.

New York's other member is Joe E. Baltric, 20, who is a member of the 102nd observation squadron at Miller Field, Staten Island.

Greetings to both of you New York tail spinners, and many happy landings! All the Sun-Telegraph wing members will undoubtedly be happy to know that you two fellows are backing our club with all your heart, and there won't be any "sideslips." We invite you to our field day next month!

And say, if there are any more of you members who joined the junior birdmen who are licensed pilots, you better make yourself known. We want to add your names to our "tail spin" unit, too. Just drop me a line and let me have your license number.

Writers Club Visit

And now that we are off on the "jump," I'm soon going to announce to all of you members a unit which every boy and girl can join. A "writers' club unit" so that you may correspond with other junior birdmen all over the country by mail. That is something to look forward to all right. It is just one of the many more features which are in store for you.

So be sure that you follow the club news every single day and do get your friends to join our organization. Certainly, they will all want to wear our wings, learn model building, participate in our activities and become a real aviation enthusiast.

Happy landings!

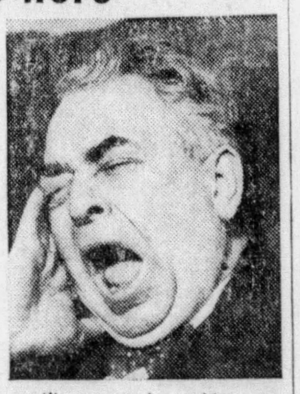
"spring fever" time is here

...and what does it mean to you?



JUST THIS: If you feel listless, tired, run-down, appetite dull, with a weak, let-down feeling...perhaps nervous and worn out...why not make an effort to "snap out" of this condition?

Try toning up your appetite...increasing your red-blood-cells—get in step with those who put zip and pep into everything they do...the best way to be happy and cheerful.

Colds, the "flu," or other illness, and poisons accumulated during the winter months, often diminish the number of red-blood-cells which are so vital in maintaining vigor...strength ...and a clear skin.

You need a tonic—

not just a so-called tonic...but a tonic that will tone up your blood...bring back to normal its red-cells...build up its hemo-glo-bin...stimulate the gastric juice flow. S.S.S. is specially designed to do this for you.

Perhaps your blood is the cause of your trouble...it frequently is. Try S.S.S....take it just before meals. Unless your case is exceptional you should soon notice a pick-up in your appetite...your color...skin...pep ...and energy should improve as your oxygen-carrying hemo-glo-bin increases.

S.S.S. is truly a blood and body invigorating tonic. Its value has been proven by generations of use, as well as by modern scientific appraisal, and it is especially good as a Spring tonic.

TERRY GROOMS CLARK TO REPLACE BUD PARMELEE

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

Pirate Brace Is Timely.
At Best for Tough Foes.
Bruins Jinx to French.
Giants Have New Blood.
Fifty-Year Throwback.
High Spots of '84 Here.

The tougher the opposition the better the Pirates perform, it appears, and their success in taking two out of three games from the Cubs to win the series and knock the Bruins out of first place offers the hope that they will be able to make a more satisfactory showing in the hard engagement with Bill Terry's world champion Giants than would have seemed possible a week ago. The New Yorkers, who came here with three straight wins to their credit, have yet to lose a series and have not been beaten twice in succession this season, but neither had the Cubs until they ran afoul of the Buccaneers.

Bill Terry

At any rate, there is the pleasing situation that the Giant series, looking like the hardest to date for the Rovers, finds things looking up in the Gibson camp and the Pirates in their best stride of the spring. They have won three of their last four games, their lone defeat in that stretch came only after a battle of 12 innings, for the first time this year two pitchers in succession have gone the route, the club has played two consecutive errorless jousts, the hitting is timely, and in general the team, while not yet in top form, is in a good spot to combat the Giant invasion successfully.

FRENCH FINDS BRUINS HIS WORST JINX

Larry French is still grieving about the decision he dropped to the Cubs this week in extra innings, not only because of the loss of the game itself, but because it marked the continuance of his worst jinx. The Bruins have been the hardest club in the league for French to beat, mainly because in previous years they were loaded up with right-hand hitters. The Pirate left-hander has defeated Chicago only three times since the came up to the majors, while losing eight times.

French has beaten the Cardinals oftener than he has downed any other team, 17 victories against 9 defeats. Against the Reds he has won 12 and lost 6; against the Giants, won 13 and lost 11; against the Dodgers, won 12 and lost 11; against the Phillies, won 10 and lost 11; and against the Braves, won 9 and lost 10.

GIANTS PRESENT SOME YOUNG PLAYERS

Jack Salveson

Joe Bowman, 23, is a right-hand pitcher from Portland. When previously tried by the A's he was a side-armer, but he has changed his style to overhand. Hank Lieber, 22, is an outfielder recalled after a year of seasoning in Memphis, where he hit .256. Al Smith, a left-hand relief pitcher, was carried as a coach last season because Terry wanted him as batting practice hurler and had no room on the roster for him as a player. He was also a soccer and basketball player. Harry Danning, reserve catcher, is the only Jewish player on the Giant payroll since Phil Weintraub was farmed.

SPORTS HERE FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Johnny Joyce, of Oakland, carries local sports fans back a half century by submitting a well preserved copy of the Pittsburgh Sportsman, dated May 3, 1884. Some excerpts: The Allegheny baseball club in the American Association shows the same malady that worked so disastrously in 1883—no coach, no captain. Albert and Battin clustered around a nice pop fly and waited breathlessly to hear who should take it, but all was silent as the tomb. It would be a good scheme to vote for a captain who will tell them who shall try for a ball, how many are out, etc. . . . It is a pity Hayes has had his head swelled by the flattery and adulation bestowed on him and particularly by that $500 offer . . . Swartwood plays a good first base and it is always a relief to see him at the bat . . . Battin is showing poor judgment at the bat in striking when the ball is away off . . . Make them run or fine them . . . And stop lushing . . . When there is a pretty woman in the stand Esterbrook generally forgets there is a game going on . . . One day he made eight errors at third.

JOHN L. ADDRESSES 'PIGS' IN AUDIENCE

Shifting from baseball, the paper publishes pictures of John L. Sullivan, heavyweight ring champion, and George Hosmer, oarsman, and continues its account of sport life 50 years ago today: Hissed by an audience in Charleston, S. C., Sullivan got mad, and, walking to the footlights, said: "There are always a few pigs in an audience. I confess I have been drinking a little bit, but if I had the pigs here who did the hissing I could make it warm for them." . . . A complimentary benefit was given at Lafayette Hall to Dominick McCaffrey, champion of Pennsylvania . . . Bilson Jack is on his feet once more and willing to give Clifford another fight for good stakes . . . Richard K. Fox offers to match the Japanese wrestler (no attempt at the latter's name) against William Muldoon for from $500 to $5,000 a side.

John L. Sullivan

Exposition Park has been rebuilt after fire and ready again for horseracing . . . Among the racing events in the future exciting most interest is the tenth running of the Kentucky Derby . . . The Philadelphia cricket team plays here today, wickets being pitched at 10 o'clock . . . Jimmy Kane has matched his dog Frank against Pet Kerley's Napoleon for $560 a side, each dog to weigh 35 pounds, give or take a pound . . . A very interesting event known only to a select few, will take place this afternoon at Brushton . . . From McKeesport comes word that John Teemer and Bernard Morris (oarsman and backer) have parted company; nothing further has been done in the proposed walking match between McClellan and Hammill, the latter's friends not having put up the necessary; there is to be a quoit match between Robert Moore and a Scotchman, whose name we have been unable to ascertain; Frank Torreyson has secured grounds in Reynoldsville for a baseball club . . . If, after every sculling race, winners of amounts worth considering, will call on the rower and present him with a V or an X, it will not be long until a crooked rowing race will be a very scarce article in Pittsburgh . . . Peter Priddy has challenged George Altmeyer to a boat race for $250.

Believe It Or Not By Ripley

(Reg. by U. S. Patent Office)

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE FASTEST TRAIN—Although modern railroad engineering and locomotive construction show greater progress year by year, railroad operators have yet to run a train that will eclipse the record set up by the Plant System (now the Atlantic Coast Line) 33 years ago. In 1901, the government was about to award a mail contract for the United States-Cuba mail. The Plant System and its competitor were racing wildly down the east coast when the Plant train was held up by engine failure, giving the competitor a long lead. At Burroughs the locomotive of another fast train was changed to the mail train with Engineer Albert Lodge at the throttle. At Screven, which is 61 miles from Savannah, Lodge opened the throttle wide on a downhill stretch and passed milepost 74 (now Satilla) exactly two and a half minutes later—five miles at the rate of 120 miles an hour. After such a sprint, Lodge held steady, fast speed all the way, and the Plant System was awarded the mail contract. Other fast runs were made in the early days also, the most outstanding of which are: New York Central, 1893, 112.5 miles per hour; Philadelphia & Reading, 1904, 115.2 miles per hour, and Michigan Central, 1904, 111.9 miles per hour. PIANO TECHNIQUE—A sensational musical performance in the "Believe It or Not Odditorium" on tour after the World's Fair of last year was that of Mort Mortensen. Mortensen, an extraordinary pianist, performs many unbelievable accomplishments on the ivory keyboard, but none as astounding as when he places table covers over the keyboards of two pianos, blindfolds himself, puts on gloves and then plays a different number on each piano, using a hand for each. At present he is filling engagements on New York's Great White Way.

TOMORROW: HIGHEST JUMP ON RECORD.

SOUTHPAW VET TO BE USED AS STARTER

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Memphis Bill Terry had a surprise announcement for the fans shortly after he brought his world champion Giants to Pittsburgh today. The boss of the New York team stated he would throw William Watson (Lefty) Clark at the Pirates in the first game of the series. The former southpaw star of the Dodger Clan has not thrown a ball for the Giant cause since the season began, owing to a lame arm, but Terry is so eager to get a starting pitcher to replace the bed-ridden Leroy Parmelee he said he would gamble on the lefthander's skill.

Parmelee recently underwent an operation for appendicitis and is lost to the champions for months. His sickness left Terry with only three reliable first-string hurlers—Carl Hubbell, Fred Fitzsimmons and Hal Schumacher. The small army of newspapermen with the Giants were convinced that Hubbell would open the series here, although he pitched three innings Tuesday, but Terry made an eleventh hour switch in favor of the former Dodger.

CLARK READY TO WORK

Clark reported to the Giants this spring with a bad arm. He was placed in care of a specialist who seems to have done a fine job on the southpaw. Lefty says he is ready to take his turn and Terry has taken him at his word.

The regret felt by Terry at the misfortune befalling Parmelee is partly assuaged by the rare form shown by Shortstop Travis Jackson, who was almost a total loss to the Giants for more than a season. Jackson's bad knee has responded to treatment and Travis' daily stunts have had a lot to do with keeping the Giants up around the top. The New York manager says the comeback of Jackson is one of the most unusual things he has ever observed in baseball.

Heinie Meine outpitched the great Lonnie Warneke and outsmarted the great Chicago batters yesterday as the Gibson Clan made it two in succession over the Bruins. The score was 4 to 2. Meine's cleverness and Arky

BENDER FIRST, SIR THOMAS DRILLED

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 3.—(AP.)—Cavalcade demonstrated in a workout today that he has recovered from the nervousness of his long trip following upon two fast-run victories in Maryland.

Under the guidance of Mack Garner, who will ride him Saturday, the colt ran the Derby distance—mile and a quarter—in 2:09 3-5, breezing all the way except for the stretch, where Garner let him out a bit to cover the last quarter in :24 2-5. The colt was clocked in the first four quarters at :25 2-5, :51 3-5, 1:19 3-5 and 1:46 1-5.

Garner also gave Time Clock, Cavalcade's stable mate, a full Derby workout, letting him out more to make it in 2:09 2-5, which Time Clock did handily. His time for the quarters was :25, :51, 1:18 and 1:43 3-5.

Sir Thomas gave a good showing in a short workout, five-eighths in 1:01 2-5. He raced the quarter in :24 and the half in :48 2-5.

In the only other workout of the morning Bender First, a "dark horse," ran a mile in 1:43 2-5. His time for the quarters was :25 3-5, :51, 1:16 2-5.

The probable derby field, listing only the more certain starters and leaving out four or five outsiders likely to be entered, follows:

Horse.	Jockey.	Prob. Odds.
*Cavalcade	M. Garner	4-1
*Time Clock	D. Bellizi	4-1

Local Man Bows In Dominion Play

HOT SPRINGS, Va., May 3.—(AP.)—Most favorites advanced to the semi-finals in both divisions in yesterday's play in the Old Dominion golf tournament here.

The nearest to an upset came in the defeat of Fay Ingalls, of Hot Springs, runner-up in the 1933 tournament, by William S. Meaney, of Greenwich, Conn., 2 up.

Robert A. Stranahan, of Toledo, medalist, advanced by defeating Collins Gaines, Jr., Washington and Lee student, 5 and 4. John J. Hicks Kerr, of Richmond, another favorite, eliminated H. R. McMahon, of Pittsburgh, 1 up.

Cup Golfers Decide On Blind Pairings

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 3.—Hon. Michael Scott, British captain, and Francis Ouimet, leader of the American team, met here today and discussed their lineups for the international Walker Cup golf matches here May 11 and 12. They decided they would put the names of the 16 singles players in a hat and draw them out, not attempt to rate their players and then pair them according to the order in which their names are drawn.

The daily double at the Aurora race track in Chicago yesterday paid $1,040.64 for $2. Coantesuta, winner of the second race, paid $35.82 and Dispatcher, winner in the third race, $9.90.

The heads of the National and American Leagues are reported at loggerheads over the site for the 1934 all-star game. Played last year in Comiskey Park, the American League field in Chicago, John Heydler, president of the National League, wants the second game to be played in the Polo Grounds at New York. William Harridge, American League president, suggests a coin be tossed.

Charles Seaback, noted billiard player and teacher, has been scheduled for a series of exhibitions in Pittsburgh on May 15 and 16.

Yvon Robert, Montreal wrestler, today is in a Holyoke (Mass.) hospital with his left side paralyzed as a result of injuries which he sustained when thrown from the ring in a bout there last night. It is feared Robert's back is broken.

LOCAL COLLEGE NET SQUADS PLAY TODAY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Varsity pastimers hold the local net spotlight this afternoon as Carnegie Tech's crew stages its home debut by entertaining Duquesne and the nicely balanced Pitt aggregation takes on Wash-Jeff on the Panther courts, which, incidentally, aren't in the Stadium this year, but up the hill near Trees gymnasium.

The Skibo-Duquesne affair marks the home debut of the Plaid. Neither contestant has shown ability of any consequence thus far, the Tartans having dropped an 8-1 decision to W. & J. at Little Washington on Tuesday and the Dukes having suffered a 6-1 reversal at the hands of Grove City and a 9-0 wallop from Pitt. Each outfit is using men around the head of the list whose past experience has been gained near the lower end of the column. The transition has not proved very successful, though several of the youthful racqueters are beginning to display improvement that presages better things before the season's wind-up.

Chairman Howard Burgwin and his Pittsburgh Tennis Association sanction and schedule committee began labor on the P. T. A. Inter-Club League cards at a noonday session today. Work on the Division A slate will be held up pending final makeup of the section, but a survey of playing dates for Divisions B and C will be inaugurated at once.

MEMORY TEST

TODAY'S QUESTIONS

How good is your memory of sports events, heroes and dates? Can you answer these questions?

1—Who were the two Pirates who hit home runs with the bases full in the same game against the Phillies in Philadelphia last season?

2—Who was the middleweight champion Harry Greb boxed at Exposition Hall in 1917?

3—When was the Schenley Park golf course converted into a public links?

4—For what was the late Sir Thomas Lipton most famous?

5—What former American League pitcher later starred as a slugging outfielder for the Pirates?

PIRATES MOVE ELMER TRAPP

Elmer Trapp, local infielder, who had a tryout with the Pittsburgh Pirates at Paso Robles, has been farmed out to the Little Rock club of the Southern Association, it was announced today by Pirate officials.

The Pirates previously had farmed Trapp to the Albany club, of the International League, but the Pittsburgher was sent back to the Corsairs after a short stay in that city.

DANCE FOR TEAM

A dance in honor of the South High School basketball team, state champion, will be held in Lithuanian-Citizens' Hall Friday night of next week under the auspices of the Southian Social Club.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Tom McKee was talking about the coming of Bill Tilden . . . You know, the fellow who used to win national tennis titles and Davis Cups between bickerings with the moguls of the U. S. L. T. A. . . . Tilden and Ellsworth Vines, another former champion, will give exhibitions, along with two other stars, in Duquesne Garden next Tuesday night . . . Tilden has cleaned up more than $200,000 for himself in his tour since the first of the year and has made professional tennis so attractive that the national body has seen the handwriting on the wall and bowed to the inevitable, which means that this summer we shall see open tournaments in which amateurs will compete against the once despised pros.

Bill Tilden

Pittsburgh is no new spot for William Tilden . . . He has played here once before as a pro and it was here that he served in the R. O. T. C. during the war, out at Carnegie Tech. . . . He was just coming along in those days and he recalls that one day he called up a local newspaper and said he'd like to write some tennis for it and was told to send it in and if it could be used he'd be paid for it at the usual space rates . . . Later he played in a tournament or two here, and is remembered mainly for the fact that he was a showman even then, limping about on a bad ankle, or one which he believed to be bad, when he missed a shot and, forgetting all about it when he got off a particularly good stroke.

Tilden, now 42, has gone a long way since then, but he remains the greatest showman in the sport . . . He leans toward the temperamental and theatrical, which pleases some folks and is a distinct pain in the neck to others . . . It is nothing for him on his present tour to object to everything when he steps on the courts, to fight about the layout of the place, the way the crowd is seated, the lighting arrangements, the photographers, the linesmen and the umpire and even on occasion the ball boys . . . But a lot of it is just for effect . . . Some of it has grown upon him . . . He doesn't mean it . . . The best thing to do when he begins to teeter on his emotional side is to walk away from him and let him cool off.

He met his match when he was playing Martin Plaa, the Frenchman, in New York . . . Plaa began to mimick him . . . When Tilden would throw his racket into the air in disgust, Plaa would throw his on the court, and vice versa . . . If Tilden walked to a sideline to remonstrate with someone, Plaa would go to the opposite side of the court and do likewise . . . The payoff came when a linesman called an out on Bill which Bill thought was inside . . . Plaa waited for Bill to serve again and then batted the ball as far as he could out of court, high over Bill's head, and then yelled because it wasn't declared good . . . That licked Bill . . . He blew up higher than a kite and it was two sets later before he could get his feet back on the ground.

But to return to Advance Man McKee . . . He tells you with the straight face of a wrestling promoter who is pleading that his men are "shooting" that there is a genuine rivalry between Tilden and young Vines . . . He says Tilden is irked because he can't beat Vines consistently and Ellsworth now is a couple of matches up on Bill in their series . . . He says Tilden gives Ellsworth the go-by whenever the mood grips him and that it is nothing for him to drive out of a city in which they have played and go on to the next stop leaving Vines to get there the best way he can, by train, automobile or on foot . . . It sounds funny, but, then, Tilden is Tilden, a genius in his line, and geniuses are known to do stranger things than that.

The Tilden tourists were due to show here a month ago, but the Garden was not available for them at the time . . . Meanwhile interest has grown in Bill's appearance and it wouldn't be in the least surprising if he should play to a jammed Garden when the show goes on . . . Gosh, didn't we even go for the bike race like nobody's business!—HARRY KECK.

CORSAIRS COST BRUINS LEAD IN RACE

Associated Press.

As the Eastern clubs of the National League move on the West for the opening of the first intersectional strife of the 1934 season a timely warning might be to look out for the Pittsburgh Pirates. It appears very much to the point as the Buccaneers clash with the league leading New York Giants in the first series.

So far the Cubs have held the spotlight more than any other western club but it was Pittsburgh, in third place with only a fair showing against Cincinnati and St. Louis, which knocked Chicago out of the lead. The Pirates won 4-2 yesterday with Heine Meine, veteran righthander, on the slab.

GIANTS IN LEAD

Chicago's defeat dropped the Cubs a half game behind the Giants, who wobbled through to their third straight victory over Brooklyn, 6 to 5, when Frank O'Doul smashed a pinch homer with two aboard in the eighth and Hal Schumacher managed to pitch a complete game after being knocked out three times running.

The Cardinals won the other National League struggle 4 to 1, from Cincinnati, which had to get along without Jim Bottomley. Philadelphia and Boston were unscheduled.

The Cleveland Indians slipped nearer the American League lead without playing a game as both New York and Detroit suffered reverses. The Yanks bowed 6-2 to Washington when the Senators landed on Russell Van Atta in the first inning, collecting six hits and four runs before he retired with only one out, and finishing the job against Johnny Murphy in the same inning.

BROWNS BUMP TIGERS

The St. Louis Browns handed the Tigers a 5-2 setback on a combination of home runs by Irving Burns and Ray Pepper that produced all the tallies and George Blaeholder's seven-hit hurling. Philadelphia's Athletics outslugged Boston, 12-11, after spotting the Red Sox six runs in the first two innings. Bob Johnson's pinch homer in the seventh finally put the A's ahead.

Chicago was bracketed with Cleveland for an off day.

TERRY TO SEEK NEW STARTER

ARKY HITS HOMER

The fleet Pirate shortstop smacked a Warneke offering into the rightfield stands with Fred Lindstrom aboard in the first round. That was the punch that ruined the one-hit ace for the afternoon. The Pirates picked up a cheap tally in the fourth after Chuck Klein had lost Suhr's double in the sun. The loft went for a double and Gus tallied later on a muff by Dolph Camilli, Manager Grimm's understudy. The Waner boys and Lindy blended their punch to produce an earned run in the fifth.

Leo Hartnett's bad baserunning helped the Pirates in the third when the enemy made three bingles and drew a pass to make but one run. Leo was picked off second when Woodie English failed to bunt on a sacrifice attempt. Klein's homer into the rightfield seats in the sixth, Chuck's sixth of the season, provided the invaders with their second tally. Meine finished with a lot of stuff, three Cubs biting the dust in the ninth.

The Giants yesterday announced the sale of Fresco Thompson, veteran infielder and former Pirate, to Montreal of the International League. Thompson was with Philadelphia and Brooklyn besides the Bucs.

CHILLYSAUCE

Fred Lindstrom proved such a nuisance to Lonnie Warneke in the rubber battle between the warm rivals that the ace righthander dusted off the Pirate lefthelder in the eighth round. Fred got up out of the dirt and spanked his third hit of the afternoon.

Lindy came out of the tense fight with a triple and two singles. Cookie Lavagetto was held hitless, but Billy Herman had to turn in a leaping one-hand snatch of a liner to flag down the Italian kid.

Lloyd Waner came out of his batting slump by hitting safely twice and he drew a pass. Lloyd's second hit was a perfect bunt to English.

Vaughan cracked out seven homers in the California battles of the Pirates and now he may have the range on the right field stands of Forbes Field. Klein's homer carried into the upper deck of the same section.

Pirate fans are not sorry Bill Jurges has departed. This so-called light batter finds the Oakland orchard a happy hunting grounds. He connected for six hits in the three contests.

THE GAME OF SOFTBALL

—What It's All About—

This is the twelfth installment of a series of rules of softball being published in connection with a district amateur tournament which the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph will conduct this summer, the winner of which will represent Pittsburgh in the national tournament in Chicago in September. Players are urged to clip and preserve the series.

RULE 22—RETURNING TO BASES

3—If the umpire declares a dead ball, according to Rule 11, unless it also be a fourth ball and he be forced to advance.

4—If the person or clothing of the umpire interferes with the catcher's throw.

6—If the coacher intentionally interferes with a thrown ball, but a ball which accidentally hits the coacher shall be played.

RULE 23—WHEN BASE RUNNERS ARE OUT

1—If he hits a fair or foul fly which a fielder catches in his hands before the ball touches the ground.

4—If in running to or between bases, he runs out of a direct line between such bases to avoid being touched with the ball in the hands of an opponent. If a fielder in the act of fielding a batted ball is in the path of a runner, the runner must go behind such fielder in order to avoid him. Intentionally running in front of a fielder attempting to field a ball shall be considered interference.

5—If, in running the last half of the distance between home and first base, he runs outside of the three-foot line while the ball is being fielded to first base.

6—If he fails to avoid or runs into a fielder in the act of fielding a batted ball.

8—If, when the ball is in play, he is touched at any time by the ball in the hands of a fielder while off the base to which he is entitled.

9—If, after over-running first, he attempts to run to second and is touched with the ball before returning safely to first base.

10—If a fair or foul fly is caught by a fielder and touched to the base which he has left, provided he has left before the catch or before the ball was touched by the fielder. (See Rule 20, Article 2.)

13—If the ball is played to the next base for a force-out; that is, if first base, first and second bases, or first, second and third bases, are occupied and the batsman becomes a base-runner by virtue of a fair-hit ball, the base-runner so occupying a base shall cease to be entitled to it, in which case the out may be made in the same manner as in running to first base, except should the umpire decide that the hit is an infield fly as per Rule 17, Article 1.

14—If he fails to touch each base in the proper order, and the ball is returned and held by a fielder on the base which he has failed to touch; provided, that the umpire shall not make a ruling on such a play unless his attention is called to the omission.

15—If he intentionally kicks or interferes with a ball which he has just bated, provided he is on fair territory. If on foul territory, which includes the batter's box, it shall be called a foul ball.

16—If a coacher at third base physically assists a runner or attempts to stop him on his way to home plate while a play is being made on that runner.

17—If the batsman interferes with a play being made at home plate, except if it be the third out, in which event the batsman is out.

18—If, while advancing or being forced to return to a base, he fails to touch the bases in regular or reverse order, provided the base which he omitted to touch, or the base-runner, is touched with the ball. If the pitcher delivers the ball to the next batsman, this provision shall no longer apply.

19—If he takes a lead off a base before the ball has passed home plate or has been hit.

DUKES OPPOSE KISKI LINKS PLAYERS

Collegiate golf, a women's invitation tournament and open play for women at two country clubs hold the district spotlight in golf circles today.

At Saltsburg, the Dukes of Duquesne will meet Capt. Foster Meyer and the Kiski squad. Kiski, with another strong team, will provide all of the opposition necessary for teams traveling to Jim Marks' domicile.

At Churchill Valley, Jimmy O'Donnell will supervise a women's invitation tourney, the first of the season. Jimmy stated last night that many early starting times had been alloted.

Honus Says:

By HONUS WAGNER
Former Star, Now Coach of Pirates

To the Sports Editor:

I was driving out to the ball park the other day and ahead of me was one of those roadhogs.

Honus Wagner

Honest, a roadhog is a chiseler of the cheapest type. He is generally taking up three-fourths of the road on his own side and one-quarter on the opposite traffic side.

He seldom has a collision, but he causes plenty of them and gives a lot of people headaches trying to avoid him. These drivers are the most dangerous at night. They are something like ball players who go out of their way to spike or deliberately give players the shoulder to try to knock the ball out of their hands.

Something should be done to get these hogs off the roads.

Regards,
HONUS WAGNER.

NATIONAL OPEN DRAWS FIELD OF 1,050

NEW YORK, May 3.—(AP.)—A near record entry of 1,050 players, only 127 under the all-time total which competed in 1930, today had been received by the United States Golf Association for the national open championship at Merion Cricket Club, Philadelphia, June 7, 8 and 9.

Only 150 of the entries, however, will compete in the championship proper. All except 37 of these must win their places in sectional qualifying rounds May 7 and 14.

The 30 low scorers of last year and the seven members of the United States Walker Cup team who did not thus qualify are exempt from the qualifying play.

Penn State Loses, St. Vincent Victor

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., May 3.—Late inning rallies failed to give Penn State enough runs to catch Western Maryland yesterday and the Lions lost their second straight game. The score was 7 to 5. State's only tally up to the eighth was a homer by Zawacki.

LATROBE, Pa., May 3.—In a loosely played game the St. Vincent College nine defeated the Indiana State Teachers' team by a score of 13-8 yesterday.

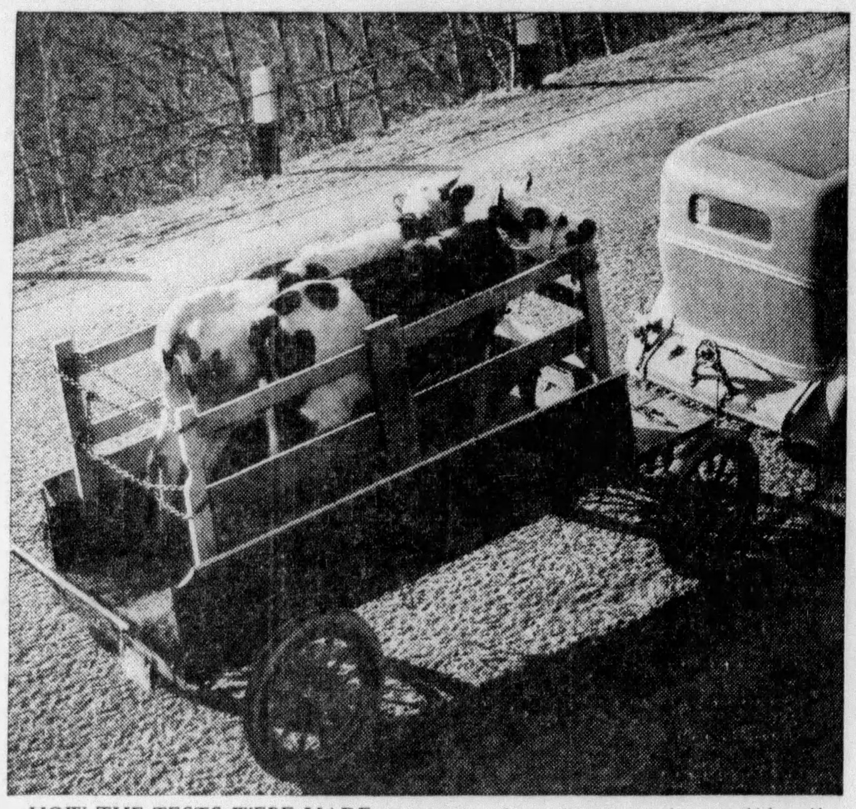
THINK THERE'S NO DIFFERENCE IN GASOLINES?



What's the real truth about gasolines? Is any one really uniformly better than the others? You'll find the frank, unvarnished answer to these questions in the amazing story of tests on famous American hills with 33 gasolines . . .

Beginning last fall, Gulf started a series of tests which lay to rest forever the theory that "there's no difference in gasolines!"

We journeyed to famous American hills—from Massachusetts to South Carolina. On 12 mountain grades, we tested 33 gasolines—including every well-known brand sold within the area visited.

The object of each test was to find out how far each gasoline would propel a car and heavy load up the grade before the motor stalled—and so prove, once and for all, that there is a big difference in the power of various gasolines.

NOW READ THE STARTLING RESULTS . . .

© 1934, GULF REFINING CO., PITTSBURGH, PA.

HOW THE TESTS WERE MADE—One at a time, the gasolines competed to see which could pull a car and heavy load farthest up a mountain grade. Car was kept in high gear. Picture shows Petersburg Mt. (near Williamstown, Mass.) test. Results of all tests certified by notary public.

MAKING IT TOUGH for the gasolines—The Ford test car backs up to the Farmer's Cooperative Ass'n. siding and takes on a load of wood for the Mt. Pisgah, N. C. Test—in which Gulf beat 8 other Gasolines.

NEW KIND OF GAS TANK—Gas being tested was placed in jar, which fed direct to carburetor. This made possible quick changes of gasoline for each test run.

OFF TO CHIMNEY ROCK—Jack Weaver's 1933 Oldsmobile, with 2-1000 lb. mules in tow, testing 9 gasolines on the celebrated Chimney Rock, N. C., hill. Gulf wins!

Study this chart carefully. Each brand of gasoline is denoted by a letter, A to Z6. It proves conclusively that Good Gulf Gasoline is uniformly better than other fuels of its price.

GULF wins more hill tests than 32 other gasolines combined!

HOW 33 GASOLINES RANKED (IN ALL TESTS TO DATE)

All gasolines tested, except a few "third grade" brands, sold for approximately the same price as That Good Gulf. Each brand is denoted by a letter.

STOCK MARKET SHOWS SIGNS OF RALLY

NEW YORK, May 3.—(AP.)—The stock market showed signs of rejuvenation today although traders were still cautious and the activity restricted.

Commentators spoke of at least a technical rally of moderate proportions and buying in some of the groups was attributed partly to this hope. The short interest, however, was said to be relatively small and stimulation for recovery was being awaited from other sources.

Equities received no assistance from grains. The cereals were a trifle easy as further reports of showers in the drought districts were received. Cotton and rubber were about even. Silver futures came back substantially, but the bar metal was only advanced 1/8 of a cent an ounce to 42¾ cents. Bonds were irregular, although United States government securities pushed up to new highs for the past year or longer. Dollar rates were fairly steady.

Washington activities in relation to the stock exchange control bill were still among the major worries of the financial district and the public continued to exhibit much diffidence toward shares in general. Margin calls were sent out following yesterday's break, but most of these were said to have been met without much difficulty.

Selling of some of the airplane manufacturing stocks followed announcement that the War Department, at the request of the House Military Affairs Sub-committee, had decided to draw new specifications which would assure free competition for the building of $7,500,000 of new planes for the service.

Wall street's silver proponents were heartened by the action of Senator Thomas in offering a modification of the Dies-Thomas remonetization bill as an amendment to the Glass measure providing for loans to industry.

Renewed activity in various sugar issues was said to have been based on expectations that the President was preparing to sign the new sugar bill. The legislation may benefit domestic refiners, it is hoped, by protecting them from further increases in competition from "off shore whites." Supplies for this market would be limited to approximately present consumptive requirements.

WHEAT CLOSES AT DECLINE

CHICAGO, May 3.—Showery conditions southwest, west and northwest tended to diminish uneasiness today regarding drought menace to crops. Largely as a result wheat prices dragged lower.

Pronounced curtailment of speculative activity was a feature in all grains. Only passing notice was taken of monetary factors, including a statement credited to Secretary Morgenthau that the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund could be utilized in the purchase of silver.

Wheat closed unstable, 5/8-1 1/8 under yesterday's finish, July 76¼ @76⅜; corn, ¼-⅝ off; oats, ⅛-¼ down, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to an equal gain.

Youngstown Mills At High for Year

YOUNGSTOWN, May 3.—Youngstown district steel plants, at 62 per cent of capacity, are at the highest level this year. Fifty-five of 83 open-hearth furnaces are melting in the district, compared to 54 last Monday, and at least one more furnace is likely to begin producing steel by the end of the week.

From present indications, Youngstown operations will be at 64 per cent or higher within 10 days. Last summer's peak and the highest rate in the last four years, was 67 per cent in last July.

Silver Continues Upward Movement

NEW YORK, May 3.—(AP.)—A flurry of buying in silver futures lifted prices around ¾ cent an ounce during the early dealings today. The revival in trading interest was attributed partly to the move of Senator Thomas for silver amendment to a Senate measure providing for loans to industry.

Fostering Hatred Unwise

By B. C. FORBES

WHAT USEFUL purpose does Washington hope to attain by continuously striving to stir up animosity against the employing classes?

Is the idea that, if enough mud can be thrown at, enough ill-will incited against everybody in the business and financial world, the politicians will succeed in getting themselves regarded holier - than - thou saints, lily-white, incapable of graft or anything non-angelic?

Mr. Forbes

The latest outpouring from Washington calculated to arouse public resentment takes the form of publishing minutest details of the profits earned by stock brokers and investment-banker members of the stock exchanges.

Never is there offered by the politicians or bureaucrats the slightest explanation which might give the public a fuller understanding of the net meaning of trouble-breeding figures. Probably not one brokerage firm in 10 is better off financially today than it was half a dozen years ago. The shrinkage in their profits, in their assets, in the value of their stock exchange memberships has been in line with the shrinkage in the possessions of most of the rest of us.

ARE ALL classes to have their private affairs delved into by the politicians and spread before the country? The public have been regaled with publication of the salaries of business executives, with the amount of silver dealt in and owned by banks and others, the profits of individuals and private firms connected with all security exchanges.

The Ashland (O.) Times Gazette observes:

"Washington has been doing considerable prying into salaries of bankers and big business executives. It is only fair that the investigation of bonuses and salaries be extended to include labor union leaders. There is no reason why they should be immune from such publicity."

Anyone who watched the May Day parades in New York—miles and miles and miles of them—and who noted carefully the myriads of revolutionary banners and placards carried, could not fail to reach the conclusion that there is no little discontent in this country, no little desire to overthrow our existing social order.

If they are, why do they exhaust their mentality to think up new ways and means to inflame the have-nots against the haves? Why do they so assiduously seek to fan class hostility?

WOULD NOT Washington and all in it better serve the country at this juncture by earnestly striving to bring about harmony rather than hatred, co-operation rather than recrimination, understanding rather than misunderstanding?

Expose rascality, yes, whether in high places or low, whether in capital or labor, whether in business or politics—the latter does not seem to have been entirely guiltless of wrongdoing.

But surely it is incalculably unwise to go to abnormal lengths gratuitously to incite Socialism, Communism or other un-American revolutionary isms.isms.

U. S. Beats Market For 10 Million On Securities

WASHINGTON, May 3.—A profit of approximately $10,000,000 has been made by the Federal government in connection with its purchases of government securities for account of Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and various other investment accounts, Secretary Morgenthau stated this morning.

Silk Mills to Suspend Production for Week

NEW YORK, May 3.—(AP.)—The code authority of the silk textile industry has ordered a complete suspension of production for the week of May 14-21.

Peter Van Horn, chairman of the authority, said "members of the industry were most reluctant to take this action but could not do otherwise in the face of drastically reduced selling prices and increased operating expense as a result of the 32 per cent increase in wages paid to labor in the silk industry" since the code became effective.

The wage increase, according to Mr. Van Horn, had amounted to $14,000,000 annually.

The shutdown, he said, besides helping the market, should "help the industry to continue to pay code wages, spread employment more fairly and insure the gains which labor has already made."

The curtailment will effect about 900 mills and 30,000 workers.

FUTURE MARKET DEPENDS UPON WASHINGTON

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University

NEW YORK, May 3.—The stock market is now in a doubtful and hesitant position. Wall street is inclined to be somewhat pessimistic, but is so uncertain of developments at Washington that it is not actively so.

Probably the course of the market during the next few weeks depends more on what Washington does than on anything else. If Washington now pushes the various measures for controlling business and leans back on its former inflationary tendencies, the market will work lower. If Washington soft pedals restrictive measures and steps up its spending policies, stocks will soon rally.

Broadly considered, the market spurted last January on the adoption of a huge spending program by the government and the "devaluation" of the dollar. Then, after sagging back in March, it climbed up again on the basis of the spring rise in business and anticipation of "something doing" for silver.

Now it is in process of abandoning all the rise thus made. The rise was due to inflation prospects and to hopes that the business pump would be primed. As doubts concerning both have become intensified reactions in the market have wiped out the gains.

SOME BACK TO 1933

It is of some interest, too, to note that the more comprehensive averages are back to about where they stood in early June, 1933. They were swept up to that level, first, by abandoning the gold standard and by the Thomas inflation bill, and then by the resumption of "open market operations" (to inflate bank credit) and the repudiation of gold clauses in bonds.

Chickie's Daughter

By ELENORE MEHERIN

CHAPTER LX.

That Thursday morning as Pippin wandered about her room, lonely and spent, yet too excited to sleep, Edward phoned. He asked her to have lunch with him. This was most unusual and left her with a bright, restless alarm.

Edward was very formal and escorted her with great dignity to the corner table in a small restaurant.

"Kathleen told me you finished your finals, Tuesday. It's so odd you've become such a student, Pippin."

"Yes, darling, after the way you used to worry! We rather cheated you, didn't we?"

"I was pretty callow, I suppose."

"But you made grand speeches, Edward. I remember once you said emotion is like water tumbling down hill—once it leaps over the precipice there's no stop till it hits bottom—usually in the mud. I'm afraid your warnings have kept me pure!"

He had a troubled, preoccupied air and answered absently: "A person is born wtih certain qualities but it's largely a matter of circumstances whether you go one way or another."

He sat there, glancing at his plate and nervously tearing a muffin to bits. Edward was dark with a forehead intelligent but too high, a nose arched at the bridge and long. But he had fine, piercing black eyes that were now humble, angry and pleading.

"Edward, why did you ask me to lunch? You wanted to talk of something?"

Asked to Be Bridesmaid

"It seems awfully ridiculous, Pippin. Yet somehow it's important. You see—Sonia wants to be married in white and wear a veil. She wants her sister for maid of honor."

He hesitated, cut his steak into long strips, laid down the knife and looked helplessly at Pippin.

"And don't you want that kind of a wedding, Edward?"

"Oh, I don't care what kind of a wedding she has. Sonia's never had anything romantic or picturesque or even exciting in her life so she craves a pretty wedding. Kevin will stand up with me, of course, and mother will give us a reception afterwards or some sort of cheer. But you know Kathleen! She doesn't like Sonia."

Pippin's mouth remained parted in an astonished: "Oh!" She checked a wild impulse to laugh giddily.

"Will you do it, Pippin? Sonia's sister will wear a rose-colored dress and she'd like you and Kathleen to wear pink. You think I'm idiotic, don't you, Pippin?"

She thought: "Not idiotic, Edward, just heart-breaking!" But she said only: "It's sad you feel people are against you, and it's sweet of you to want Sonia to have her own way about things."

Edward said bitterly: "If you and Kathleen would give her a chance you'd see there's something fine and lovable about Sonia. Don't you think she has nice table manners?"

Recalls Manners

"Yes, unusually nice."

She recalled that Sonia ate very slowly and with a mincing daintiness. Sonia had far better table manners than many others, but it infuriated both Pippin and Kathleen to see her toying and struggling with a leaf of lettuce which they would simply double up on their fork and demolish in one forthright, gusty bite.

"You've not said a word, Pippin. You don't tell me whether you will or you won't."

"Of course I'll be a bridesmaid!"

"What about Kathleen?"

"She will too. I'll fix it up—I'm sure I can."

So there would really be this marriage! No one could save Edward from throwing his good, young life away. And all Mary's hopes would be mocked.

Pippin went up to her father's office, where she sat on a stool before her microscope, brooding and forlorn. She saw Kevin in the hall. He nodded and passed on. This intensified her lonely mood.

Long after 6 when only a few patients remained and these were waiting for David, Kevin came in and drew up a stool beside her.

He said, teasing: "I didn't expect you until tomorrow. Isn't Bill leaving today?"

"Yes, he's gone already."

"Oh, I see. Where is he going to be stationed, Pippin?"

"He's resigning from the Navy."

"Oh, resigning? What does he plan to do?"

"He's going into aviation on his own. I don't know just what his plans will be."

Stricken Note in Voice

"Yes."

"Returning for you, Pippin?"

The blood dashed into her pale cheeks, but she said in an even, metallic tone and not raising her eyes: "Why should he be returning for me, Kevin?"

"I think that would be an excellent reason for returning." He pulled the microscope toward him and looked intently at the slide. After a long moment he said: "How are you getting along, Pippin? A little out of practice?"

"I don't know."

Her voice was quiet and held a stricken note. Kevin glanced up sharply, saw the dark circles under her eyes and that her hair lay flat to her head and lacked the bright, silky shine which made him always want to crumple it in his fist.

He said with sudden vehemence: "You're very tired, aren't you?"

"I'm not a bit tired."

But he added abruptly: "What time did Bill go?"

"He left before 6 this morning."

"Oh, that early? Did you go down to wave him off?"

"Yes, I did."

"What! You got out of bed at 4 o'clock and drove down to Palo Alto alone?"

"Certainly! Why not?"

He looked suddenly with a direct and furious challenge into her eyes. A dark flush spread up to his temples, but he said only: "You had better go home and get some sleep. You probably got none at all last night."

He stood up and shoved the stool under the table. He glanced down as he did this and saw her lowered eyes with the lashes black on her pale cheeks; a trembling on her lips which she had forgotten to rouge. She was not radiant and lovely now. Yet her attitude touched him deeply. She looked hurt and very pathetic.

Discuss Edward

He said, softened: "I guess it was a hard day for you, Pippin. You feel let down, don't you, after all the happy excitement? You'll be so lonely."

"I'm not let down because Bill is gone. I had a good time. I'm not weeping because it's over."

"But you do look very sad."

"It's because of Edward." She told him about the luncheon. "So he's really going to marry Sonia! Nothing can be done about it."

"Were you hoping it would be prevented?"

"Of course I was! Could anyone who loves Edward see him step into that without heartbreak?"

"Do you think, Pippin, that one person can alter the life of another? Or has any right to so alter it? We can badger and annoy and frustrate them, but in the end the claim is theirs, and they model it alone, as they must."

She said hotly: "No one models his life alone! We are all so interwoven that it is even a question whether I am a separate individual. On all sides the thoughts of others cut in. Why, we're like radio receiving sets; a thousand unknown vibrations over which we have no earthly control come humming in on us. What are we? Where are we? How ridiculous to say that anyone is master of his fate! A man I have never seen may drink too much and run me down with an automobile; he may run down a mother and the lives of her children are inexorably altered."

Can't Save Him

"He's letting her do it. Of course we're not free and separate! I merely meant that you and I cannot save Edward. We can talk and fight but we won't change his reactions. Outside of an automobile smash, earthquakes, and other accidents, each person functions according to a certain pattern or habit. You can't change that—certainly not in an adult of Edward's strength!"

Pippin said sadly: "Kathleen says it's his strength—his scrupulous sense of honor that is driving him into this marriage!"

He looked at her quietly: "Does she say that? Isn't that a large judgment for a third party to make? And a cruel one?"

He leaned down, looked in her face. For just a moment an odd, half-mocking, half-mirthful flicker rippled from his dark, deepset, and to her, most beautiful, eyes. "It's too bad she decided on pink. You look so lovely in blue!"

She rested for a moment in his gaze—then got up quickly and reached for her coat.

Nearly a week passed. Pippin saw him every day. Several times he called her into his laboratory, explained interesting cases. Once they had lunch together. But he never touched her. He didn't ask her to go out. It seemed almost a dream he had ever kissed her and she had thought happily, with wild, overwhelming joy: "He loves me!"

David explains to her what really happened and Pippin is again happy. Chickie tells Pippin the real story of her life. Pippin goes on hikes with Gregg McClintock, senior at college. She then returns to college and has Vivian Drake as a room mate. Vivian's love affair with Sherry wanes. Vivian disappears and sends a suicide note. Kevin returns. Edward's family and Pippin disapprove of his choice of a bride. Kevin kisses Pippin while on skiing party. Kevin disappoints Pippin, but saves a man's life. Bill arrives home and takes Pippin on airplane trip. They're forced to land in desolate country. They finally find a house and are driven back to town.

PRESIDENT R. B. HAYES AND CABINET—FINISHING THE RECONSTRUCTION OF THE SOUTH

Soon after his inauguration, President Hayes removed the federal troops from southern doubtful states, whereupon the "elected" Republican governors withdrew, leaving their offices to the elected Democrats.

KING WILLIAM I, MEETS CAPTURED FRENCH EMPEROR NAPOLEON III

By 1870 Bismarck had strengthened the German confederacy sufficiently for the test with France. Opportunity arose when unpopular Queen Isabella of Spain abdicated and Prince Leopold of Hohenzollern—upon invitation—declared his willingness to take the Spanish Crown. Napoleon III, French emperor, rebuked him and with it the Prussian dynasty. Bismarck published this in the spirit of challenge, and Napoleon III, to "save the national honor," declared war on the Germans in 1870 (the Franco-Prussian War). A French Army under command of MacMahon surrendered at Sedan. Napoleon was taken prisoner. The French people, deposing him, proclaimed a republic; the war continued and Paris yielded only after long siege (1871).

PLANTING TREE ON CAPITOL GROUNDS

Boy Scouts of America bought a young walnut tree from George Washington's home at Mount Vernon, Va., and planted it before the Capitol. Dr. A. F. Woods puts on the first shovel of earth. With every tree planted, we not only improve the land, but erect a living monument of beauty.

THE HOUSE OF SEVEN GABLES

This story has the same dreamy atmosphere that characterizes Nathaniel Hawthorne's other novels. It presents the struggles of unmerited misfortune against prosperous crime, the former reaping the final victory.

Hepzibah Pyncheon, a poor spinster, lives in the old homestead, "The House of Seven Gables," by keeping a cent shop. Her brother, Clifford, was imprisoned by machinations of his cousin, Judge Pyncheon. Clifford's persecution ends with the sudden death of the hypocrite judge, whose wealth they inherit. With help of young Holgrave, a modern self-reliant American, Clifford is rehabilitated.

The romance of the bright little country flower, Phoebe Pyncheon, and Holgrave brings sunshine in the declining years of brother and sister. (American Literature) (68 III A)

PIG IRON

CUPOLA FURNACE—CAST IRON

Product of blast furnace, pig iron (left) is raw material of iron products which divide into three chief classes: Cast iron, steel and wrought iron.

Cast iron, characterized mainly by a carbon content of 2½-3%, is made in the cupola furnace (above). Pig iron is charged in layers with coke; air is blown in through tuyeres; part of the carbon and impurities of the pig iron are burned, the molten cast iron collecting in the crucible. Tapped into ladles, it is poured into sand molds to form articles not exposed to tensile (elongating) stresses or shock, cast iron being brittle.

No Nudes Are Good Nudes

The seventh sons of seventh sons who are gifted with second sight are quitting the fortune telling racket and joining nudist colonies.

It's summer now. The old clothes men are lurking in the suburbs. All they get in the city are coats and hats. But around the nudist corrals they get the entire wardrobe.

There has been an attempt to stop this sort of caper by law. There is no restricting paragraph in the Constitution of the United States. The ancestors who started the 13 colonies clothed in independence, liberty and fresh air never thought there would be a fourteenth colony clothed in exactly the same ingredients.

The writer fails to see how air and hornets improve the health. Sunburned shoulderblades and swollen ankles are not beautiful. Bunions and moles have neither the design nor the intricate sweep of a Grecian fret or an Egyptian frieze.

From time immaterial man has worn some kind of garment to protect him from the changes in temperature and the chilling breezes. The wind has always been tempered to the shorn lamb. But not when he shaves himself.

Modesty is still supreme in the average taxpayer. You may call it coyness or you may label it bashfulness. The bird has its feathers and the turtle its shell. But there are no sewing classes in nudist colonies.

Anybody who tries to start one of those peeled brigades within a mile of our house is going to absorb a load of rocksalt from Daniel Boone's ancient musket. Old Man Baer is a sharpshooter and could shoot the spot out of the ace of diamonds long before the doctors told Sitting Bull he had occupational rheumatism.

You ain't right just because the law fails to state you ain't wrong. When we see a nudist tiptoeing through the tulips he had better put something on and we don't mean cellophane.

If you are wrecked on a raft in midocean it is all right to fly your underwear at half mast. But, when you are safe in a daisy field the law expects you to wear it.

We realize the tenor of this article is mostly baritone muttering. Nevertheless, it is a warning to nudists to heed. When passing the Baer ranch either swim by under water or join the blanket Indians.

League Court Snares

Resolutions Committing the United States to Adherence Are Tricky.

The fact that the resolutions approving adherence by the United States to the World Court remain in committee is a good sign.

It is fair to infer that at least some members of the Senate perceive the dire confusion in which this whole question is involved and shrink from precipitating it upon the Senate under the conditions of haste and pressure which invariably prevail at the wind-up of a session.

The truth of the matter is that the whole subject has become so bedeviled by reservations, understandings, conditions, cross-reservations, interpretative statements, protocols of signature, protocols of accession, protocols for the revision of the statute of the permanent court, preliminary drafts, revised drafts, and goodness knows what else, that no two students of the situation can agree on what the situation is.

All who have studied the question, however, are agreed that whatever the final will of the Senate may be, it is clear that the resolutions now before it as the basis of its action MUST BE REDRAFTED.

A further point on which candid students of the record agree is that the right of the United States to withdraw from the court and its right to determine for itself whether any question in which it is interested, shall be submitted to the court are NOT conceded or secured.

This will strike most members of the Senate with surprise. It has been generally assurred, since the Senate made declaration of the reservations, understandings and conditions on which it would approve the court, that all that has subsequently taken place has been in the direction of accepting the reservations.

As a matter of fact, just the contrary is the truth. The five reservations, two understandings and one condition set forth in the Senate's resolutions of 1926, have been whittled away and superseded by conditions and understandings of diametrically opposite tenor.

There is a strange and dangerous failure of the Senate to appreciate this. It seems not to realize that it does not discern the true outlines of the question at the present time.

For instance, on June 1, 1932, the late Senator Walsh, of Montana, and Senator Fess, in submitting the resolutions for our adherence to the court, set forth "the clear understanding of the United States that the Permanent Court of International Justice SHALL NOT, WITHOUT THE CONSENT OF THE UNITED STATES, entertain any request for an advisory opinion touching any dispute or question in which the United States has or claims an interest."

This understanding has been disclaimed in toto by the signatories of the World Court statute. There is not even a pretense of its acceptance by them as a condition of our adherence to the court.

The will of the Senate set forth in this important proviso has been flouted and ignored. Is the Senate aware of this?

Then again, one of the Senate resolutions provides that our ratification is "with the understanding that recourse to the Permanent Court of International Justice for the settlement of differences between the United States and any other state or states CAN BE HAD ONLY BY AGREEMENT thereto through general or special treaties concluded BETWEEN THE PARTIES IN DISPUTE."

This is another understanding on our part which EXISTS ON OUR PART ONLY and has been disavowed and rejected by the signatories of the World Court statute.

Furthermore, it is provided in the resolutions now awaiting report by the Senate committee that our adherence shall not "be construed to imply a relinquishment by the United States of its traditional attitude toward purely American questions."

This refers to the Monroe Doctrine. It is not even referred to in the so-called protocal of accession which the Senate is asked to ratify.

And its omission was not through oversight. The United States was even SCOLDED by the advisory committee of jurists which met at The Hague, for referring to the Monroe Doctrine as a purely American question on which the United States had no intention of receding from its traditional position.

"The Monroe Doctrine," said M. de la Pradelle, of France, "was the expression of American nationalism which had assumed a continental form unknown to European countries. NO SURRENDER CAN BE MADE TO THIS NATIONALISM. Rather must an effort be made TO MAKE THE UNITED STATES UNDERSTAND that great nations MUST NOT LIMIT themselves TO BEING CONTINENTAL; they MUST take THEIR OWN PROPER PLACE IN THE WORLD."

The Senate of the United States had better wake up and count its money—to fall back on a phrase sometimes used to recall the hazy and absent-minded. In other words, let the Senate brush the cobwebs from its eyes and face the actualities of this question before it takes another step into the tangle of confusion which envelopes the question of America's adherence to the court.

The Senate in its reservations started out to do what it could to placate the pacifist sentiment for the court as theoretically a means of averting war. The pacifist mind is emotional, not rational. It plucks at unreality. It cannot be made to see what such hugger-muggery as speaks through these various protocols—of amendment, of signature, and of adhesion—is the very soil out of which war springs, because it starts us out on conflicts and inconsistencies which are beyond reason's power to resolve.

With this, hardly more than a gesture—in mind, the Senate sought to preserve our traditional position as to the Monroe Doctrine and other purely American questions.

It sought to protect us against the rendition of advisory opinions on questions in which we were interested, except when unanimously asked of the court.

It thought it had safeguarded, beyond all doubt or dispute, our right of withdrawal from the court.

IN EACH AND EVERY ONE OF THESE VITAL MATTERS THE SENATE HAS FAILED!

The question of our adherence now comes to the Senate stripped of every reservation, understanding and condition which the Senate deemed of prime importance.

Under such circumstances the proposal that we join the World Court is a proposal ripe for killing!

This should be its certain fate in the Senate, unless the COMMITTEE on Foreign Relations IS SUFFICIENTLY ALERT AND PATRIOTIC to KILL IT BEFORE IT REACHES THE SENATE!

A Clean City

Adults Would Do Well to Emulate the Boys and Girls of the Schools

The Chamber of Commerce reports that 192,000 public and parochial school students of Pittsburgh and Allegheny County are taking part in the eighth annual "Clean-Up, Paint-Up" campaign under the Chamber's auspices. Honor to them!

The efforts of all these boys and girls to beautify their home communities by doing little job of cleaning, painting and planting are bound to have an impressive effect.

"Soak the rich!"

But facts and figures prove that the income tax does NOT soak the rich.

It soaks THE THRIFTY—both the thrifty business enterprise and the thrifty worker—and it drives surplus capital out of productive undertakings into tax-exempt securities.

Congress should heed the warning issued Monday by the Committee on Federal Taxation of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Asserting that the income tax system is on the verge of a breakdown, the committee said:

"In view of the dependence which has been placed on it, the breakdown of the income tax would be disastrous to the Government from the revenue standpoint.

"Danger of such a breakdown has ALREADY APPEARED."

Instead of the racketeering income tax system the country should adopt the GENERAL MANUFACTURERS' SALES TAX, which Canada has found to be equitable and effective.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 3.—In a world poised on a pinnacle of doubt, there is a heart-twisting calm among the lees of a Bowery mission. Here are men who have reached the zero of despair, a blur of human kelp, and yet the majority have faith. They have not lost the will to hope.

Every mission, of course, has its large percentage of chronic drifters, resisting all currents for betterment. But there is a surprising quota of those who, having touched bottom, expect to rise again. I stopped in at the evening services of Hadley's Rescue Hall recently.

Cracked voices were singing a familiar hymn while a few in postures of fatigue and bad booze slumped on the benches. At the testimony period a stalwart middle-aged fellow, with a Scotch burr, stood up. His fervor seemed to burn away the dull tissues and ember a symbol of promise.

He had been a drunkard and in many prisons. But for eight months he had lived straight. That day he had made 60 cents at some odd job. The first work in five weeks. Once he had made $1,000 a year. He would again. He felt it so tremendously that somehow you believed he would.

From the Bowery I invaded the warren of mean, dirty streets that tangle and skirl about Brooklyn Bridge. Under the bridge arches clutters of outcasts were brewing the Americanized version of the pot au feu known as Mulligan stew. In a group about one blaze, an exhorter in a liquid exiled manner was expounding a doctrine I suspect was communistic. I edged a curb and listened respectfully. His anger at capitalism was venemous.

* * *

I am, you hoo, a bit put out at capitalism myself. Yet there is one institution that has grown up among it for which I forgive much. Ladies and gentlemen, the red-fronted five-and-ten-cent store! Here is the great American leveler in which Mrs. Vincent Astor rubs elbows with Gertie Murphy of Avenue A. The brilliantly-lit five-and-ten is not only the most democratic institution the capitalistic system has reared, but is good fun at little cost.

Someone who should know tells me that since Henry L. Mencken cut loose from an editorial chair his income has tripled. Magazine editors, knowing of his new freedom, deluged him with offers to write his own ticket—that is they would welcome whatever he sent on any subject. He is a prolific turner-out of copy, loves to write, and as he is no poor shakes of a business man the sheckels have been pouring in. Or so it is said.

The bierstuble section of Yorkville along Eighty-sixth street has not been vanquished by repeal nor has the garish electric glitter outside lost its dazzle but customers are coy and reluctant—mostly stolid family beer sippers in the neighborhood. In its opulence the made-over houses, with their gaudy Bavarian fronts and waiters in short leather pants and yodel hats, were jammed nightly with downtown stay-outs. They were the sort who had reached the stage of intoxication wherein they enjoyed singing the repetitious inanity known as the Schnitzelbank. That means you're ossified.

Chic Sale has cleaned up a tidy sum in a vaudeville barn-storming of the Puget Sound country . . . King Carol, of Rumania, subscribes to four American press clipping bureaus . . . James Montgomery Flagg, who has sketched more beautiful women than any artist of his time, still blushes . . . Gladys Swarthout, young Metropolitan singer, is a product of Deep Water, Mo. . . . Because I walk along the streets usually lost in muttering abstractions, I often put on a sidewalk humoresque that should yank me before a lunac. board. Last dusk near Brentano's, on Forty-seventh street, I was wondering just what the European topple had done to Rene, ex-clown of the Cirque Medrano so long conducting that pert little toy botique in the rue des Petits Champs. Only the day before a letter from him said he would like to become a valet in America. So in my strolling fancy I had employed him: "Never," I must have said out loud, "touch my desk!" And a feminine voice from a shadowy doorway trilled, "Or papa'll spank!" No bat out of the bad place ever rounded a corner faster.

ISN'T IT SO?

When one woman tells another about the troubles she has with her dressmaker the other woman always has a tale twice as long to tell in return.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

Wish for Something!

Always there is a wish going on inside you.

No matter who you are, or what you are doing, always there is a wish going on inside you—turning, twisting, reaching out blindly toward something greater, something more free and proud and powerful than your present life.

It is not a definite wish. You cannot put it into words. You FEEL rather than THINK it, and sometimes that feeling is deeply overlaid with the rush of your outside life. But always the wish goes on inside you, night and day—like a wild song, crying, crying—like a wild wind, flying, flying.

So your life comes to nothing, in spite of you continual wishing for greater things. Outwardly you are busy. You work furiously at many jobs. You boast that "there isn't a lazy bone in your body." You take chances; spare no effort to make good; yet your life comes to nothing.

YOUR LIFE COMES TO NOTHING BECAUSE 75 PER CENT OF ITS ENERGY AND INITIATIVE IS WASTED.

That wish which is always going on inside you is the most important part of your life. All your outward assets and activities which seem so important, are trivial in comparison with that inner urgency. Your strong body, with its muscles and organs—your physical health—your mental preparedness—your education—your social position—your job—your political pull—all these things, which seem so valuable to you, are trivial beside that secret wonder and restlessness which possess you.

That impulse, which spends itself fruitlessly in so many directions—in day dreams, in self-pity, in a tumult of imaginary rebellions and triumphs—is actually the mainspring of your life. It is your most valuable asset, your fiercest force. With it you could accomplish miracles—IF YOU WOULD USE IT AS A FORCE.

But you don't!

Chances are, you never even thought of it as a force. All your life a wish has been going on inside you, but you h. thought it "just one of those things." You have never considered it seriously—never tried to control or direct it—never tried to shape it into any definite purpose or power.

IT CAN BE DONE.

That inner urgency can be concentrated, controlled, trained, directed, just as your muscles can be controlled and directed. When you are still a baby you learn how to reach, how to clutch with your hands without fumbling or stumbling, without lost motion.

BY EXACTLY THE SAME USE OF WILL POWER YOU CAN TRAIN YOURSELF HOW TO REACH, HOW TO CLUTCH, WITH YOUR MIND. YOU CAN TRAIN YOUR WISHES JUST AS YOU CAN TRAIN YOUR HANDS.

IT HAS BEEN DONE.

Every human being who has ever amounted to anything has had to do it. No man or woman ever achieved any sort of success by OUTWARD EFFORTS, OUTWARD CONTACTS. They achieve success by harnessing that wish which was going on inside them—BY PUTTING THAT WISH TO WORK.

Successful men and women must face something much harder than the sacrifice of pleasure or leisure. They must sacrifice their inner wildness—their inner laziness and haziness—their secret day dreams and tantrums. And that secret sacrifice and control is the cruelest discipline on earth. But no life amounts to anything without it.

That is why great scientists, great artists, engineers, statesmen, adventurers and merchants ACCOMPLISH SOMETHING. They use ALL their lives. Their inner forces work for them as hard and as constantly as their outer forces.

"Oh, it's easy enough for people like that to make good," you say, enviously. "They've got talent! Their wishes mean something. But look at me! I haven't any talent. What chance have I? I'm just a common mutt!"

That may be so. Most of us are common mutts. But the wishes of a genius would accomplish no more than the wishes of a common mutt—if he let them scatter. And a common mutt can work as great a miracle with his life as a genius—IF HE WILL PUT HIS WISH-FORCE TO WORK.

Meaning what? Meaning that YOU can start living that great life which you desire TODAY—THIS HOUR—if you will get busy and do a job on yourself. It may be futile to wish for genius, but you can achieve those qualities which make for great living IF YOU WILL CONCENTRATE ON WISHING FOR THOSE QUALITIES, INSTEAD OF DRIFTING IN DAYDREAMS, WALLOWING IN SELF-PITY, WASTING YOUR LIFE ON RESENTMENT.

You may never be able to build a bridge, write a book or boss a nation, partner. BUT IF YOU WILL USE THE SECRET WISH-FORCE WHICH YOU ARE NOW WASTING, YOU CAN MAKE A FULL ADVENTURE OF YOUR LIFE. YOU CAN FIND AND GIVE PLEASURE, POWER AND PEACE. And the secret is simple.

Wish for SOMETHING—instead of just wishing!

For his anger endureth but a moment; in his favour is life: weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning—Psalms, xxx: 5.

Human Side of the News

Many Queer Thefts Have Been Reported, But the Disappearance of a Railroad Caps the Climax

By Edwin C. Hill

BURGLARS in Brooklyn walk away with a 400-pound safe. Thieves in the West make away with a freight car full of silk. Still another instance of heavyweight larceny which pops to mind is the stealthy removal, in the dead of night, of a marble monument from a graveyard, total weight more than a ton. But there are other innumerable instances of such curious crime, as Popular Science Monthly tells us.

On a bright sunny morning, the manager of a Long Island, New York, golf club began his round of inspection. He whistled as he walked over the velvety fairway. Then the sun seemed to stop shining, at least for the manager. His fifth green, his favorite, was gone. Two detectives, after four days of work, found that lost green. It was found neatly stacked in a cemetery, miles from the golf course. The thrifty keeper had purchased the truckloads from some young man, he said. And that was that.

Last winter some unusual jobs were pulled off. A quantity of ice was stolen from a city reservoir in New York state. The ice was expeditiously harvested and removed—a cool job, if there ever was one. And who could hope to identify ice as his own property? Following close on this theft, Boston thieves lifted half a million razor blades from a garage, where they were stored awaiting shipment. Sharpers along a different line caused an unexpected drought some months ago. In the dead of night they carried away a half-mile of lead pipe from the Enfield, Mass., water system.

A Million Barrels Of Oil Stolen

A MILLION barrels of crude oil is another item on this list of bigger and bolder robberies. Not long ago, Texas rangers placed a dozen men under arrest in the East Texas oil fields on a charge of tapping pipe lines from five wells and stealing that amount of crude oil.

Two million wasps formed the strange loot of thieves in another large scale robbery in California. The insects, known as gall wasps, were stolen from the fig ranch of Dr. H. C. Moore, near Merced. These insects, which produce balls on the leaves of oak trees, are bred in large numbers for use in the fig orchards where, in laying their eggs, they fertilize the blossoms by carrying pollen from flower to flower.

For sheer nerve it would be difficult to outrival the "live-wire" thieves of Michigan. Last October officials of the Consumers Power Company were dumfounded when told that 150 miles of copper wire had vanished from the high tension lines between Grand Rapids and Marshall. The lines at the time were carrying a heavy load of current. The robbers must have climbed the steel towers, risking instant death, to cut loose the heavy wires.

Stealing a single automobile is no longer profitable, because three out of four are recovered by detectives. But taking a job lot is another matter. A patrolman in Newark, N. J., stopped on his beat to admire the bright new cars in a large showroom. When, some hours later, he again passed the windows, every car had vanished. Fifteen of them, the entire stock, had been removed, and the lock was unbroken. That would have been a good case for Sherlock Holmes himself.

Last spring Joseph A. Fuerstamn, a lawyer, of Newark, N. J., had a most weird experience. He repaired his two-and-one-half-story frame house, built a new fence around it and offered it for rent. A month later when he went to look at it he found only the cellar left.

A Tree in Bloom Stolen From Lawn

But all these instances of thievery fade into insignificance before the exploits of European masters. In one small country, a firm was employed to build a tunnel in territory formerly Austrian. For seven years regular reports showed the progress of the tunnel, men employed, material removed, and so on. The government paid the contract price, and at the grand opening officials found a few workmen cleaning up the debris. The tunnel was there and the contractors were congratulated.

An engineer, celebrating too boisterously the completion of his arduous task, proved the undoing of these "contractors." He revealed that the tunnel had been dug years previously by Austrian and German troops, who had abandoned it when the war front shifted. The firm had received five and a half million dollars for digging a hole in the ground that already existed.

If that seems incredible, what of the discovery announced by the Prime Minister of Rumania? He reported that an entire railroad—rails, ties, switches, spikes, even rolling stock and signal system—had completely disappeared. Constructed in wartime from Cluj, Transylvania, to Jacobeni, Rumania, it cost almost four million dollars. Apparently it had been dismantled piecemeal and the parts sold without exciting suspicion.

Election Cost Could Be Greatly Reduced

By James T. Williams, Jr.

MAY is the month which really opens the election season of 1934. Six states hold their primaries this month—for representatives in Congress and several for United States Senator, for Governor and for other offices.

In every one of these states the cost of elections will be far in excess of what it ought to be. And the same will be true of the other 42 states which will hold their primaries between the end of May and the autumn—all to nominate candidates to be voted for in the November elections.

An informing study of the cost of elections has just been published by the Brookings Institution. It appears under the title of "election administration in the United States" and is the work of Dr. Joseph P. Harris, professor of political science in the University of Washington. Concerning the amount of money wasted annually by our political bosses in the conduct of elections this authority finds:

"The annual cost of holding elections throughout the country could and should be reduced from an estimated forty million dollars to ten million dollars, or from an average cost per vote of one dollar to 25 cents.

"With satisfactory methods there is no good reason why the cost could not be further reduced, but 25 cents is an attainable end. If the cost exceeds this amount, the laws regulating the elections, the personnel, and the administrative procedures should be altered to make it possible."

25 Cents Per Vote Too High Some Places

A STANDARD of 25 cents per vote is, of course, too high for smaller cities and rural communities. Dr. Harris finds that many such communities finance their election machinery at a lower cost.

For the largest cities he reports that "a higher cost than 25 cents per vote should be looked upon as excessive and a cost exceeding 50 cents per vote should be regarded as grossly excessive."

To cut down the cost of elections to a reasonable rate there must be a thorough revision of existing election laws in many states. Ohio is a state which offers a typical example of the unnecessarily high cost of elections under the laws now operating there. For 1930 the per capita cost of elections in Ohio, on the basis of total population, was 42 cents, when it ought to have been 25 cents or less.

While the cost per vote cast in Ohio is probably higher than that for the country, Dr. Harris tells you in his interesting book on the subject, the number of elections per year in that state is undoubtedly smaller than for the country as a whole. Many communities have an average of three elections per year instead of two, and very few states have fewer than an average of two elections annually.

Cost in Cities Varies Greatly

THERE is great variation between the cost of elections in the larger cities of the country. In New York City the average cost of an election per vote cast over a four-year period was $1.36. In Chicago it was only a cent less. In Boston it was 86 cents; in Detroit, 79 cents. In Baltimore it was the same as New York, $1.36. In Cleveland (Cuyahoga County) the cost went up to $1.45, and in the capital city of Ohio, Columbus (Franklin County), the election cost per vote was $2.13.

San Francisco spent in election costs $1.42 per vote cast, while Omaha was spending for the same purpose 62 cents, and Milwaukee, 56 cents.

The politicians are largely to blame for the excessive cost of elections today. These average well over $1 per vote cast when they ought not to average over 25 cents per vote cast. Two-thirds of the total cost of elections in the majority of cities is the payment of personnel.

By divorcing the election administration from the control of pork barrel politicians by the consolidation and reduction of county units of government and by the shortening of the state and local ballots the general cost of government can be reduced by millions of dollars and other millions now squandered by politicians can be expended for public schools and other needed public agencies.

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

Sleep Song

Weaver of nets, all dusky-dim
Like skies of midnight with stars a-brim,
Stars in your nets as in heaven's abide,
Heart's desires by the day denied.
Sleep, weave softly a fair design
Of shade and of stars for tired eyes of mine!

Weaver of nets which a while ensnare
Minds and bodies beset by care,
Out of day's conflict bringing them peace,
Opening vistas of glad release.
Sleep, weave swiftly a rare design
Of rest and of dream for this heart of mine!
